COMPLETE PLANS ARE LAID

of their assembly in a resolution accepting the duties of the campaign.

"Oregon accepts the trust," the resolution declared, "and the obligation im lution declared, "and the obligation imposed by the National Government in the sale of the war savings stamps. Oregon will go over the top in the quota of $17,500,000 by June 28, and Oregon will in this, or any other service contributory to the winning of the war, strive to do more than the state is asked to, and always in less than the time prescribed."

Pledges to Be Asked.

By special proclamation of the President, all citizens will be called to assemble in the school house of their district, on the afternoon of June 28, where war savings societies will be organized and where individual piedges, according to the ability of the purchaser, will be made for the fulfillment of the war savings atoms quots.

It was this plan that was presented to yesterday's convention for discussion and for the working out of details attendant upon its success. County chairmen and workers were instructed in specific detail and the general state conference of the forencon was fol-lowed by section conferences and Conlowed by section conferences and Congressional district conferences.

By personal solicitation an attempt will be made to conclude the war stamp drive in Portiand in one day, the school district programme being impossible of execution here. In all other districts the school-house meetings will be held for the pledging of county outsite.

Children Give Experiences.

It remained for four small school children of Portland, all of them "gen ender of Portland, all of them generals" in the war savings stamp crusade, to fire the enthusiasm of the delegates yesterday afternoon. Each of the four stepped to the rostrum and told how they had sold more than $1000 in war stamps. Applause greeted the young crusaders.

Edith Jackson, 9 years old, of Couch School, had sold $1258 worth of stamps. Alice Stein, 11 years old, of Ladd School, had sold $1100.

Martha Dixon, 10 years old, of Ladd chool, has sold $1025. Harry Cowie, 10 years old, of Ladd chool, had sold $1150. School, had sold $1150.
C. N. Wonacott, associate state director, and Henry E. Reed, Portland campaign manager, presided at the general session, where several addresses were delivered to the delegates general session, where several addresses were delivered to the delegates in emphasis of the importance of the DISLOYALTY CASES FIRST war stamp drive.

Appeal Is Made.

Among those who addressed the convention were W. P. La Roche, A. L. Mills, C. S. Jackson, state director for war savings; C. N. Wenacott, associate state director, and L. J. Simpson, chairman from the First Congressional Dis-

Rev. E. L. Pence delivered a stirring appeal, citing the significance of the war stamp in that its humble charac-ter placed it in touch with every home and every citizen of America.

Fisch speaker declared that Oregon must not be laggard in this latest phase of patriotic effort, but must maintain the position that she has held from the first in every call for service, whether for men or money.

Though approximately 400 delegates were present, the number of receipts for railroad fares was insufficient to entitle delegates to the reduced rate unexpected circumstance from the fact that many of the dele-gates traveled to Portland in their autos. Just six receipts were lacking of the requisite number to command the reduced rate.

Committees to Be Formed.

Committees will be organized in each school district of the state, and either a county conference or a series of dis-trict conferences will be held during the week of June 5 to 15 for the purpose of issuing instructions on the personal canvass for pleages and in-structions on conducting the school-house pleage meetings to be held on For five months the war stamp cam

For five months the war stamp campaign has been educational and sales have been comparatively small and on the retail order. The time for the wholesale purchase and delivery of war savings stamps is now at hand, and it is the purpose of the workers to, make June 25 memorable in the history of Oregon drives, when every citizen of the state will be allotted a quota and expected to assume it. Credit upon this quota will be given for all previous purchases of stamps.

The convention adopted several resolutions of thanks just prior to adjournment, expressing their gratitude to state officials of the campaign, and to the Elks' lodge for the use of their hall.

Enthusiasm at the convention ran high, and it was confidently predicted that Oregon would respond with a full quots on June 28.

Plans are being formulated for the annual inspection of police, which will take place about June 10. Captains Moore, Inskeep and Jenkius will start at once drilling the men for the various formations. The inspection will be staged at the Armory, where the public will be invited.

The Police Band having disbanded, it is probable the Multnomah Guard Band will furnish the music for the occasion. CHIEF OPERATOR DENIES Inough the Western Union employes had been warned individually and collectively that they would endanger their positions by attending this organization meeting, an official of the company said last night that "no one has been dismissed for attending the meeting."

Nothing Unusual, Says Chief. "Any employes that we have let go," stated William E. Brooks, chief opany simpleyes that we have let go, stated William E. Brooks, chief operator, "were dropped merely in the usual course of business."

Mr. Brooks it was who, in the discharge of his duties, had warned the company employes against having anything to do with the unionization movement.

Dismissal of the young women was attributed to errors they had made. Mr. Remlinger, who had been given an increase of $10 a month on May 15, was told the management was dissatisfied with the progress he was making in the Multiplex department, where he was an operator and plant chief.

New Job Quickly Obtnined,

Mr. Remlinger said last night that he had reported his dismissal to Presi-dent James R. Kelly, of the Portland Council. "After the first month I am to receive $127 salary," said Remlinger. "I go to work Thursday morning and would have gone on the job tomorrow morning if it were not a holiday."

Mrs. McKercher went to work last December for the Western Union as a Morse operator. Her pay, which was then $50, has since been increased to $65. In transmitting a message 16 days after she went to work for the Western Union she sent the word "bunch" instead of the word "buns."

"When he called me in to see him yesterday," asserted Mrs. McKercher, "Mr. Brooks wanted to know how I could work for the Western Union while I feel the way I do about unions.

"Then he told me I was being dropped because of that mistake back in December. I knew that was not the truth and asked him if he wasn't ashamed of himself for making such an excuse. Old Tactics, Says Organizer. "The Western Union is at its old tactics," declared D. Jones, organizer of the Commercial Telegraphers Union, who is here from Seattle.
"Though the Government officials have specifically asked the telegraph companies not to dismiss employes be-cause of union affiliations," he con tinued, "the Western Union is doing the same thing here it did in Scattle dropping all employes who favor or-ganization. There was quite a flurry yesterday in the Western Union office when word of the dismissals leaked out, particularly among the women. Mr. Kelly and I have emphatically ordered that there he no con certed action of any kind. There will certainly be no strike here, but the company may dismiss quite a lot of employes before the thing is over."
