There will be no third choice in voting for candidates for City Commissioner in the coming municipal elec-tion. The limit of choices will be two

There are five candidates for the long term, of four years, which begins July 1, 1919, and two candidates elected to the long term and one for the short term. The successful short-term candidate will take office as soon as the votes are counted, which should be November 6, and he will hold until July 1. It was the opinion of City Attorney

It was the opinion of City Attorney LaRoche that Dan Kellaher, appointed to fill the unexpired term of George L. Baker when the latter as Commis-sioner was elected Mayor, held office only until the next election and not until next July. This opinion has redidates for the long term, and a sec-ond choice allowed, every elector can vote for all the candidates except one. It has been demonstrated in other elections where the preferential voting has been used that second-choice votes are necessary to win. Never in Portland has a candidate had enough first-choice votes to carry the election. Second and third-choice votes have been required. When the first, second and third-choice method of voting was inaugurated in this set and the first second and third-choice the second and third-choice the second and third-choice the second and third-choice the second and third-choice method of voting was inaugurated in the second from the been compiled from awailmethod of voting was inaugurated in this city some of the candidates fig-ured out that a "single-shot" vote would be the way to beat the game. Candi-dates who campaigned on that theory were defeated. The most approved meth-od of campaigning now is to ask for a first-choice vote and, if that is already pladgred to apother candidate then ask pladged to another candidate, then ask for the second-choice vote.
