

2964 NEW NAMES PLACED ON ROSTERS

Draft Registration Totals of State Expected to Aggregate 4000.

31 LOCAL BOARDS REPORT

Multnomah County Enrolls 1535 for Army Service—Wheeler Leads Outside Counties in Per Cent Listed.

Returns from 31 of the 45 local draft boards of the state yesterday showed that 2964 young men who had become of age since June 5, 1917, had been registered on the selective service lists Wednesday.

Estimates for the remaining 14 divisions placed their aggregate at about 1000. The total of young men who personally enrolled with their home boards is thus placed slightly below 4000.

Many Enroll Elsewhere

Conservative estimates place the number of those who enrolled elsewhere and whose cards will be sent through the mails to be filed with Oregon boards at 400. To this number, however, will eventually be added the list of all young men of the 21-year-old class who have entered some branch of military service. The grand total will then show up much larger, for it is believed that almost 50 per cent of the youths of the new class are already serving their country. The result as canvassed yesterday caused many officials to feel elated and to frown on any intimation that the enrollment was not as good as was expected.

Multnomah County registered a total of 1535 young men at the various headquarters maintained. The 20 counties which reported early yesterday, including Multnomah outside of Portland, had a total of 1499.

Boards of Portland made the best showing, and in some cases not yet heard from surpasses quite decidedly the records of sister counties. Board No. 3, of Portland, ranked first by yesterday's returns with an accredited enrollment of 8.9 per cent as many men as were listed in the original registration of men between 21 and 31 one year ago. Board No. 10, located in the St. Johns district, was a close second with a percentage of 8.7.

Wheeler County is Lead

To date Wheeler County has the best record of divisions out in the state. It enrolled 8 per cent as many this year as were listed a year ago.

Registrations reported by county boards were as follows: Benton, 69; Coos, 187; Crook, 23; Columbia, 89; Deschutes, 11; Gilliam, 29; Grant, 23; Hood River, 25; Josephine, 35; Linn, 164; Marion, No. 1, 123; Marion, No. 2, 79; Multnomah (outside Portland), 70; Polk, 85; Sherman, 21; Tillamook, 64; Union, 102; Washington, 132; Wheeler, 28; Yamhill, 98.

Final reports from the 10 divisions of Portland were as follows: No. 1, 230; No. 2, 181; No. 3, 166; No. 4, 135; No. 5, 123; No. 6, 177; No. 7, 97; No. 8, 144; No. 9, 38; No. 10, 184.

Shipyard Workers Register

Of the 97 counties registered by local board No. 7, 37 were shipyard workers. This is 38 per cent of the aggregate, and it is believed that the same percentage will hold in a majority of the draft divisions of Portland. On the Multnomah County board, also known as No. 11, devolved the work of registering all young men from outside points who wished still to remain under jurisdiction of their home boards. Many of these were permitted to register before Wednesday, that their cards might more promptly reach the respective local board through the mails. The total of youths registered here was approximately 240.

Lane Registration Low

EUGENE, Or., June 6.—(Special).—Registration of men who reached the age of 21 during the last year in Lane County yesterday will fall short of estimates, with a total of less than 200 in the county. The total registration in Eugene was 112. Junction City has reported 21, Cottage Grove 14 and Marcola 4. Many boys who have recently reached the draft age have enlisted in various branches of the service, cutting down the number of men available for registration.

151 Register in Umatilla

PENDLETON, Or., June 6.—(Special).—Umatilla County's registration yesterday fell below the estimates which had been made by nearly half. It was thought that 250 would register in this county. So far as can be determined, there were not more than 151, although some are expected to have registered elsewhere. An even hundred were registered in Pendleton. There were eight other registration places in the county.

Montana Far Below Estimate

HELENA, Mont., June 6.—War Department estimates that registrations yesterday for the National Army would equal about 19 per cent of previous year's registrations apparently do not hold in Montana. The total registrations in this state, as reported today to Adjutant-General Greenan, are about 4000. Registrations last year in Montana totaled 99,700.

GIRLS GET DIPLOMAS

St. Mary's College and Academy Hold Commencement.

PATRIOTISM THE KEYNOTE

Story of Liberty Bell Told in Music. Frank J. Lonergan Delivers Address—Diplomas Conferred by Archbishop Christie.

Thirty-five young women of St. Mary's College and Academy received their diplomas last night at the fifty-ninth annual commencement exercises, held at the Lincoln High School auditorium. The diplomas were conferred by Archbishop Christie, who spoke briefly to the graduates.

Frank J. Lonergan gave the commencement address, in which he told the young women of the possibilities which await them, especially during these times of war.

Throughout the programme the spirit of patriotism was the keynote. The story of the Liberty Bell was told in music, for which the setting has been written by William Christie. The title of the Bell is the name of this musical fantasy in which the story of the Liberty Bell is sung, the theme having been taken from the tale by Hawthorne with the words by Frederick Martens. The solo parts were sung by Misses Genevieve Clancy, Mollie Duckhorn and Geraldine McClellan, who were assisted by a chorus of 37 girls.

One of the best musical numbers was an arrangement of Gruenwald's "Festival March," for which string parts were played by the Misses Agnes Dooley and La Verne, first violins; Mina Miller and Gertrude Miller, second violins; Frances Deery and Celeste Tolan, violas; Agnes Kelly and Evelyn Prag, cellos; and Dorah Dooley, harp. The singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," with the accompaniment played by Dorah Dooley, Mollie Duckhorn and Elceena Green, closed the programme. Those receiving diplomas and the courses from which they graduated were as follows:
