Workers Readiest With Liberty Loan Pledges; Shipbuilders Make Good.

OVER-OPTIMISM IS NOTED

Too Many Business Men Consider War Almost Won; Say Loan Campaigners; More Speed Is Urgently Necessary.

State headquarters handled a number of pleasing reports yesterday, according to John L. Etheridge, state director of organization, who is increasingly confident that he will win his wager, made with General Talbot of the city forces, that over Oregon will report a full quota before Portland does. Among the messages received by Mr. Etheridge yesterday are:

Towns Over-Subscribe.
Cochran, a small town of Washington County, is 600 per cent over-pledged. Its quota was $2000.
Goble, in Columbia County, has trebled its quota, according to the report of R. L. Kenny, district manager.
Hood River County, reported Truman Butler, manager, has pledged $90,000, or one-half its allotment with subscription pledges still coming in freely.
"Without hesitation I will say that the Marshfield district will provide its quota, whatever it happens to be," ran the word from Charles Hall, of Marshfield.

Clatsop County Confident.
County Chairman Judd, of Astoria, Clatsop County, reports that the campaign is launched with every promise of speedy success.
"Forget about Washington County," telegraphed Chairman Thornburg. "Give all your attention to other districts. There is no question about raising our quota pledge—and more."
Several counties have not yet pledged the campaign, and will start active work with the first of the coming week. In every county, however, organization work is completed and assurance is expressed that the pledge drive will be over within the coming week. State loan officials are skeptical, to some extent, and maintain that increased momentum must be gathered if the schedule is kept.

Action Necessary Here.
"The people of Portland must better themselves," said General Talbot yesterday. "If we are to live up to the splendid record of other war drives."

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.
The Altar of Liberty is dedicated to the subscribers of the fourth liberty loan. It is desired that every subscriber visit the altar and sign his name on the roster of loyal citizens.
The book is substantially bound and will become a permanent souvenir in custody of the Oregon Historical Society. It will be handed down to succeeding ages as a testimony to the patriotism of the citizens of Portland.
The only formality necessary to the signing of the document is the exhibition to the soldier in charge of a fourth liberty loan button or a receipt showing you have made the initial 10 per cent payment required of all bond subscribers.
EMERY OLNSTEAD,
City Chairman.
GUY TALBOT,
General.

Many financially able to lend the Government substantial amounts are pledging but comparatively small sums. Surely the United States is the largest and most substantial corporation in the world. Every citizen is a stockholder. Then why not pledge ourselves to the actual limit of our individual resources?

"I am appealing to those who have not yet signed the pledge cards to consider every angle of the problem confronting the city and the Nation and to go the limit when called upon. I am asking those who have subscribed to consider their ability to double their subscriptions."

Liberty Temple Is Open.
"Liberty Temple is open all day and every night until 10 o'clock, so that persons who may not be called upon during the day can visit the Temple during the evening and turn in their subscriptions."

Campaigners received a real lesson in patriotic bond salesmanship yesterday, when it became known that Ben Selling had induced his employees to increase their subscriptions from $1000 to $1100 over night, through the medium of a talk that lacked every element of coercion, but abounded in the spirit of "get-together" patriotism.

Said Mr. Selling, according to one of his employees, demonstrating the attractive qualities of the liberty loan investment:

"Folks, you think you have done well in your subscriptions, but you have not subscribed as fully as you should."

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Mrs. Alice M. Welster and Mrs. Sam Thatcher, Portland clubwomen, have gone to Salem to be in charge of the art department of the 57th annual Oregon State Fair, which opens Monday. Mrs. Welster having been at the head of this department for several years and having made it one of the notable features of the fair. The response from all over the state for specimens of decorative and industrial art have been unusually large and a display of more than ordinary interest is promised. Both Mrs. Welster and Mrs. Thatcher invite the Portland women to make their department their headquarters throughout the week.

One of the most important committees on the entertainment of the Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs was that of hospitality, which involved the soliciting of accommodations for the out-

You have always been loyal. You have always joined in every patriotic movement with credit to yourself, but I must confess some disappointment that the employees of this organization have not been in the present drive. What are you giving, compared with what the boys in the trenches are prepared to give?

"There is not a bank in the country that will not advance you at least $50 on each $100 liberty bond at 6 per cent interest. If the banks will not do so, will that does that mean? Just this: When you buy a liberty bond for $100, the Government pays you $4.25 interest each year. Suppose you feel called upon to borrow on your bonds, $50 on each $100 bond, at 6 per cent interest, what do you pay? Just $4.50 to the bank. That means that you are contributing to the cause for which our government is fighting just 15 cents a year on each $100 bond you purchase. It is a simple lesson in mathematics."

Security Best on Earth.
You are lending on the best security on earth, and you are sacrificing 55 cents to the cause. Think it over, gentlemen."

Supplementing their splendid loyalty to the American flag, in sending hundreds of their men to the battle front, Portland citizens of Greek blood are joining heartily in the fourth liberty loan. Probably in no other section of the city is greater interest manifested.

In addition to the work of Captain Boring's team, in the Greek colony, residents of that district, under the leadership of Thomas Givas, have organized a group of volunteer solicitors. It is their avowed purpose to secure a pledge from every resident of their race, and for this purpose the leaders have arranged a series of nightly entertainments. Bands will parade and speeches will be delivered throughout the colony.

Bakery Employees Respond.
Every employee of the Log Cabin Bakery, according to information received at Liberty Temple, has subscribed for at least one bond of the fourth loan, the total pledges amounting to $12,800, or more than double those made in the third drive.

Exactly one week remains in which Portland and Oregon may redeem their pledge to have completed the liberty loan work on the morning of September 28. Hundreds of individuals inspiring instances do not typify the general response to the fourth loan. In Portland, particularly, there is need for more determined action than ever.

Portland Must Not Fail.
"Portland people who do not wish to be classed as slackers," said Chairman Olmstead, late last night, "must subscribe more liberally for liberty bonds than in any of the previous drives. They are not being called upon for more than their share. Every city and hamlet in the United States has been classified according to its ability to subscribe to the bonds. Portland has been asked to subscribe for $19,000,000 of the bonds, simply because the Government believes that is the amount Portland is justly capable of raising. Portland must not fail the Government."

MOTHERS TO MARCH IN LIBERTY PARADE

More Than 1800 Women Sign for Greatest Pageant in History of Portland.

JUDGE TUCKER TO SPEAK

Meeting Following Parade Will Be Featured by Patriotic Talks, Music and Many Other War-time Features.

ROUTE OF PARADE TONIGHT.
From Salmon street, north on Twelfth to Alder, Alder to Sixth, Sixth to Morrison, Morrison to Fourth (Fourth to Market, thence to Auditorium, where programme will be given.

Tonight Portland is to witness such a pageant as only war can furnish. Yet it will be wholly without military trappings or martial glory—for it is the march of the mothers, wives and sisters of the lads who have gone to the colors.

Through an unintentional oversight on the part of the committee in charge, no specific mention has been made of the sailor boys and their mothers, in connection with the parade. The committee wishes it known that of the 1800 women who had registered up to a late hour last night fully one-third of them have relatives in the Navy. Many mothers have sons in each branch of Sam's service, the Army and the Navy.

Fourteen gold stars were represented in the long list. Another mother of five sons in the service has come forward. She is Mrs. Charles Rosky, of 225 Lowndale street.

All women who desire to participate in the event, particularly those who have not registered, are requested to take note of the formation for the parade. Mothers will form on Twelfth and Salmon streets, wives on Twelfth and Taylor, sisters on Twelfth and Yamhill, children on Twelfth and Morrison. Young children may remain with their mothers.

Four Bands Will Play.
Other women needing escorts may keep their daughters with them. Automobiles will be furnished by the motor division of the Women's League for National Service, so that all older women or mothers with babes may ride.

Persons having their own service flags are requested to bring them, as the committee fears there will not be enough to supply the need. Four bands will participate. They are the Multnomah Guard Band, Foundation Band, Columbia Shipbuilding Band and the Moose Band. The parade will terminate at the Auditorium, where a programme will be given. There will be patriotic singing, with George Wilber Reed leading; two solos, by Jane Burns Albert, William R. Boone will preside at the organ. Judge Robert Tucker will give an address. Mrs. Sarah A. Evans will preside.

Women who have found it inconvenient to register at headquarters of the women's committee in the Northwestern bank building may march in the mothers' parade tonight by taking their places in the proper section of the formation, says Mrs. Kelley Rees, secretary of the committee. Women having no service flag are asked to provide themselves with one by calling at Lipman & Wolfe's accommodation desk today.

FAIR INTERFERES WITH DRIVE

Salem Determined to Go Over Top in Fourth Liberty Campaign.

SALEM, Or., Sept. 20.—(Special.)—It is the purpose of General Steiner and his aides in charge of the Salem liberty loan campaign to go over the top with its $1,057,000 quota tomorrow night, if possible. General Steiner explains that Salem is facing a peculiar condition in connection with the loan drive in that the State Fair opens here next week and it is probable that work on loan solicitations during that week will have to be curtailed to a large extent.

A big smashing drive will be made tomorrow to bring in the remainder needed on the loan quota for this city. Determination has been reached to overlook no slackers and special committees have been assigned to round up the "hard nuts," as they have been officially designated.

France to Grant Recognition.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—(Havas)—France will recognize the independence of the Southern Slavs, accepting a suggestion from Italy to this effect, the Echo de Paris announces.
