MISS MARGARET ANGLIN PAYS RESPECTS TO SOME OF HER SEX

Character of Frivolous, Incompetent "Betty" Reminds Actress of Many She Meets in Real Life.

Margaret Anglin, Emotional Actress Who is at Height in Smart Military Comedy.

BY LEONE CASS BAER.

THE fluffy-ruffed, pink satin, utterly senseless apron that Margaret Anglin throws carelessly across her chiffon-clad knees to hold her knitting in "Billeted" served as something for us to talk about. Miss Anglin, you must know, is intensely patriotic and she says the pink apron, which is quite un-Anglinish but which goes with the play, and the role of the frivolous, incompetent Betty, which she plays, reminds her of a lot of women she's been meeting since the war began. "They can't be called slackers," she says, "because on the surface they're busy as busy as you and I. They're not, I'm sure, the ones who gurgled that they're so tenderly anxious to help in the war, and all that sort of thing. They work once in two weeks at the building-rolling room after they have gerrymandered their way into the one which most meets their ideas of social justice and possibilities.

Grey Sock Never Gets Done.

"She carries the ugly grey sock she is knitting for some soldier right in the being made by Mr. Schwab, Mr. Piez and Dr. Eaton. The Sunday itinerary has not been definitely fixed, the party being allowed time to themselves with probably a trip over the Highway. Monday they will inspect the plant of the Willamette Iron & Steel Works at 10 o'clock, that of the Albina Engine & Machine Works at 10 o'clock and the yard of the Supply-Ballin Shipbuilding Corporation at 11 o'clock. At noon the visitors will be guests of the wooden shipbuilders of the district, and there will be luncheon with Commodore G. M. Standifer, president of the Fleet Corporation officials and their assistants during the afternoon. At 7 o'clock Monday night they will be entertained at dinner at the Benson hotel by the management of the steel shipbuilding establishments here, and they are to depart for Puget Sound at 11:30 o'clock that night.

same bag with the lovely robin-egg blue slipper she is knitting for herself, and knits, of course in public, impartially on sock and sweater, except how the sock never gets done, however, and the sweater does and another one is always being made. "She would write to some soldier, too, only she's such a poor correspondent, and she'd have joined the canning clubs only they always seem to meet on one day her bridge club meets. She works in a picture hat and a modest corsage bouquet of orchids at the booths for various drives every time they give her a chance to be stationed in one of the smart restaurants and hotels. She learns every blessed word of "The Star-strangled Banner" and then pretends she's never forgotten it since she was a wee little girl. "Learning the words alone," pines Miss Anglin, "is oftentimes enough in itself for a lot of the sisterhood, and I'm certainly in favor of all of us knowing the words, but why lie about it? If you've only lately learned them, admit it. If they're a memory heritage from early schooldays, so much the better—you deserve credit for remembering them.

This Woman Considered Funny.

"The funniest woman to me in my collection is one who grows vegetables, a dash of onions, four or five radishes and odds and ends of greens in her window boxes and on the balcony of the sleeping porch, and then eats eight lumps of sugar in her chocolate and buys flowers for her personal use. "Consistency's name certainly is woman, one is led to believe insofar as some of our dear sex express it. "I met one awfully funny person lately. She wore the most gorgeous sport clothes I've ever seen, and like every one else with a guilty conscience kept excusing herself. Her excuse amused me. She said, 'It would be perfectly ridiculous for me not to wear smart up-to-date clothes. My conversation doesn't sparkle and scintillate like that of the other girls in my set and I have to compete in one way or another.' "So," said Miss Anglin, "she was outshining her sisters in clothes. "Mourners go about the street and write to the papers waiting about what seem to them vital matters. One woman howls because fountain dispensers have advanced the price of sodawater from ten to fifteen cents, and a flock of women I know carry lumps of sugar around with them to add to the restaurant allotment. "Which do you think is most important, that the boys over there and our allies fighting in the trenches shall have sugar, or that the fat and point and men who stay at home shall stuff themselves with sugar and sweetened carbonated water? There is so very much to burden our hearts and minds these days, and so much we can do, without worrying over sodawater. "I think we women should eat and drink what we have and with a thankfulness that extends into the marrow of our bones. When this awful war is done the soda cooties can drink all they're able to pay for. "I do wish," she added plaintively, "that a lot of soda hounds I know who whine in my presence about being denied the beverage would lead to the high water. The Lord will approve their motives and remember it in days that are to come."

PORTLAND WINS AGAIN

PACIFIC COAST NURSERYMEN JUST CAN'T RESIST INVITATION.

C. J. Atwood Named President of Organization—Vice-Presidents Cover Northwest States.

Portland will entertain Pacific Coast Nurserymen again in 1919, and C. J. Atwood is president of the association for the coming year. These were decided reached on the last day of a three-day session of the Pacific Coast Nurserymen's Association at the Imperial Hotel. C. A. Tenneson was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Vice-presidents were named as follows: P. W. May, North Yakima; A. Brown, Portland; H. H. Jackson, Fresno, Cal.; C. L. Trotter, Vancouver; B. C. T. Hawkes, Caldwell; W. P. Dix, Roy, Utah; and T. W. Mills, Helena, Mont. The executive committee will serve for another year, as follows: H. A. Lewis, Portland; S. A. Miller, Milton, Or.; F. H. Burgin, Sumner, Wash. Elimination of hundreds of useless varieties of apples, crab apples, pears, cherries, prunes, plums, peaches, apricots, nectarines and almonds were suggested in a report of a special committee appointed by President M. McDonald. War economy was given as reasons for the action. Lists of the recommendations will be sent to every member of the association. A. H. Harris, publisher of the Optimist, put forward the idea of extending the nursery trade to China and Japan in an effort to encourage the growing of fruit in the Orient.

3 BOYS HELD FOR THEFT

POLICE WAR ON YOUTHS WHO ARE STEALING AUTOMOBILES.

Within Three Days More Than Dozen Cars Are Stolen in Portland and Five Are Taken in One Day.

With the arrest of three youths at Daly City, near San Francisco, yesterday on a charge of stealing an automobile, the police believe that at least one of the rings of automobile thieves that have been operating in Portland has been broken up. Thomas Moore, aged 19, was shot in the leg by the constable at Daly City in an effort to escape from the automobile when the officer stopped the car. The other boys, who gave their names as Curtis Glicker and George Weller, are believed to be Muriel Hare and Joe Meyer. The trio are accused of stealing the automobile belonging to W. A. Long, of Oregon City. The car was driven to Ashland, where it was abandoned after it was wrecked. It was the theory of the police that the youths continued to drive it into California. A warrant for the arrest of Moore was issued on June 25 when Mr. Long's car was stolen. A telegram was sent to the authorities at San Francisco yesterday to hold the three boys for the local officers after their cases have been disposed of there. Two other members of the ring were arrested by Inspectors LaSalle and Maloney. One of them, Cliff Emerson, is being held in the County Jail on a larceny charge. The other was paroled and since has enlisted in the Navy. Within the last three days more than a dozen automobiles have been stolen in Portland, five having been taken Thursday night, says the police.

Portable Schools Necessary.

ASTORIA, Or., July 12.—(Special)—The Astoria Board of School Directors this afternoon awarded a contract to J. L. Burgess for the construction of four portable school buildings at a cost of $170 each. These are for the Hillside, Brook and Adair districts and it is understood that at least two others will be constructed for the west end of the city. The building of portable structures is necessary because the capital issues committee would not permit the board to issue bonds for the erection of permanent buildings. TENURE IN QUESTION

Three City Officials Affected by Election Change.

ATTORNEY TO GIVE OPINION

Mayor Baker Seeks to Know Legal Status of Commissioners Bigelow and Kellaheer and City Auditor Funk After June 30, 1919.

The question of the tenure of office of three city officials, City Commissioners Bigelow and Kellaheer and City Auditor Funk, has been referred to City Attorney LaRoche by Mayor Baker for an opinion. Different opinions have been offered from time to time as to the date when the incumbents must release their positions, one theory being that under the constitutional amendment adopted by the 1914 Legislature and referred to and approved by the voters will make an election next November necessary. Commissioner Bigelow is serving a term which expires June 30, 1919, Commissioner Kellaheer was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Commissioner Baker and City Auditor Funk was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Auditor Barbur. Both of the latter terms of office expire June 30, 1919. The constitutional amendment requires that city elections shall be held in conjunction with state and National elections, using the same judges and election machinery for both elections. The argument has been advanced that, should no election be required this year, the incumbents affected will continue to serve in their present positions until their successors have been elected in the general election in November, 1920. On the other hand, the argument has been made that if the law is construed to be optional as to when the election must be held, the city will be forced to hold an election this Fall to elect the men to hold the three offices for the term beginning July 1, 1919. City Attorney LaRoche and Deputy City Attorney Hindman are working on a report covering the various points, which will be ready for the council early next week. More than 8,000 Canadian Indians have gone voluntarily to fight the Germans.

Bringing a message from Washington to Oregon, one that is vital in the war and shipbuilding, Charles M. Schwab, director-general of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, and Charles Piez, vice-president and general manager, reached here this morning for a visit of three days. They come from California ports, where much has been done toward bridging the Atlantic with ships and they know many of the plans intended for that bridge are being assembled here in the form of vessels. Portland and Oregon are in a most receptive mood as regards the message. Its importance is only guessed at and one of its features is fully expected to deal with the new plant of the Northwest Steel Company, which is to be located on property south of that of the Coast Shipbuilding Company.

Launchings to Total 21,000 Tons.

And to prove to the party that the owners and workers in yards of the Oregon district have not been idle, it is proposed to launch almost as many ships as were floated on the river July 1 when the entire United States combined in a ship launching demonstration. At least 20,000 shipworkers will be in tonight's parade in honor of the party and by the time the demonstration will have been floated, the combined tonnage of which will exceed the estimated number of men to march. It is expected to reach 21,000 tons of new ships during the day.

Yankee Yards Visited at 2:30.

At 2:30 this afternoon the party is to be at the wooden shipyard of the G. M. Standifer Construction Corporation at Vancouver, and later visit the new steel yard, recently completed there. At 4 o'clock they are to be received at the Grant Smith-Porter Ship Company's property at St. Johns, and an hour later at the Columbia Shipbuilding Company's plant. At 8 o'clock a dinner will be attended at the Arlington Club, at which Captain J. P. Blain and Lloyd J. Wentworth will be hosts.
