

ECONOMIC FORCES OF ALLIES POOLED

Central Control Programme, Long Planned, Now in Actual Operation.

NATIONS DO TEAMWORK

System Involves Co-ordination of Efforts of All War, Shipping, Munitions, Food, Finance Councils of Germany's Enemies.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The long-planned centralized control of all the economic forces of the nations fighting Germany is a fact.

It applies the principles of the unified military command to raw materials, manufactured products, shipping, finance, food and the export and import relations of the United States and the co-belligerents.

The great plan was worked out by President Wilson's so-called War Cabinet and the allied nations.

No announcement of its consummation has been made here, in fact it has rather been withheld from publicity.

Some of its details and the fact that it is actually in operation have become known through developments in Paris and London.

Five Councils Co-operate. Co-ordination of effort by the associated governments in addition to military and naval activity, amounting to centralized control, is built around the five inter-allied councils—war, shipping, munitions, food and finance.

Under these special bodies completion of a common economic and industrial programme is now being undertaken, principally in London and Paris, and limited to the following cases:

Where two or more governments are interested in supplies which must be transported overseas to supplement deficiencies in local production; or where several sources of supplies should be agreed upon, together with the allotment and method of their distribution or utilization; or where there might without agreement be competition between governments in producing supplies, or a wasteful duplication of productive effort.

Complete Teamwork Arranged. The programmes will be co-ordinated with finance through the inter-allied finance committee, with shipping through the inter-allied shipping council, and with export and import relations through an inter-allied board made up of heads of representative of the American trade board and similar departments of the other governments.

Subordinate to the inter-allied councils are being organized commodity committees or executives. While the inter-allied councils are composed of men of so-called ministerial or cabinet rank, the committees will be made up of men of lesser position, but experts in their particular commodity.

The committees will deal directly with virtually all materials and commodities for the prosecution of the war.

These include tin, tungsten and international pooling agreements for which have recently been effected in Paris and London; non-ferrous metals, iron and steel, hides and leather, rubber, wool and all other raw materials or manufactured products of which there may be a shortage; international competitive and shipping conditions and the local production and distribution situation make regulation desirable.

Pooling agreements which have been effected as the necessity arises.

Differences to Be Adjusted. The committees will be responsible to the five inter-allied councils.

Any differences arising as to allocation of ships or material or other matters of a serious or vital nature, on which the members of the inter-allied councils are unable to agree, will be brought to President Wilson and the premiers of the allied nations for settlement.

Food control already has been centered in London, following Food Administrator Hoover's recent visit abroad to attend the inter-allied food conference in London. One of the results of his trip, it became known today, was the perfection of the President's plan for centralized control and its acceptance by England, France and Italy.

The munitions council meets in Paris with two American representatives, Assistant Secretary of War Stettinius for the War Department, and L. L. Summers, of the War Industries Board, personal representative of Chairman Haruch, of that organization.

Prompt Action Provided. Provision is made that where questions arise relative to the functions of any one of the inter-allied councils, no matter where they are sitting, which require attention in any other of the allied capitals, representatives may be appointed with plenary authority to act for that council.

A member of the council, absent from the country where it is sitting, may appoint a deputy, with full authority to act for him.

The entire plan contemplates the cutting of red tape, elimination of controversies between the allies in their fight against the central powers and welding the resources of the allies into a common pool and to provide the machinery to handle all problems that are intricate, voluminous, or in need of continuous attention.

Former Mistakes to Be Avoided. The theory of the organization is based on the mistakes of the allies early in the war and on the necessity of overcoming difficulties of providing the five elements essential to successful military operations—food, money, ships, materials and guns—and also of eliminating the many disturbing factors apt to confront allies fighting in a common cause but having national peculiarities, and possibly different ways of approaching the same object.

America, through its position as the storehouse of the world and not less through President Wilson's world leadership, accepted by the allies, will probably be the guiding hand in the plan for centralized control. The effect will be a common pool of resources necessary for winning the war quickly.

FLOUR MILLS SLOW UP

GOVERNMENT'S POLICY CAUSES LESS GRINDING BY 50 PER CENT.

Millers "Up in Air" for Many Hours Accumulating Orders Which They Expected to Be Taken.

Because of the Government's slow flour-buying policy in the Northwest, the flour mills are slowing down in their operations until now they are grinding to less than 50 per cent of their capacity.

Last year the Government's purchases averaged about 500,000 barrels of flour monthly, but only 167,000 barrels have been bought for October shipment, and none at all was purchased in September. The matter has been laid before the Food Administration and there are intimations that some action will be taken soon; but what it will be the millers here do not know, nor has M. H. Houser, the grain corporation head for this territory, been advised of the steps under consideration.

Press reports from Washington say unrestricted milling of Northwestern wheat will be authorized by the Food Administration. What this refers to is not clear, as there has been no restriction of milling since July 1 except the 90-day time limit, representing flour, and permits for time extensions have been granted whenever requested. The mills have been operating unrestricted, accumulating flour against orders they expected the Government to place, and most of them are still waiting for these orders.

The only solution of the milling problem in the Northwest, they point out, will be actual purchase by the Government of flour in sufficient quantities to enable the farmers to move their crops. When these purchases are authorized and the mills can run to capacity, the milling situation, which is causing the drymen so much anxiety, will take care of itself.

B'NAI B'RITH GENEROUS

SPLENDID CLUBROOM DEDICATED TO SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.

Opening to Be Saturday Night With Social Dance—Men in Uniform May Get Tickets at Royal Building.

Free of all rental, the splendid clubrooms of the B'nai B'rith building, at Thirteenth and Market streets, have been dedicated to the use of soldiers and sailors for the duration of the war, under the supervision of the war camp community service of the Commission on Training Camp Activities.

B. G. Greening, representing the war camp community service for Portland, has accepted the generous offer.

The B'nai B'rith building will be opened Saturday night as a soldiers' and sailors' club with a social dance—good music, good floors, nice girls, and the pleasant sort of chaperonage. None but men in uniform will be permitted to attend, and application for tickets must be made to the Soldiers' and Sailors' Headquarters club, sixth floor of the Royal building, Broadway and Morrison.

The dance is to be the first of a series for which the B'nai B'rith building affords opportunity, and is to be sponsored by the Gym Girls' Club, Miss Naomi Sweet, chairman, one of the auxiliaries of the National League for Women's Service.

"For some time past," said Mr. Greening, "the Soldiers' and Sailors' Club, in the Royal building, has felt the need for expansion, such as the generous offer of the B'nai B'rith affords. The former club will still be maintained as downtown headquarters, and both will undoubtedly find ample patronage."

2 PAY CHECKS FORGED

DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S OFFICE STILL SEEKING CRIMINALS.

Conspiracy Believed to Exist Between Two Men, One of Whom Recently Entered Army.

Two more forged pay checks from Portland shipyards were turned over to District Attorney Evans yesterday and caused the county officials to redouble their efforts to apprehend what is believed to be a forger.

The man report the forged checks as having been stolen and in due course of time are given duplicate checks.

The plan believed to be used is for some shipyard workers to exchange pay checks and then forge each other's names. After cashing the forged checks the men report the original checks as having been stolen and in due course of time are given duplicate checks.

When the family circle was once more restored, the Democrats discussed the state of the party generally, and as the meal was good, the talk was lively and they were highly optimistic.

"I think," said W. M. Pierce, who has been nominated for Governor, "that the return of Oswald West will be an important factor in the campaign."

Note—Mr. West has said that he will make campaign speeches for Mr. Pierce. Another Note (this is in parenthesis)—(Not all those who were at the love feast love West.)

"West, you know," continued Mr. Pierce, "has a great deal of influence in certain quarters and among certain people. We Democrats have been requested by our National committee not to make a political campaign until the last two weeks before the election, but—then—"

The deduction was eloquent. It is expected that there will be at least another candidate on the Supreme Court, in addition to Justice Alton, just appointed, and Judge John S. Coke, who has said that he will ask that his name be written on the ballot. A Circuit Judge, not far from Portland, has been considering the prospects and may toss his hat into the ring any day. S. C. PIER IN RACE FOR COMMISSIONER

Candidate Urges Voters to Investigate His Fitness for Municipal Berth.

WEST INFLUENCE IS TOLD

Democrats Hold Lovelace and Discuss Campaign; Two More Aspirants Loom for Seat on Supreme Bench.

First formally to enter the municipal election as a candidate for City Commissioner is S. C. Pier, who filed his nominating petition yesterday at the City Hall.

"I intend making a clean and aggressive campaign," said Mr. Pier, "and I want the voters to investigate my qualifications and fitness for the place. I feel that I am now making an application to the people for a position of responsibility, and that they have the right to know all about my fitness, believing that the applicant who can show the best credentials is the one to receive consideration."

"While it is my purpose to manage my own campaign," continued Mr. Pier, "I will have the assistance of the following business friends of long standing who have consented to act as a campaign advisory board: Rev. Dr. J. H. Boyd, Jay Smith, Ben Selling, Amos E. Smith, Thomas B. Houser, Mr. Dr. Andrew C. Smith, A. H. Averill, L. G. Clark, H. D. Kilham and Dr. J. A. Pettit."

Mr. Pier has for years been associated with the Marshall-Wells Company and is well known in the business circles of Portland and throughout the Pacific Northwest. Mr. Pier declares that he is greatly encouraged by the innumerable offers of support which he has received from men and women.

Democrats do not intend overlooking the opportunity to have someone to vote for as Justice of the Supreme Court, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Frank A. Moore. There is to be a gathering of the faithful, possibly tonight, to survey the situation and see what can be done to plant a Democrat on the bench. Politically considered, there are no Democrats on the Supreme Court of Oregon at this time, and the party leaders are of the opinion that it is high time that this defect should be remedied.

As the story goes, the Democrats will hold a conference, a call having been issued to members of the State Central Committee to come to Portland, to see what action should be taken. There are some good lawyers who owe allegiance to the Democratic party, and so there is no shortage of available material. The main trouble is to induce someone to consent to run. Of course, if the committee picks out a candidate it will not be an "assembly." The party leaders will simply say that Mr. So-and-so is the man for the job and ask all loyal Democrats to write his name in on the ballot. Any Democrat can see and understand the distinction. Naturally, the Democratic leaders want to center the strength of the party on one man and after they have selected a likely prospect any other Democrat who may feel the impulse to run will either be discouraged or will be made to understand that he is not to run from that everything will be all right.

A love feast was held yesterday by Democrats at the Hotel Portia and not even the unexpected entrance of Ben Selling, a 100 per cent Republican, failed to spoil the occasion. In fact, Mr. Selling, it should be explained that he was looking for the liberty loan luncheon when he landed in the great headquarters of the party political enemy. Notwithstanding the profuse invitations that he break bread with them, Mr. Selling declined.

When the family circle was once more restored, the Democrats discussed the state of the party generally, and as the meal was good, the talk was lively and they were highly optimistic.

"I think," said W. M. Pierce, who has been nominated for Governor, "that the return of Oswald West will be an important factor in the campaign."
