Sarah Bernhardt, Who Will Open Engagement at Orpheum Sunday

Bernhardt will be seen in two plays, "Du Theatre Au Champ D'Honneur" and "Camille" in one act and written especially for the famous woman by a French officer at the front, will be her offering for the matinee and night shows of tomorrow and Monday.

Critics all along the Orpheum circuit have acclaimed Madame Bernhardt to be greater than ever and are unanimous in declaring that the troubles and anxieties of the war have added to her power as an emotional actress and that time merely has ripened her art.

Her latest offering, "Camille," she has awakened such enthusiasm among her audiences that they rise and cheer when, in the finale of "Du Theatre Au Champ D'Honneur," she exclaims "God bless America!"
