there will be sufficient material ahead to insure three months' work being carried on without delays," says Joseph R. Bowles, president of the Northwest Steel Company.

Alfred F. It is expected, with the curtailment at steel expected, with the curtailment at steel mills during inclement weather in the East, that there will be a decrease in shipments, which also will be affected by Winter transporation delays, but the ediate outlook is reported more favorable than for the past few months.

The report of the port charges committee of the Board of State Harbor Commissioners will be the principal topic of discussion at tomorrow night's meeting of the Foreign Trade Club. It is especied that the club will adopt a resolution indorsing the report, which prevides for general changes in administering the charges of the port. The committee will discuss every feature of charges both at this port and other places and a general plan then will be decided upon. An effort subsequently will be made to the end that all Facilic Coast ports will decide to adopt the same plan. their ships. Some were found subject to Joseph M. Jones has been given the berth of chief engineer of the steamer Moraine, which was built at Aberdeen by the Grant Smith-Forter interests and outfitted here. John Wahlborg is to be third mate of the steamer Kinco, built by the G. M. Standifer Construction Corporation.

High cost of living, admittedly a serious feature aboard vessels as well as ashore, will not actuate the Port of Portland Commission in advancing towage or pilotage rates. That was decided at an adjourned meeting yesteray.

John Doyle, superintendent of the Port, presented a statement of charges elsewhere and it was determined not to alter the tariff. At the same time more must be pald on river towing when performed by vessels other than those operated by the Port. Steamboat owners refuse to handle deepwater ships at old rates, because of the price of fuel oil having more than doubled in the past year, while wages and the cost of boarding crews have gone up as well.
