CATS BREAK UP HOME
FRED FOSTER ALLEGES WIFE PREFERS FELINE TRIBE TO HIM.
Elsie L. Perkins Wants Divorce Because She Says Spouse Spanked Five-Months Old Baby.
An alleged inordinate fondness for cats yesterday led to the filing of suit for divorce by Fred M. Foster against Ethel Foster, whom he married in this city November 8, 1912. In his complaint, Foster alleges that his wife "insists on maintaining in the home of the plaintiff and the defendant all of the stray cats which wander to the door." These felines, Foster alleges, were permitted to overrun the premises and, he avers, "she even took cats to bed with her and takes them into the kitchen when doing her cooking and housework."
The cat-fond wife, according to Foster, added insult to injury when she told him last month that she preferred cats to him and suggested that he seek living quarters elsewhere. Foster further complains that his wife refused at all times to render any aid or assistance, physical or financial, to his mother.
In suing Tony T. Perkins for divorce,

Elsie L. Perkins cites in support of her complaint that the husband inconsiderately spanked their 5-months-old baby after first restoring the infant to nature's garb.
Cruelty is alleged by Katherine S. Goss, who is seeking a divorce from James Goss, to whom she was married at Klamath Falls, January 31, 1909. The same charge is made by Hattie Green against Marshall T. Green. They were married at Vancouver, Wash., December 15, 1917.
"THE WAIST SHOP" OPENED
Addition to Lennon's Located in Portland Hotel Court.
"The Waist Shop," an addition to Lennon's, was formally opened Wednesday in the Portland Hotel court, opposite the postoffice. Lennon's main store on Morrison street is not affected by the new shop and will remain in business as before.
"The Waist Shop" is an artistic place where mildly may secure the finest of waists and a complete line of lingerie and under garments. The shop has been opened so that the patrons of Lennon's store may have more space for the selection and fitting of garments.
The interior of the shop is finished in gray and ivory, with deep rose hangings. The chairs and tables are of ivory wicker and there are several large fitting rooms. One corner has been designated as "vogue corner" and here may be secured patterns that heretofore have not been available in this city.
GRAND LARCENY CHARGED
John M. Shaffer Arrested for Stealing a Chest of Tools.
John M. Shaffer, well known to the police, was arrested yesterday by Inspectors Tichenor and Mallett in the North End on a charge of grand larceny. Shaffer is accused of having entered the Columbia Steel Works and stolen a chest of tools belonging to F. J. Wilson, of Jennings Lodge. The tools, valued at more than $100, had been disposed of by Shaffer, it is said, for $11.
Shaffer was sentenced in January to serve a term of six months in the County Jail for larceny. He was convicted of the theft of articles from junk shops, valued at more than $100, had been a record in other cities in the Northwest.

WEAVER FIRE-BAPTIZED
OREGON SOLDIER TELLS OF WAR EXPERIENCES IN FRANCE.
Drive Over Top Into No Man's Land and Back on West Front is Full of Thrills.
War experiences, thrilling and vivid, are related in a letter reaching here yesterday from Sergeant Sam Weaver, of Company C, 163d Infantry—the old Third Oregon—to his wife, who lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Weaver, 1108 East Washington street. How he was sent forward with 75 men of the famed regiment, went through the baptism of fire on the western front in the great drive, over the top and into No Man's Land and returned unharmed, is described by this well-known Portland boy.
He writes as follows:
"I was in charge of 75 men from our regiment going up to the trenches. We arrived there about 3 A. M. Everything was as quiet as could be, but about 4 it seemed as though everybody began shooting all at once. Such an experience I never had before, but I am still here to tell the tale. Then along in the forenoon it was rather quiet for a while.
"In the afternoon everything broke loose again. Later in the evening the aeroplanes were flying around until they looked like a swarm of bees, each one turning loose now and then with machine guns. Taking it all the way through, it was very exciting and interesting.
"I was in towns which at one time were held by the Huns but are now back in the hands of the allies, but after the Huns once occupy them they look more like big rock piles than anything else, for they are literally shot to pieces, everything in ruin. I was over a part of No Man's Land; saw lots of graves, singles and bunches. That part doesn't sound very cheerful, but then you know how it is. Then I was sent back to my company and it surely did seem good to be with the boys again. On my way back I stopped in Paris and what a wonderful place Paris is!
"I saw the Eiffel Tower, Napoleon's tomb, Lafayette monument and churches that were built in the eleventh and twelfth centuries. I saw one building that was built in the year 272 and the church that was hit by a German shell on Good Friday when 27 people were killed."

142,500 MEALS SERVED
HIGH SCHOOL LUNCHROOMS FURNISH DINNERS AT COST.
First Year of Existence of Cafeterias Under School Management Proves Successful.
High school lunchrooms have served 142,500 noon-hour meals during the school year now closing. This is the number reported by Miss Marie Williams, supervisor of cafeterias, who has conducted the various high school eating establishments during this, the first year of their existence. Before this year the school cafeterias in Portland were leased out to private individuals, who made what they could from the concessions.
The School Board decided, however, that the best interest of the students and teachers were not being served by the privately-operated cafeterias, so the domestic science department was given the task of conducting the lunchrooms and serving food at cost.
There are only four lunchrooms in operation in the eight city high schools, but as soon as room can be secured, each school will be provided with a cafeteria. The schools now served are Lincoln, Benson, Jefferson and Girls' Polytechnic. The students and teachers are provided with appetizing and nourishing lunches at less cost than if they brought their lunches from home.

Fifteen cents will buy a big bowl of hot soup, an order of potatoes and some kind of a meat dish, or sandwiches, salad and dessert.
Did you read about the Emporia (Kansas) man who took three shots at the Kaiser when the Rupert Julian film, "Kaiser, Beast of Berlin," was screened in a picture theater? They arrested him, of course, but the town "constable" let him off.

When those first teeth come—
IF your baby is struggling with the tough curds of raw cow's milk, even with water added, teething almost always means upset stomach, fretting, wakeful nights. But, if your baby's food is right you don't have to worry.
There is one food so like mother's milk that it almost always agrees perfectly with babies. This is Nestlé's Food.
REMEMBER that Nestlé's Food is itself milk—only purer than you get in bottles—with the hard-to-digest curds broken up for your baby's little stomach, and with just the right amount of cereal and sugar added. You simply add water and boil.
Get ready for teething time now, by putting your baby on the food which has been building happy, healthy babies for half a century. Then when the white little teeth come, they will make no trouble.
Send the coupon or a postcard and we will be glad to send you, free, enough Nestlé's Food for 12 feedings and a 96-page book on baby care by specialists.

"A New Suit So Soon After Red Cross Week! How'd You Do It, Hal?"
"Yes, a new suit, and at that I gave more money to the Red Cross than I had expected to be able to. You see, it's all in knowing how to manage. I gave all the cash I had been saving for a suit to the Red Cross and then went and used my credit to get a suit. Great deal! The Cherry way of buying clothes. You give a little down when you select the suit, and make arrangements about paying the rest—so much a week. I never saw such generous credit so freely extended in my life. You'd be surprised at the great variety there is to choose from, too—snappy suits that would bring every cent of their prices in the regular cash way. They're always open on Saturday nights until 8 o'clock and you'll find their shop on Washington street, 339-51, in the Pittock block."—Adv.
