

LABOR DAY BOOTS PURE LOCAL BOXERS

Bronson and Tucker Slated to Clash in Everett for Coast Championship.

ABERDEEN TO HOLD SMOKER

Steve Reynolds, Seattle Middleweight, and Jimmy Darcy Will Be Seen in Windup of Ten Three- Minute Rounds.

All of the Portland battlers who will appear at distant cities on Labor Day are training hard for their bouts and will be in the pink of condition. The most important bout is the Muff Bronson-Frankie Tucker go in Everett, Wash., for the lightweight championship of the Pacific Coast. There is considerable argument in San Francisco as to who is the lightweight champion of the Coast. The Southern papers have figured out that the title belongs either to Jimmy Dundee, Harry Pelsinger or Frankie Farren. Each boxer has his supporter in the newspaper field. The other night Farren did a comeback and now all of the papers are hailing him as a champion. How Farren or Pelsinger have any claim to the title is more than Joe Flanagan can figure out. Bronson defeated both Pelsinger and Farren and has held his own with every man whom he has fought since he won the title from George Ingie.

Lightweights to Vie.

Frankie Tucker is no chuff for any boxer and he will give Frank a good battle in Everett on Labor Day. Realizing the situation, Bronson is nursing his injured shoulder along like a pet and doing all the light training he can. As soon as his shoulder and arm get into condition he will step out and start the hard grueling of boxing with his sparring partners.

Aberdeen will be the scene of two 10-round bouts on the same bill. Harry Drumman, match-maker of the Moon Club of Aberdeen, is staging the show and it promises to draw a capacity crowd.

Steve Reynolds, the tough Seattle middleweight who flattened Frank Farmer in 10 seconds in Seattle last year, will box Fighting Jimmy Darcy, the local claimant of the middleweight title, in the windup of 10 three-minute rounds. Reynolds and Darcy are two of the most aggressive 160 pounders in the business in this neck of the woods and are sure to put up some mill.

Claire "Kid" Bronco, the San Francisco flash, will meet Freddie Lough in the semi-windup, which will also go 10 rounds.

Two Portland boxers will also go 10 rounds in Astoria, but their names have not been announced. Lee Morrissey will probably be one of the men.

'KID COTTON' IS JAILED

LOS ANGELES BOXER TAKEN HERE ON PERJURY CHARGE.

Officers Allege That Visitor Testified Falsely in Applying for Permit to Sail Foreign.

Jimmy G. Walsh, whose true name is James Gaudin, and who is known in sporting circles as "Kid Cotton," a Los Angeles boxer, was arrested yesterday by Federal authorities on a complaint issued by Assistant United States Attorney Vestch, charging him with perjury. Walsh is alleged to have perjured himself when he applied to local customs officials for a permit to sail foreign.

Walsh applied for this permit a few days ago he gave his age as 20 and swore that he was a native-born American citizen. He subsequently in a crude manner altered the permit by erasing the figure 20 and substituted 25 as his correct age. Grounds for the perjury charge were unearthed by the Government officials who have ascertained that Walsh is a native of Ireland about two weeks ago from Los Angeles, being in charge of a concession with a transient carnival company.

In connection with the arrest of Walsh, Percy Augustine, clerk at the Menlo Hotel, was also taken into custody on a charge. Augustine appeared as a witness for Walsh when he obtained his passport and swore that he had known the prisoner for two years and that he was a citizen of the United States.

TENNIS IS ON TAPIS NEXT

SHIPBUILDERS LIKELY TO SHOW TALENT WITH RACQUET SOON.

City Park Court May Be Used in Event Standifer and Cornfoot Clash Saturday.

Mathew Linehan, editor of the Grant Smith-Porter paper, who is also in charge of athletics at the St. Johns yards, is going to take up the matter of staging an inter-shipbuilders' tennis tournament with officials of other shipbuilding companies tomorrow afternoon. A special meeting of all the athletic directors of the various shipbuilding plants to discuss the tennis situation and draw up the schedules in case they decide to stage such a tournament is planned.

Each shipyard is to send a number of representatives to enter in the singles and doubles events. Arrangements will be made to get the winners trophies and the City Park courts probably will be used for staging the tournament.

There are a number of star inter-scholastic tennis players now working in the shipyards and a tournament of that kind would bring out some of the best talent in the city. Among the 10,000 shipyard workers in this city there is enough hidden talent to make some of the stars gasp, but on account of the inconvenient hours of the state tennis tournament and other club tournaments, none of the shipyard stars were able to enter, but will be able to do so now.

Standifer and Cornfoot will clash at Vaughn street next Saturday in a post-posed shipbuilders' contest. The local fans have been asking for games on Saturdays, and as the players on both teams are not working on Saturday afternoon, the game was arranged. Cornfoot is in the pink of condition and his two pitchers, Sutherland and Rapp, are in fine form. Rapp probably will twirl on Saturday and Sutherland on Sunday.

When the Base Hospital of Camp Lewis stepped on the diamond they looked like a bunch of "chicks" just out from "Farmerville," but before the game had lasted many innings the local prizes began to look foolish and were wallowed in the end, 4-3.

Bill Smyth, manager of the Base Hospital nine, is former assistant sporting editor of The Oregonian. Smyth developed a fine combination and Pitcher Coffman, the diminutive southpaw from South California, could certainly bolster up some of the local shipyard nines. Coffman allowed only three scattered hits, Bill Stumpf being the only one to get a base hit. Bill smashed the piller for two bases.

OUTFIELDER CLYDES, OF THE GRANT SMITH-PORTER NINE, ONE OF THE HEAVIEST LONG DISTANCE HITTERS IN THE LEAGUE, QUIT THE GRANT SMITH-PORTER YARDS AND IS NOW WORKING AT FOUNDATION. CLYDES PLAYED CENTER FIELD FOR THE WESTSIDERS WHEN THEY PLAYED THE BASE HOSPITAL. DURING THE FIRST HALF OF THE SEASON HE WAS THE HEAVIEST HITTER ON THE NINE AND AIDED THAT NINE CONSIDERABLY IN KEEPING IN THE RUNNING.

Stumpf will have a hard job keeping his reputation as the best shortstop in the circuit if French, the Cornfoot shortstop, continues to play as good a game as he did last Sunday for the Grant Smith-Porter nine of Aberdeen. French handled 16 out of the 17 chances that came his way and smashed out a pretty triple.

WORLD'S SERIES CROWD IN DOUBT

Moderate Success Only Ex- pected by Baseball Fans in Losing Cities.

CLUB OWNERS CONFIDENT

Championship Games, However, Still Blue Ribbon Event in Sportdom and Close Finish Will Keep Fans Enthusiastic.

BY JAMES J. RICHARDSON.

With the two major league seasons fast drawing to a close, speculation is rife as to whether the world's series this year, if played, will draw as well as usual and arouse the enthusiasm of the fans and fanettes as in seasons gone by. Many of those dyed-in-the-wool fans who view the situation from neutral ground—let's say, from cities not involved in the prospective series—are inclined to think it will be but a moderate success.

The owners of the clubs hovering around the top rung of the ladder in the trials and tribulations that the two clubs lucky enough to be involved will not be disrupted during the series, and there is every reason to believe the attendance and interest will be nearly equal to that of past years.

Contrary to general opinion, there is still wide interest in baseball, despite the trials and tribulations the National pastime has had since the start of the world-wide conflict, and the world's series is still the blue-ribbon event in sportdom. With Boston, in the American League, keyed up for a close finish, and the Chicago Cubs clinging tightly to first place in the National League, don't think for a moment that the cities of New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis and a few more of the big league towns are not going to show a lot of interest in the coming classic.

While a large number of the people who talk and play baseball are serving their country overseas, there is sure to be a large attendance at the world's series. It has been demonstrated this year that the fans will turn out in goodly numbers for a stellar attraction, and the world series is baseball's greatest attraction.

Portland baseball fans and those of the Pacific Coast League will watch with interest the work of Charlie Hollocher, Cub shortstop, who was a member of the Portland Beavers in 1917. Hollocher has been playing a brilliant game for the Chicago Nationals and is regarded as the "find" of the season.

Charlie Pick, last season with the San Francisco Seals, is holding down the center field position for the Zeider, former Seal shortstop, is playing second for Fred Mitchell's National League leaders.

Portland has one of its former pitching stars with the Boston Red Sox in the person of Carl Mays. He has been one of the Red Sox mainstays this season, and may give a chance to one or more of the games in the coming series.
