Liquor Seized in Astoria House Operated as Laundry.

ASTORIA, Or., June 23.—(Special.)—At an early hour this morning the police raided the residence of Julius Bock on Exchange street, and confiscated several cases of wine and beer that were in process of manufacture. Bock and his wife were arrested and are being held under $150 bail each.

STRAND BILL IS VARIED

STORY OF WESTERN MINING LIFE FULL OF SENSATIONS.

Rawlins' Bears Perform Perfectly and Furnish Fun for Kiddies—Music, Comedy and Chatter Vie.

Photoplay thrills and vaudeville laughs make the current Strand Theatre "photoville" programme an entertainment offering.

Monroe Salisbury, one of the newest of the big stars, furnishes the thrills in the Bluebird photostory of Western mining life, "The Eagle." A transcontinental road show, ranging from Bert Lennor to Rawlins' Bears, contribute the joy waves.

Stage robberies, gun fights, a near-hanging and a pretty love affair are the principal ingredients of "The Eagle," with Salisbury in the role of a lone highwayman. He's invincible until the feminine equation enters the arena.

Then love, coupled with the bad-man performances of a weebly brother, combine to send him to the scaffold, from which he is saved by a confession and an eleventh-hour rescue by the girl.

Mirth and patriotism share honors in Bert Lennor's character impersonations. He's a clever chap, with the knack of makeup, and he amuses his audiences.

Rawlins' bears are three in number, led by a film man from Alaska, Bingo, Fango and Tango are their names, and they are funny.

The Bruces, colored folk, sing, talk, dance and perform stunts, with buck and wing stepping and clogging on the rollers featuring a versatile number.

Reader and Armstrong are back again in a new line of conventional song stuff bulwarmed by two pianos.

BANDAGE WORKERS NEED

Irrington Club Appeals to Women to Help Boys in France.

In spite of the general response to the call for workers to sort and prepare sphagnum moss for dressings at the Irrington Club, more are needed.

Mrs. W. F. Woodward asks that all the women of Irrington consider the call as a personal invitation to come to the club and do this patriotic war work. The work is easy and pleasant. It appeals to many women who would rather sit in the cool clubhouse and sort sphagnum moss than engage in more strenuous but no less necessary war work.

At the first meeting of the Irrington moss bandage makers last Thursday, 60 persons responded to the call to service. Boys and girls are wanted as well as older folk. Interested persons should communicate with Mrs. Woodward.

MERGER SIGNS SEEN

Movement for Organic Church Union Progresses.

Progress in the movement for organic church union of the Protestant churches in America and throughout the world was the keynote of the sermon of Rev. Warren Morse, pastor of the Atkinson Memorial Congregational Church yesterday morning.

That conditions among church organizations and opinions of church leaders throughout the world were pointing toward the union are signs that the speaker sees in current events. He said in part:

"Here's the opinion of an able Eastern business man, which might be duplicated the country over. 'One result of the war seems to me to be the destruction of barriers which have kept churches separate and a more genuine brotherly spirit. Laymen, who have cooperated in Red Cross and in Y. M. C. work have less and less patience with differences of name, when the spirit is, or should be, the same.'

"Co-operation makes progress. 'Compare today with a hundred years ago. We have had a century of common Sunday School teaching and co-operation steadily drawing denominations together.

"For over 60 years our business men have been corralled in Y. M. C. A. interests until they have built up property interests valued at $80,000,000 in America alone and have been brought to the needs of a multitude of young men.

"Men, who have grown gray in this service won't worry over the denominational tag which the other man sitting at his side at the board meetings wears.

"The several million of Christian endeavorers, who have trained for a generation with the young and old in other churches, will not find it hard to work together in one church.

"Eighteen million communicants from 29 denominations working together in 'The Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America' will have learned desirable good qualities in each other.

High Tide Seems Near. "Sum up these lines of preparation, then note the melting pot of denominationalism in and near the trenches and it begins to look like the high tide of Christian opportunity is setting in. The final birth throes may be painful, but the joy in the new child will more than compensate.

"Special committees of British Protestant Episcopal and of English Free churches have already issued a second report, the proposed union containing a visible unity through community of worship, faith and order, including common participation in the Lord's Supper.

"The Northern Presbyterian General Assembly, the other day at Columbus, Ohio, expressed itself as follows: 'We declare and place on record our profound conviction that the time has come for the organic church union of the evangelical churches of America.'

"Dr. Slattery, rector of Grace Church of New York City, hits the line hard, saying in regard to statements as to union after the war: 'If we wait till the strain of war is past, until the feeling of need is reduced, until the world has returned to its old normalcy, our conviction of privilege, our mutually exclusive authorities, and the unity we demand will be definitely remote. If the unity of the Church is to come, it must begin to come during this war. It must begin now.'

GOD'S VICTORY ASSERTED

War Called Disaster Due to Violation of Divine Law.

"Why Does Not God Stop This War?" was the sermon topic of Rev. C. C. C. pastor of the Methodist Church, Sunday morning.

From the text, "Be not deceived; God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."—Gal. 6:7.

Dr. Rarick said: "This question has been asked with pathetic frequency. It has come to me many times. Some persons are in great distress about it. They feel that God ought to stop the war. Why does He not stop the war? With what fairness might we ask, 'Why does He not prevent that wreck in Indiana the other day? Or why did He not interfere to prevent other disasters that humanity has suffered—floods, fires, earthquakes, cyclones?'

Why? Because He is a God of order. Interference on His part to prevent these disasters would be to interfere with law. Humanity is learning slowly that law can always be depended upon. We break law at our peril. If God should set aside His laws to do what we have gone contrary to them, He would put an end to all progress and development, and render obedience to law unnecessary. He would rob life of its nobility and worth. We could then have no faith in law nor in God. His law has never failed us; nor has God ever failed us.

Germany, like the engineer in Indiana, in utter disregard of laws, threw off all restraint and ran past all danger signals.

We do not blame God for the disaster in Indiana. Then why blame God for this war? Just as God honors physical laws so does He honor the moral freedom of men.

Note how value freedom, what price we are willing to pay for its maintenance and increase, and what a worth of nobility it lends to life. Think of the life and treasure being poured out to prevent the world domination of Prussianism.

We do not want this war to end, nor does God, till a victory is gained that will not leave the Prussian idea later to seek a military decision over all the world. We must gain such a victory as will cause Germany to realize that she is not fighting against a Nation, or Nations, but an error. When that truth comes home to her she will profit from Prussianism.

CRISIS TESTS CHRISTIANITY

Rev. A. A. Morrison Finds Justification for War for Freedom.

"I shudder at the thought of my boy, or your boy, or any other mother's boy killing a fellow-being, but I would shudder worse if he did it for any other reason than that the victim was about to take away that precious gift which God has given him—freedom."

That is one view of the present slaughter expressed by the Rev. A. A. Morrison at the Trinity Episcopal Church yesterday in the continuation of his sermon of the Sunday before on the subject, "The Demand for a Modern View of Christianity Brought About by the Present World Crisis." The text was taken from First Corinthians, III:2-3.

"Religion, and in particular Christianity, is now being tested as it has never been tested before. The present world crisis offers for Christianity the biggest opportunity to show its worth that it has ever enjoyed."

Dr. Morrison then proceeded to give numbers of illustrations of the connection between religion and the present course of events. He explained that "man's love of righteousness signified his love of God, for God is the personification of righteousness, of all the sweet graces, beauties and powers of life."

SUGAR ECONOMY URGED

WAR KITCHEN WORKERS SHOW HOW TO SAVE ON SWEETS.

Housewives Are Asked to See That No Fresh Fruits or Vegetables This Year Are Wasted.

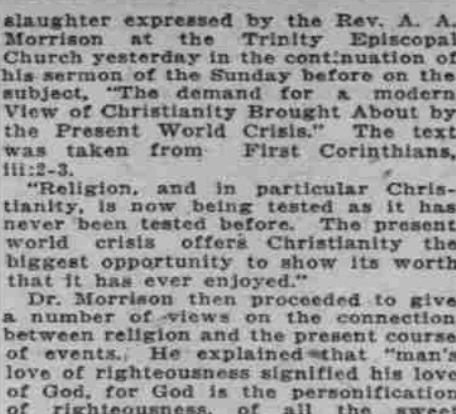

Culinary kinks helpful in the saving of sugar will be a special feature this week at the Food Administration war kitchen, established in Liberty Temple and holding daily demonstrations between 10 A. M. and 5 P. M. The regular features having to do with use of flour substitutes and general conservation methods will be retained, but for the week, emphasis will be thrown upon sugar economies.

The National Food Administration has called upon housewives of the country to can and preserve large quantities of fruit and vegetables, in short, to see that none of these fresh food-stuffs go to waste. At the same time economy is urged in canning and preserving processes. The solution of this problem lies in utilizing rich, heavy preserves and selling and turning largely to sauces and the preserving of fruits in light syrups, say the experts. Honey may often be used to splendid advantage.

During the hours that the war kitchen is open there is an almost constant stream of interested demonstrators and inquirers, reports Mrs. F. S. Myers, Multnomah County food administrator.

"We would like to keep the demonstration kitchen open in the evening if this were possible," said Mrs. Myers yesterday, "but cannot do so at present. Some women seem to forget that this work is all being done by loyal housewives, who volunteer their time. We employ no paid experts, yet the results are highly satisfactory."

An interesting sidelight is the fact that scores of letters from Oregon and Washington are received every day, asking for recipes and information.
