

LABOR'S AID SOUGHT

Earnest Appeal Is Made to Central Council.

SAVINGS PLEDGES ASKED

Associate Federal Director H. D. Marshall Will Speak at Auditorium Monday Night Bringing Message From President.

STATE AND CITY PROCLAIM WAR SAVINGS DAY FOR JUNE 28.

Proclamations setting aside June 28 as War Savings day for Oregon and Portland have been issued by Governor Withycombe and C. A. Bigelow, acting Mayor. "In conformity with the desire of the National Government, I hereby designate June 28 as War Savings day in Oregon and earnestly appeal to every person to give wholeheartedly to the support of this National thrift movement."

An earnest appeal to the Central Labor Council to make the war savings stamp campaign its movement was delivered last night by Henry E. Reed in charge of the drive for the Third Congressional District. The members of the Central Labor Council gave strong encouragement and assurance of co-operation and will appoint a large committee to work with the headquarters organization and will also designate speakers to aid the speakers' bureau to talk to the men in the industrial plants.

"War savings stamps is part of the general plan of the Government to finance the war," explained Mr. Reed, "and it is essentially a workers' movement. Back of these stamps is the best security in the world, the security being everything in the United States, for the stamps amount to a mortgage on the Nation's resources. They require no examination of title. Stamps bear 4 per cent, compounded quarterly, and they can be cashed in on 10 days' notice in which event they pay 8 per cent."

Every Man Urged to Pledge. Mr. Reed urged every man to pledge himself to buy war savings stamps to the extent of his ability to save. In conclusion the speaker requested the appointment of a large committee to assist the movement and the assigning of speakers from the ranks of the Central Labor Council.

One hundred large institutions have already been organized under A. J. Bonney, in charge of the industrial bureau. Each of the 16 colonies in Portland has completed his staff of captains, and most of them have selected their teams. Monday night at the Auditorium all colonels, captains, workers and, in short, every individual who is in the city, are urged to buy stamps is expected to be present. On that occasion the principal speaker will be H. D. Marshall, associate Federal Director for the West Coast. Reed brings a message direct from the President. There will be more than 5000 people at the meeting.

Ad Club Doing Its Share. The Portland Ad Club is doing its share to help make the drive of June 28 a success. The president and secretary of the club are in active harness and the stenographer is available if needed. Frank McChillis, city manager of the drive, is president, and C. W. English, the secretary, is handling the display advertising for the city campaign.

Requests for speakers are pouring in. The Supply-Ballin Employees' Club has asked for a speaker to go on the Swan and steamer Twin City Saturday night, when the club has a moonlight excursion. Chairman G. W. Caldwell, of the speakers' bureau, says he will have a dozen speakers in the field every day next week. Saturday night he will step a speaker for the public in front of Liberty Temple.

LEWIS FIRES CONTROLLED

Blazes in Upper Cowlitz Country Are Now Well in Hand.

MORTON, Wash., June 20.—(Special.)—The forest fire situation in Eastern Lewis County is now well in hand. A crew of fighters under Ranger Christian left Morton today for Clatsop. There are four fires at one time on the upper Cowlitz, near Lewis, and north of the river on the Arthur Res. place.

The fire started on both sides of the road and traveled rapidly, but is now controlled. Another one south of the river at the old Burton place joined the one on the Gilliland place. Both went up Johnson Creek, but are now controlled.

PORTLAND MAID BECOMES BRIDE OF ARMY MAN.

Mrs. Victor L. Languille (Kathryn G. Dorney)

IN COMPLIMENT to Mrs. Thomas Martin Fitzpatrick, of Boston, who is spending the Summer months with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Barron, and her house guest, Miss Marion Carney, also of Boston, Miss Loretta Hardy yesterday entertained with a charming tea and knitting bee. The rooms were decked attractively with clusters of vivid-hued garden flowers and the artistically appointed tea table was presided over by Mrs. Norman N. Rupp and Mrs. Robert E. Scott. About 15 of the younger matrons and maids shared in the delightful affair.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Groshong, of 717 East Twenty-first street, are being congratulated on the arrival of a little daughter, born June 18. The baby will be christened Rhoda Jane. Mrs. Groshong will be remembered as Katherine Kimmel, who for four years was private secretary to Dr. J. H. Boyd. Mr. Groshong is supervising of manual training in the public schools.

Mrs. Elliott Habersham has returned from a trip of six weeks spent in Boston and Washington, D. C., visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. William Laurens are being congratulated on the arrival of their son. The little one will be named Robert Gerald. Mrs. Laurens is secretary of Omega Rebekah lodge.

Mrs. A. E. Butterfield has just returned from her country home, Hillcrest, after a visit of several weeks. She will give the use of her town house, 815 Kearney street, for a benefit tea on Tuesday afternoon. The Red Cross unit of the women's association of the First Presbyterian Church to be the beneficiaries. The officers of the association will receive the guests and every man and woman interested in the work being done by the organization is invited to attend.

Mrs. Warren E. Thomas will entertain today with an informal knitting tea in honor of Mrs. Isabella Horton, mother of Edward Everett Horton, leading man of the Alcazar Players. Mrs. Horton has been visiting her son for several weeks in this city, coming from Brooklyn, N. Y., the family home. At the tea this afternoon there will be about a dozen well-known matrons, and Mrs. William House will preside at the tea table.

Portlanders in general are taking a deep interest in the rose show to be held this evening at the Rose City Park Clubhouse. Mrs. J. Curtis Johnson is in charge of the affair and she has the assistance of a number of prominent women and rosegrowers. It will be a most interesting and enjoyable affair. The affair is invited to attend.

Miss Lucile Fenton, niece of Judge Fenton of this city, who is stationed in Seattle in the traffic department of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad, has been visiting in Tacoma. Miss Fenton is a charming girl, with hosts of friends in this city.

Mrs. H. D. Ramadell, who has been visiting in Tacoma to be near her son, Lieutenant Vitz James Ramadell, at the Lewis Hotel, returned yesterday to her home in Portland at the Carmelita apartments.

TACOMA, Wash., June 20.—(Special.)—Mrs. Cameron Squires, of Portland, is in Tacoma as the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Jones. Mrs. Squires and Claire Wilcox before her marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Dye, former residents of Tacoma, who have been in Portland for the last two years, are in the city visiting friends.

Miss Dorothy Wright has returned to her home in Portland after a visit with Miss Bertha Dorris. Miss Wright is a member of the Kappa Alpha Theta and a graduate of Oregon Agricultural College.

under the auspices of the Women's Relief Corps, and addressed a meeting of the citizens of the town, when a plan was presented for equipping a recreation center for the soldiers in the town. The men themselves have rented the Rod and Gun Club quarters near the waterfront. Addresses also were made by Captain Brown, no commandant; Captain Hart, Captain Diamond, Captain Hayden and Lieutenant Hoskins. A committee was appointed to secure pledges for a fund to equip the club, so that the men may have recreational conveniences when sojourning in the town. B. O. Greening presided at the meeting.

East Side Lavender Club will hold a picnic-luncheon at the Oaks today. All old and new members are asked to attend and enjoy the outing.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE

BY LILIAN TINGLE.

SALEM, Or., June 11.—Dear Miss Tingle: Would you please publish, if possible, in the daily Oregonian an article on maraschino cherries, or for candied cherries, or does the last require too much sugar for these times?

AS FAR as I know it is not possible to make at home good maraschino cherries of the commercial type. These cherries are usually bleached, toughened and dyed by special processes. You may, however, prepare any bright red, firm-fleshed, slightly under-ripe, carefully-pitted cherries with an imitation maraschino flavor (real maraschino being, of course, out of the question). Simply can the selected pitted cherries in the ordinary way, making the canning syrup with corn syrup and very little or no sugar, flavored with almond essence or a mixture of almond essence and rosewater. To my mind, however, the natural flavor of cherry is superior to that of the real or the imitation maraschino, and the making of these at home seems hardly worth doing.

Candied cherries may more easily be made at home, but as you suggest the ordinary kind would take too much sugar for these times. You might, however, make some partly candied dried cherries, that will be very useful in the winter for cakes, desserts and candy substitutes. Dried cherries with glucose syrup—select choice, firm cherries, stone them and just barely cover with white corn syrup, adding one tablespoon sugar for each cup of syrup. Let stand for an hour or two, then bring to boiling point, and let stand 12 hours. Pour off the syrup, boil it down until somewhat thickened. Add the cherries, boil up and let stand again. Repeat as necessary, until the cherries are plump and rather translucent; then drain them from the syrup, spread on plates or trays and dry to a slightly leathery consistency in the sun, or in a vegetable dryer, or in a very cool oven with the door open, or in the breeze of an electric fan. When leather "condition" them by letting them stand a day or two in boxes and pouring from one box to another to get as even a texture as possible, then store in tins. Do not overdry them. A few may be rolled in granulated sugar for use as "candy" on rare occasions.

The syrup drained from the fruit may be used for a second batch. If liked, add a little of the almond or rose flavoring mixture or almond oil in part of the syrup to give "glace imitation maraschino cherries."

PORTLAND, June 15.—Dear Miss Tingle: Can you send me the recipe for wheatless bread as demonstrated by Mrs. Hawley at the Liberty Temple recently? I enclose self-addressed envelope.

"HOUSEKEEPER." I am sorry to disappoint you, but it is never possible for me to "sell" recipes, though I am always glad to answer questions in this column. Following is the wheatless bread recipe you ask for. It is greatly improved by the addition of one well-beaten egg white.

Mrs. Hawley's sponge bread (wheatless)—1 pint of milk, scalded; 1 pint of water; 3 tablespoons Karo, 2 table-spoons substitute shortening, 1 table-spoon salt, 1 1/2 cups barley flour, 1/2 cup potato flour, 1 yeast cake.

Note—Those living in isolated places and unable to get potato flour may substitute the same portion of wheat flour—nothing else will serve as a successful "binder" in this recipe.

Scald the milk, add the shortening and Karo, add water. When entirely cool add the dissolved yeast. Beat in part of the flour and continue to beat the mixture well. Add the rest of the flour with the salt mixed in. Let rise well and make into loaves. Let rise about one-half hour. Bake, be sure and sift the flours together with care.

Three valuable tips in substitute baking—Must not rise so long after bread is in the pan. Must always be stiffer. Salt should be added towards the last with the last flour. If added at first it interferes with the rising. A good hour.

test of when the substitute bread has risen enough is to stick the finger in the loaf, and it is ready if the gas escapes and leaves the dough collapsed around the finger. This is for the first rising. The second rising should be only from half to three-quarters of an hour.

Teachers to Direct Stamp Drive. COTTAGE GROVE, Or., June 20.—(Special.)—Mrs. Irma Beager and Miss Lulu Curran, both teachers in the public schools, will have charge of the war savings stamp drive here. Mrs. Beager is chairman and Miss Curran secretary.

The selection was made by those present at the annual school meeting. Mrs. Beager and Miss Curran will select their own assistants. An excellent vegetable stew includes carrots, onions and potatoes with dumplings.

The Fingers That Reach for Your Heart! NOTHING in the wide world like the happiness that lies in those pink dimpled fingers that reach for your heart.

You would give him the whole universe if you could. But he doesn't want that, little Mother. He only wants health, now. He only wants to grow like a flower in the sunshine—to lie on his back and laugh all day, to pick gravely at the bows on his pink coverlet, and drowse, and wake up smiling.

Is he happy, that baby of yours? Is he blooming with health, contented all day, quietly sleeping all night? IT almost all depends on what you feed him, you know. Of course, you nurse him if you can, but not even love can always make Mother's milk agree with that delicate little stomach. But don't worry.

There is a food you can give him that is almost sure to keep him strong and well. It is as near as can be to Mother's milk, you see. It is milk—remember that—but pure and cleaner than you can ever get it in bottles, and changed a little to make it easier for your baby to digest.

To this milk is added just the right amount of cereal, just the right amount of sugar. And it comes to you a clean, fluffy powder in air-tight cans—and you just add fresh water and boil. This is Nestlé's Food. Don't forget the name.

So easy—so simple—so sure to make your baby well and happy. If he isn't quite well—if you're not quite satisfied with the way he is getting on—put that baby on Nestlé's Food—today. Of all the things you would give him—he only wants health now. Nestlé's Food will give him that. Send the coupon or a postcard now!
