

CITY PAYS HOMAGE TO THE FLAG
UNIFORMED RANKS PARADE

O. W. R. & N. Company Employees Listen to Patriotic Address. Impressive Programme Is Held at All Shipyards.

They swung the Stars and Stripes to the wind of the Pacific in Portland yesterday in commemoration of the birth of the great Republic on the 141st anniversary of the flag.

The day was not marked by profuse demonstrations of patriotism, but in many instances the workers gathered together at the noon hour, the flag crept up its staff while the men who were winning the war went to home proud with bare heads beneath its folds.

Children Repeat Pledge. Despite the fact that it was the last day of the school term, Portland schools seized the time and opportunity for the raising of the colors in fitting ceremony and for the repetition, by childish lips, of the familiar pledge.

The largest single event of the day was the evening parade of Multnomah Guardsmen, Oregon State Militia members of the Elks' Lodge, who marched through the city streets, headed by their bands, and with the colors flying, to the city hall, where the impressive and inspiring Flag Day exercises were held before an audience of several thousand.

As the colors were borne to the rostrum, when the parade line reached the Auditorium last night, the great audience rose to its feet and stood at salute, with the Elks' Band playing the "Stars and Stripes." From floor to gallery the huge hall was dense with the throng assembled to do honor to the flag.

Allied Flag Drill Feature. First on the programme, and it must be confessed, first in the hearts of all who saw it, was the flag drill of allied nations, as presented by the members of Falling School, trained under the direction of Robert Krohn and Miss Bess Segal.

dedicated a new flagpole as well. The exercises were held on the Peninsula Lumber Company's property.

At 12 o'clock the newly organized band of the shipyard, which is composed solely of men of non-professional standing musically, gave a concert. It was the first public appearance of the players and under the leadership of R. E. Gurr, night foreman in the sawmill, they played several selections.

Men employed by the Northwest Steel Company also contributed to a parade for flags to decorate poles in the yard and they cheered the emblems as they went aloft at noon.

William D. Wheelwright delivered the address and Mrs. Lulu Dahl Miller sang at the Albina Engine & Machine Works. At the Columbia River Shipbuilding Corporation's yard the exercises were led by A. F. Smith, president of the Corporation, after whom the men repeated the pledge of allegiance.

Officer Taylor, who had been on the police force about three months, had received orders to go to a fire which had broken out at the Oregon Sash & Door Factory shortly before the accident and was on his way there, riding, evidently, at a fast speed along Milwaukee avenue, when he struck Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin as they were getting off of the car.

Two-year-old John Gaman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gaman, of 703 Sherlock street, a houseboat on Sixth and Oak, was drowned in the river close to his home at about 7 o'clock last night.

blanket bond of $10,000 was not filed. Efforts which began as soon as the "roll" of the last city election was known to secure $100 from 100 jitney bus drivers have thus far failed.

Industrial plants for months have operated their own buses for the benefit of the employees, but the residents of the city must either use the train service or ferry to St. Johns and take the electric car, which consumes a great amount of time.

Mrs. Baldwin is in the Sellwood Hospital with a broken collarbone and a badly scarred neck. She is 53 years of age.

A short time earlier Mr. Gaman left his house to go to a lumber yard a short distance away. Soon after that the mother left the house to milk their cow, which was in a pasture near the moorage, thinking that her husband had taken the baby with him.

ADDRESS MADE TO TROOPS

Soldiers on Soissons Battle Front Told to Pass Cheering Message Along to Their Comrades in Fight.

AMSTERDAM, June 14.—Emperor William went into regions under fire during the recent fighting on the French front, according to Karl Rosner, the Emperor's favorite correspondent, who accompanies him on his tours.

On his return to the battlefield, the Emperor, standing before a map of the fighting area, says Rosner, addressed his hearers thus: "In 1914, during the battle of Soissons, I was here (at the Laffaux corner on the Alsace front). What heavy trials have since been imposed upon us Germans! But that is now all behind us. We are now swinging on to final victory."

Representatives of the radical Socialists presented a declaration affirming anew their deep sympathy in the desire for independence of the Jugoslavians and Czechoslovaks, who wish to separate themselves from the domination of Austria-Hungary and to form an independent and united state.

WORKERS ARE WARNED

SHIPYARD EMPLOYEES MUST SUPPORT DEPENDENTS.

Continued Failure Will Mean Report to Exemption Boards, Says District Attorney.

Young men of draft age, employed in local shipyards, who fall hereafter to support those dependent upon them, will be reported directly to the exemption boards for reclassification.

Deputy District Attorney Dempsey, who handles cases of this kind, says that since work has become so plentiful at unprecedented wages, the number of non-support complaints reaching the District Attorney's office has more than doubled.
