BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Oct. 18.—(Reuters.)—Left to their own devices during most of yesterday, the inhabitants of Lille made it a gala day to celebrate their emancipation. It is estimated that 40,000 men, women and children flocked the streets, displaying amazing wealth.

Tonight at 9 o'clock, near Armentieres, an officer shouted to us, 'Lille is taken.' We speeded our automobile on taken. We speeded our automobile on the road of victory. Two miles from Lille two young girls ran out in front of our automobile, crying amid sobs of joy, They have gone, they have gone. Vivent Les Anglais. Viva La France! Greeks, just like the Armenians, were accused of disloyalty to the Ottoman government; the Turks accused them of furnishing supplies to the English submarines in the Marmors and also of a citing as spies. The Turks also declared that the Greeceks were not loyal to the Ottoman government and that they also looked forward to the day when the Greeks inside of Turkey would become part of Greece.

Policy, Not Pity, Rules.

These latter charges were unquestionably true; that the Greeceks, after suffering for five centuries the most unspeakable outrages at the hands of the Turks, should look longingly to the day when their territory should be part of the fatherland, was to be expected. The Turks, as in the case of the Armenians, seized upon this as an excuse for a violent on siaught on the whole race.
