Logging camps, where soldiers are employed, are under strict guard to-day. One hundred soldiers from Camp Lewis were sent last night to Lindberg. Lewis County, where a bad fire was reported to the apruce division headquarters here, and soldiers are likewise fighting fire at Morton, Lewis County. Major Hightower, district commander, asked Portland general headquarters last night that troops be held in readiness at Vancouver to be sent to any place in the district to assist in fighting fire in case of need. So far one logging camp has been completely destroyed, but the threat to the adjoining camp of the Chehalis County Logging Company, near Montesano, has been averted. The most serious fire in the Grays Harbor region is that raging in the Matlock district, where the Callow mill and three camps of the Simpson Logging Company have been burned, together with a number of ranch homes.

FIRES WELL UNDER CONTROL

Reports to Forest Fire Association
Are Now Favorable.

Reports to the Oregon Forest Fire Association yesterday indicated that the fire situation in this state was well under control. The cessation of the cast wind has enabled the fire fighters to prevent old blazes from spreading to any extent. No new fires were reported.

The brush fire in Marquam Guich was under control yesterday. Fire hureau officials expressed hope that it would be out last night. For a time a section of the residence district on Portland Heights was considered in danger, but the wind died down before the flames reached any houses.
