

FOOD CONSERVATION NO ONE IN EARNEST

One Kind of Meat to Patron Restaurant Limit.

CHICKEN PIE IS DOOMED

Recipes Call for Veal, Which May No Longer Mingle With Chicken in Delectable Pastry.

"Good-bye, chicken pie." Sh-h-h! Draw near, for the secret of the lament—deep and dark—is about to be revealed.

Among the new food conservation regulations that went into effect yesterday morning was one prescribing that no public eating house should serve more than one kind of meat to a patron.

Sugar Allowance Cut. These same drastic orders put signs up in every corresponding eating place, announcing that each patron may have but one spoonful of sugar.

Yesterday also witnessed the passing of whipped cream as the delectable topping for the piece of pie or other tasty dessert. It was even ruled that the restaurateur may not whip and use cream skimmed from his supply of whole milk.

Reg pardon? Oh, the joke about the chicken pie wasn't made plain? Stupid work, stupid work. Of course, the point about serving but one kind of meat to a patron was plain.

Joke Is Made Plain. The joke about the chicken pie wasn't made plain? Stupid work, stupid work.

Though an excellent response of Portland eating house managers to the drastic new restrictions was reported yesterday, it was said that here and there alien managers are playing the "no-savvy" game.

Violators Will Be Found. Violators, said Mr. Childs, are going to experience a rude awakening.

GERMAN REPLY VIEWED WITH SUSPICION BY PRESS OF U. S.

Little Hope of Peace Expressed Despite Apparent Acquiescence to President's Demands—Clear Statement of Facts Still Desired.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE.—From the German response it is apparent that the ruling powers at Berlin now look complete defeat in the face.

Seattle Post-Intelligencer.—Dr. Solfr latest note emphasizes the necessity of reducing principles to realities. The time has come for specific utterance, for our full and complete demands.

Los Angeles Times.—Two things have apparently been achieved, the U-boat atrocities have been stopped and Kaiserism has been put into a state of confusion.

Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution.—The latest German peace note to President Wilson is not as unequivocal as it appears.

Idaho Statesman (Boise)—The time seems to have come when we should tell Germany, in as few words as possible, that when she is ready to surrender without conditions or reservations we shall be glad to be apprised of the fact, and that otherwise the German reply will not be considered nor accorded the recognition of replies.

Dallas (Tex.) News.—The note is altogether too hopeful for peace. The outlook is not hopeful for peace.

Baltimore American.—There is nothing in this note actually to promote peace; the evident disposition of the German authorities is to avoid any step by step as they are forced to do.

Baltimore Sun.—The German government "trusts that the President of the United States will approve of no demand which should be irreconcilable with the honor of the German people.

Columbia (S. C.) State.—The omission of reference to guarantees as demanded by President Wilson in his note of October 11, gives to the German reply the character of defiance.

Duluth (Minn.) News-Tribune.—But one answer should be made to the great rest of criminals and liars. It should refer the German government to the military council for all further parley and cease to receive any further communications until the armies have surrendered.

Indianapolis Star.—The war lords know the way to an armistice. They know they are feeling none outside of Germany in denying their illegal and inhumane demands.

Houston (Tex.) Post.—The latest German note indicates the earnest German desire for peace, but not a willingness to take the one necessary step to secure peace, which is unconditional surrender.

Colorado Springs (Colo.) Gazette.—The German reply does not deserve a rejoinder. On to Berlin!

Cedar Rapids (Ia.) Republican.—The note is full of diplomatic cunning. There appears no reason why the allied nations should give up the advantages that a series of victories has given them.

Bloomington (Ill.) Pantagraph.—The latest German peace note is thoroughly in line with previous hypocritical emanations from Hun land.

Omaha (Neb.) Bee.—The latest note from the German government, replying to the virtual ultimatum of President Wilson interpreted as a demand for unconditional surrender, does not meet the requirements.

Washington (D. C.) Post.—The communication is nothing else than an effort to obtain relief for the German army by uttering a series of falsehoods and false promises to President Wilson.

Kansas City Journal.—The adroit German foreign office has placed the burden on the President. But if President Wilson is well advised he will ignore this whining, blubbering, lying and quibbling message and go on with the war until Germany is well whipped—and confesses it.

Kansas City Times.—Germany is beaten—fundamentally beaten. She might fight on for months, but her loss is written in the only language she understands—the language of arms.

St. Louis Globe Democrat.—Whatever the German may mean, it is wholly unsatisfactory and wholly hypocritical. It does not come to the point. It is a mere beating about the bush to gain time, to save the German face.

Westliche Post, St. Louis.—The note clearly indicates that the German people clamor for peace. The German government at last recognized the fact that the German people cannot be led any longer by the privileged few.

ARREST ON TREASON CHARGE IS ADMITTED

William Isensee, German, and Bond Slacker, on Trial.

GERMANY VISITED IN 1915

Portlander Who Refused to Buy Liberty Bonds, Though Able, Also Has Conscientious Scruples.

William Isensee, a German blacksmith and Liberty bond slacker, visited relatives in Germany in 1915 and was arrested on a charge of treason in Canada upon his return to this country.

These admissions were procured from the unwilling witness yesterday in Circuit Judge Kavanagh's court while he was under cross-examination by Deputy City Attorney Hindman.

Isensee was on trial yesterday for disorderly conduct, complaint against him having been filed by solicitors of the fourth liberty loan, who, said Isensee, assumed a warlike attitude when they went to Isensee's machine shop on North First street to solicit for Liberty bonds.

Isensee admitted he has property valued at $20,000 but said he could not afford to buy Liberty bonds. Even though he could afford it, he told Judge Kavanagh, he would not purchase them because of conscientious scruples.

The government commandeers our blood; if it wants our property let it buy it, Isensee said. The court sustained objections to the question.

The government commandeers our blood; if it wants our property let it buy it, Isensee said. The court sustained objections to the question.

George Bowen and P. L. Gifford, Liberty loan solicitors, appeared as chief witnesses against Isensee. They said the German picked up a chair and started to fight when they asked him to buy bonds.

Isensee said he left Germany to escape military service when a young man. He was a British subject for several years and then came to the United States.
