

BOLSHEVICK REGIME IS NEAR COLLAPSE

Soviet Organization Has Virtually Gone to Pieces, Says Late Report.

LEADERS ABOUT TO FLEE

Lentine and Trotsky, It Is Said, Are Preparing to Seek Refuge in Germany; Huns Concerned Over Eastern Situation.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—The anti-Bolshevik movement in Russia is growing rapidly. The Bolshevick soviet organization has virtually gone to pieces, and Nikolai Lentine, the Premier, and Leon Trotsky, his War Minister, intend to flee to Germany...

The Petrograd newspaper Ivestia is quoted by the correspondent as stating that at several points "in that part of Russia not occupied by the enemy," counter revolutionary movements have broken out in a number of towns.

The Bolshevick Soviets have been overthrown in these places and replaced by councils consisting of representatives of the Mensheviks, or moderates.

In the city of Kazan, the newspaper adds, the widely known Bolshevick leader, Olshchinsky, has been killed, while there has been great bloodshed among the Bolsheviki in the Novgorod and Kiznaia districts.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 10.—The significance of American and Japanese intervention in Siberia is the theme of much speculation by the German papers. Secretary Lansing's statement that no interference with Russia's political sovereignty is intended is scoffed at by the Berlin Kreuz Zeitung.

The Cologne Gazette takes the view that America probably is "a few degrees more honest than Japan" in declaring she wants no Russian territory. The Gazette says the forces of the two nations will watch each other closely, from which it draws the conclusion that their action is unlikely to develop into any magnitude.

The National Zeitung hazards the guess that the Japanese-American arrangements is a desperate expedition of the entente, which sees Japan slipping from its grasp and therefore find it necessary to subject her to a "thorough bleeding." Japan, according to this organ, will not fail to profit from the present occasion by consolidating her position on the Asiatic continent, after which she will have no further interest in the continuation of the war.
