OF ENTERPRISE, FOUND.

Investigation by Ranchers Fails to Solve Mystery of Rich Man's End.

ENTERPRISE, Or., Aug. 2.—(Special.)—Walter S. Brockman, the largest cattle owner in Wallowa County, was found dead Monday afternoon near a trail on Snake River. Near him lay a dead pack mule, with its load tied se-curely in place, and some of Mr. Brock-man's horses were nearby. The place where Mr. Brockman met his death is remote and singularly inac-cessible. It is more than 50 miles from a railroad and is reached by no wagor road, the nearest highway going no farther than the breaks of Snake River

It is believed that Brockman was alone on the trail when he met his death and that this was wholly acci-dental. He had gone with his pack mule and some powder to do a little

SALEM, Or., Aug. 9 .- (Special.)-Oregon's fourth liberty loan quota probably will be double that of the third loan, according to information conveyed in a letter to Governor Withyconveyed in a letter to Governor withy-combe today from James K. Lynch, of San Francisco, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank there. The quota of the last campaign was $18,495,000. This can be better appreciated when this can be better appreciated when it is remembered that of the $3,000,000,000,000 third loan, the 12th District's share was 7 per cent or $210,000,000, which means that if the next loan is $5,000,000,000 this district's portion would be approximately $420,000,000, and, therefore, practically double the quota allotted to Oregon in the last campaign."

New Order Provides for Careful Super vision of Men While En Route to Federal Cantonments.

"High jinks" on trains bearing se lected men to mobilization points will not be popular or profitable when new regulations announced from the office of the Provost Marshal-General are put into effect. A new pamphlet of some four pages, defining what the selectives may and may not do and arranging stringent supervision for them has just been issued.

Among other things the changed in-Among other things the changed in-structions provide that leaders and as-sistant leaders shall be sppointed and sworn as special military police. In this capacity the draftee leaders have the power to do most anything to pre-serve order and discipline that the of-ficer of the law has. It is required that these special officers report promptly all cases of misconduct the commanding officer of the camp.

Selectives are hereafter to be provided with armbands or brassards bearing the letters "U. S. N. A." at the time of the first rollcall in board headquarters and these emblems are to be stitched at once on the sleeve and so stitched at once on the sleeve and so worn to camp.

The provisions for careful supervision of men en route to camp are not particularly needed for Oregon draftees, officials said yesterday. The presence on the two last special trains of departing selectives of Y. M. C. SAWMILL

Plant at Marcola Will Have Daily Capacity of 150,000 Feet.

EUGENE, Or., Aug. 9 .- (Special.) The Fischer Lumber Company, of Mar-cola, will erect a new mill, work upon which has already commenced, at a cost of about $100,000 to take the place of a smaller mill which was destroyed by fire June 8, according to an announce-ment made today by Fred Fischer, president of the company. The mill is being built on the location of the eld plant above Marcola. Mr. Fischer said that the new mill will have a capacity of 150,000 feet daily, as compared with 50,000 feet for the mill that burned. About 120 men will be employed.

MUNITIONS HAULED FIRST

Railways Now in Position to Meet All Freight, Traffic Demands; Loyalty of Employes Praised in Warm Terms.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 9.—(Special.)
—How the operation of America's rail-way system of 250,000 miles represent-ing a valuation of $25,000,000,000 under Government auspices and the general direction in which such operation is tending was outlined by L. C. Gilman, district director, as guest of honor at a weicome-home luncheon tendered by the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, attended by 450 representative business and professional men today. and professional men today.

Mr. Gliman said that the policy of the Government would be to haul munitions before millinery, that the demands of the transportation for war exigencies would be preferred under all conditions and business second, but that the railways were just now in a position to handle both satisfactorily. He announced that in all probability no new railway lines would be built for industrial development until after the war, but that when any mineral or other deposit valuable to the Government. or other deposit valuable to the Gov-ernment in prosecution of war were required tracks would be built to it. Many Sacrifices Made.

Mr. Gilman said that many railroaden, while regretting the conditions that made Federal operation of the railways necessary, nevertheless since it was done the great work of unifying the systems had been carried on by the sacrifice, loyalty and patriotism of the men of the transportation world.

"These sacrifices," he said, "have, been great, but they are nothing compared with those that are this hour being made on the battlefields of France and Flanders.

"He declared that reports of lukewarmness of railway men and a desire to handleap the Government in order to handleap the Government in order that Federal ownership would be impossible was untrue of railway men.

"Such an act by a railroad man," he stated, "would be that of a traitorous scoundrel, similar to that of the man who would blow up a munitions factory or scuttle a ship.

"The railway administration is closely knit, compact and harmonious, and ly knit, compact and harmonious, and in condition to halt the Hun and make the world a decent place in which to live. We have completed our organization. The railroad way is to furnish good service efficiently and economically. This has been achieved by welding all the railway systems into one unit as quickly and thoroughly as pos-sible without disabling the properties. Competition Is Abolished.

"We have abolished competition. It no longer makes any difference which no longer makes any difference which line gets the traffic, so we send it the most economical and effective way. Spruce and fir for war purposes are moving in solid trains from ocean to ocean without the necessity of switching. Our purpose is not to encourage travel for pleasure, but to make it as comfortable as possible for those who must travel. We have moved 3,000,000 troops and it is more important to do this for the boys who are going to this for the boys who are going to fight your battles. If we can't move both pleasure travel and soldiers we'll move the soldiers. We must move munitions before millinery. At the present time we are able to serve both the Government and commerce. Mr. Gilman said that low rates and high costs had brought him to the pointon that the Government's action in taking over the railways was timely expressing a doubt as to whether the lines could have performed the service the transportation men after the war," he said in conclusion, "Well done, you have done your part in performing your duty by the country and the imperial German government."
