SHOWN COUNCIL FIRST, HE SAYS.

Action of City Traffic Examiner Cousin in Answering Railway Administration Is Disliked.

Reports made by subordinate officials without conference with members of the City Council will not be tolerated hereafter, according to Mayor Baker, whose ire was aroused yesterday because of a report made in answer to officials of the Federal Railroad Administration in connection with the freight rates on coal. The answer was contained in a report to the Council offered by E. M. Cousin,-city traffic examiner.

"If I am to be represented, I want to know about it," said Mayor Baker.
"If Mr. Cousin and his advisers want to 'go to the bat' with the United States Government, and are right, let us go ahead, but before we are drawn into a controversy, we should at least be told the facts in connection therewith."

Mr. Cousin appeared before the Coun-Mr. Cousin appeared before the Council yesterday and explained that he had reported on his work done in compilance to instructions given by the Council on June 5, when the Council adopted a resolution protesting against the proposed increase in freight rates on shipments of coal to Portland.

He maintained that he had in no way exceeded his authority, and the fact that his report was published in the newspapers before members of the Council saw it was that it was an official document deposited with the City Auditor to be transmitted to the Council.

Last night 150 of the troops from the aviation section of the Spruce Division, who had been sent from Vancouver Barracks to fight the fires, were ordered to return and will reach the post this morning. This will leave about 300 soldiers in the vicinity of the different fires, a force now believed ample to prevent further spread, unless unfavorable winds should start the fires anew. One fire was burning near Enright, one near Cochran, one south of Wedeburg and another at Scofield. A west wind was blowing yesterday, but not strong.

However, this fire will have to be watched carefully because of the large amount of dead and dry timber mixed in with the sugar pine. About 20 men were at work on the fire and the majority of them will be sent at once to help fight the fire at Rabbit Ears, on this side of the Uniqua divide, which has burned over from 400 to 500 acres of the imber in the past three days, but is now burning in brush land.

Supervisor Rankin will leave to superintend the fighting of this fire temorrow, unless he should get word in the meanting that it is under control. The big fire which has been burning on the Klamath Indian Reservation and in part of Crater National.
