Y. M. C. A. BIG FACTOR IN LUMBER CAMPS

Southern Operators Tell How Association Solves Social Problems.

ONE STRIKE IS AVERTED

Working Conditions Are Made Better Through Organization's Efforts—Harmony and Good-Fellowship Great Need Now.

How the Y. M. C. A., established in a Southern lumber camp with doubt and misgivings, has become the center of educational and social activities of the entire community, stabilized labor conditions and averted a strike, was related yesterday at noon by Charles Green, vice-president and general manager of the Eastman-Gardiner Lumber Company, of Laurel, Miss., at a luncheon of lumbermen at the Portland Hotel.

Mr. Green admitted that he shared the doubt with reference to what the Y. M. C. A. might do for the camp community when it was first established about 10 years ago.

"In a year," he said, "the organization was making itself felt and now it is the center of about everything. Conditions in the South are very different from those here in the West. I'm not attempting to tell you how to run your business. I merely give you our experience in finding a way to run your business, by common consent, has come to have supervision over educational, social and moral conditions, entirely aside from its spiritual significance. It has solved many problems, chief among the benefits being the stabilizing of the labor force."

"Men in other camps always were waiting for the opportunity to get a job with the Eastman-Gardiner Company and many had gone elsewhere to work returned because the atmosphere of this camp suited them so much better. Now, what is the Christian way of handling this thing? We decide what the Christian way is and do that way."

Harry N. Clarke, Cleveland business man who runs his establishment in the West Coast, was introduced by E. D. Kingsley, vice-president of the Western Lumbermen's Association, who presided.

"My method of handling employees and my business is the simplest thing I know," he declared. "I have found that when some problem comes up we get together and lay all the cards on the table. Not only did the splitters of Christ's teachings, was introduced by E. D. Kingsley, vice-president of the Western Lumbermen's Association, who presided.

"I am firmly convinced, and before next January war contracts will not be given by the Government to the firm which has not gotten into harmonious working relations with employees. If you have followed the trend of recent developments you can readily see signs of what I predict."

Like his associates of the party of the Y. M. C. A. leaders seeking to initiate an era of frank good fellowship in war industries, Mr. Clarke donated his time and services. During the past year he has given four days a week to service of this kind.

The picnic committee adjourned Mr. Clarke was asked on behalf of the spruce production division of the Signal Corps to remain over and present his message to the loggers' congress meeting in Portland today, and resolutions were adopted, endorsing "participation of the Y. M. C. A. in war industries and the lumber industry of the Northwest."

Foreigners' Duties Emphasized. Dr. Peter Roberts, immigration and sociological worker of note, also a member of the party as a committeeman of the International Y. M. C. A. committee, addressed the meeting briefly.

Others who spoke at the conference included F. A. Clark, secretary of the war work council of the Coast; J. A. Goodell, Northwest industrial secretary of the Y. M. C. A.; and Tom Davis, in charge of the association's work in the spruce production division of the Signal Corps.

With the exception of Mr. Clarke and one or two other members of the visiting party, all departed last night to present the movement at Seattle.

REST AT THE CHATEAU LAKE LOUISE

Amid Swiss scenes in the Canadian Pacific Rockies—windows framing million dollar pictures of peaks and glaciers. "In the Lake, ever changing, is Beauty herself, as nearly visible to mortal eyes as she may ever be. The water, beyond the flowers, is green, always a different green. Then a little wind awakes in the distance and ripples the surface, yard by yard, covering it with a myriad of tiny wrinkles, till the lake is milky and white while the rest still sleeps. And at length the whole is astir and the sun catches it and Lake Louise is a web of laughter, the opal distillation of all the buds of all the Spring."
