$14,000,000 IS GOAL

Forces Line Up to Make Oregon Stamp Day Success.

TOMORROW THRIFT SUNDAY

First Public Rally Set for Tonight at Liberty Temple: "Go the Limit" Will Be Slogan in Whirlwind Patriotic Campaign.

As the day for the big drive draws near, War Savings Stamp campaigners in Portland and throughout Oregon give every evidence of being "raring to go," with their leaders confident that Friday, June 28, will go down on the records as another day of patriotic victory at home. Of Oregon's total war savings allotment of $17,500,000, approximately $14,000,000 remains to be pledged on that day.

Tomorrow will be "Thrift Sunday," when the clergymen of Oregon are to step to the fore with messages from the gospel of democracy, urging the participation of their parishioners in the War Savings stamp investment.

Pulpit to Spread Gospel. Portland ministers have given assurance that they will greet their flock tomorrow with war savings sermons, and it is estimated that the message will be given locally to from 20,000 to 30,000 people. Similar services will be held everywhere in the state. Plenty of war savings literature, replete with appeal and argument, has already been forwarded to the pastors.

Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at Rose City Park Presbyterian Church, East Forty-fifth and Hancock streets, will be held an open-air meeting for the war stamps issue, with the community rallying to the call. Among the speakers will be Judge Stephen A. Lowell, of Fondleton, and Louis J. Simpson, of the military band from Vancouver Barracks will discuss patriotic aims and the National anthem. The meeting will be presided over by Dr. Robert A. Milligan, pastor.

The first public war savings stamp rally will be convened tonight at 7:30 o'clock before Liberty Temple, with addresses appropriate to the occasion and with patriotic musical numbers. Dr. E. H. Pence, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian Church, will speak on the war stamps and their patriotic import. Community singing will be led by J. Adrian Epping, while Miss Annie Hansen will sing "The Star-Spangled Banner." Music will be provided by the concert band of the Grant Smith-Porter Ship Company, which has volunteered its services, and which will open the programme with a concert of several selections.

Workers to Meet Monday. On Monday night, at the Auditorium, the final instructions and words of counsel will be given to 5000 Portland field workers, who are to carry the city on Friday next. The call for all workers to attend is urgent, as the instructions to be given at that time are vital to the success of the drive. President Wilson's final message on the war savings campaign will be read to the assembled loyalists.

Citizens of substantial financial worth will have their opportunity to go the limit on the day of the drive, when all will be asked to join the "Limit Club." The club is a handy contrivance to do away with the inconvenience of the flying squadron maneuvers employed in other campaigns, and to insure the maximum from those who can afford to invest it.

1500 "Limit Cards" Ready. Fifteen hundred personal pledge cards, each drawn for a heavy taxpayer, have been issued. They call for membership in the "Limit Club" upon the payment of $324, this month's figure for a $1000 war savings stamp certificate—which is the limit for individual investors. Joining the club means lessening the possibility of failure, and Portland men of means are looked to for a response in keeping with the cause.

Today at Oregon City the citizens and war savings workers of Clackamas County will hold a county convention for the discussion of the day of the drive and the elimination of all problems that stand in the path of certain and spontaneous victory.

All details regarding the drive, or will be within a few days, and Oregon stands ready to redeem the state's full quota of war stamps in the single day allotted.

JURY SELECTED WITH CARE

Alexander Davidson Faces Trial on Charge of Bootlegging.

Strenuous defense is to be made in the trial of Alexander Davidson, and others, indicted as leaders in an alleged bootlegging ring. If the case with which counsel for the defense is selecting the jurors may be taken as an indication. At adjournment last evening the defense had four peremptory challenges yet to exercise and the Government retained three.

DOUGLAS MAN IS INJURED

J. W. Hall Run Down by Train While Crossing Track at Roseburg.

ROSEBURG, Or., June 21.—(Special.)—J. W. Hall, residing about seven miles northwest of the city, was struck by a southbound Southern Pacific train Wednesday evening, as he was attempting to cross the track. He suffered serious bruises. Mr. Hall's buggy was demolished and the horse was hurt so badly that it had to be killed. Mr. Hall was caught by the cowcatcher and carried about 200 feet before the train came to a stop. Mr. Hall is quite deaf, and did not hear the approaching train.

CITY FILES ANSWER

Fish Market Held Imperative as War Institution.

DEALERS' COMBINE CHARGE

Document Alleges That High Prices in Retail Markets Is Due to Wasteful Methods Employed to Limit Supply.

That the continuance of the Municipal fish market is imperative as a war emergency institution and that its discontinuance would hinder the successful prosecution of the war is the chief plea set up by the city of Portland in an answer filed yesterday in the Circuit Court in defense of the injunction suit instituted by the retail fish dealers of the city.

The court file, prepared by City Attorney LaRoche, Deputy City Attorney Tomlinson and Martin L. Pipes, special counsel, goes thoroughly into the meat and fish supply problem as it affects Portland, and endeavors to show that it is absolutely essential that the city of Portland be permitted to operate a municipal market in order that the people of this city may be supplied with sea products at normal cost.

The answer sets up the assertion that the high prices prevailing in the retail fish markets is due to the wasteful methods employed by fish dealers, which is done, it is alleged, for the purpose of limiting the supply of fish and keeping the prices high.

Dealers' Combine Charged. "Owing to conditions brought about by a state of war, various kinds of food supplies and necessities of life have risen to such an extent as to be almost prohibitive under conditions now existing. The food supply of America is relied upon to feed not only the people of the United States, including its military forces at home and abroad, but, in a large measure, the fighting forces and civil population of the nations allied with the United States in war. In order to carry on the war and to avert want, suffering and industrial disorder at home, it is necessary to conserve the articles most needed for the successful prosecution of the war, including beef, mutton and pork, which articles are demanded for the Army and Navy and other public use connected with the common defense."

The answer goes on to state that despite the fact that the waters of the Pacific Ocean abound with fish, the people of Portland have been unable to procure such sea food at reasonable prices through the ordinary channels of retail markets.

Injunction Is Opposed. "Without the aid of the municipal government it is impossible for the people of Portland to procure such sea foods either in adequate quantities or at reasonable prices," reads the answer.

"The furnishing of such supply of necessary food at prices available to the masses and the promulgation of information concerning such food is a public purpose."

The city of Portland further charges as an affirmative answer, that the retail fish dealers of the city are in a combine to limit the supply of sea foods and maintain high prices.

"Without such combination among dealers, sea foods in Portland ought to be and would be cheap," it is asserted, because of the abundance and availability of the supply.

The court document filed in behalf of the city yesterday marks another step toward the final determination of the suit instituted by a score of retail fish dealers who are seeking to deal a death blow to the municipal fish market on the ground that its operation is unconstitutional. The fish dealers are seeking a permanent injunction restraining the city from conducting the market.

MARSHFIELD CAMPAIGN ON

War Savings Workers Report Successful Beginning.

MARSHFIELD, Or., June 21.—(Special.)—The war savings stamp campaign opened in Marshfield today with the Fletcher Home Guard Company working in the downtown district. All reports indicate that the quota will be met.

The assessment plan adopted by the managers developed some defects, some parties being found who were assessed too high, while others subscribed more than was asked. Mr. and Mrs. George Goodrum headed the lists with $1000 each.

At a preliminary meeting held last night Hugh McLain and L. J. Simpson made stirring addresses. Women are canvassing the residence districts and report success.

DOG KILLED; OWNER SUED Joseph Rorer Files Action for $500 Damages Against James Piatt.

ALBANY, Or., June 21.—(Special.)—The fact that someone killed his dog caused James Piatt, of Solo, to be sued in the State Circuit Court here yesterday for $500 damages. For Piatt believed Joseph J. Rorer, also of Solo, had caused the demise of his canine and he is alleged to have beaten Rorer to such an extent that the latter wants damages.

Rorer's complaint alleges that while he was driving along in his wagon at Solo, Piatt climbed in the vehicle and attacked him, knocked him from the wagon, bruised and lacerated his head and otherwise injured him.

Incidentally Rorer says he knows nothing about the death of the dog.

School Superintendent Elected. HOOD RIVER, Or., June 21.—(Special.)—The City School Board today elected E. T. Robinson, for the past eight years superintendent of the Toppenish, Wash., schools, as local superintendent, succeeding J. O. McLaughlin, who goes to Corvallis to take a similar position. Mr. Robinson is a graduate of the Indiana State Normal and the University of Washington.

Mill Owner Sells Stock. CHEHALIS, Wash., June 21.—(Special.)—A. J. Davis has disposed of his interest in the Chehalis Mill Company and probably will go to Portland, Ill. H. Martin, until recently connected with the Onalaska Lumber Company, succeeds Mr. Davis in the office of the Chehalis Mill Company.

HOOD RIVER, Or., June 21.—(Special.)—The City School Board today elected E. T. Robinson, for the past
