

Commission of Public Docks Issues Formal Statement.

BOND ISSUE UP TO VOTERS

Aim of Organization Is to Link Portland Into National Port Plans of U. S. Shipping Board.

In a formal statement issued yesterday the Commission of Public Docks enumerated the principal features of its programme for early harbor de-velopment, in connection with which in New Position. a bond issue is to be passed on by the ship Company and the O.-W. R. & N. I. To provide foel bunkers with land storage and floating loading equipment. To provide a marine repair shop with land and floating equipment. The appenditure necessary to provide these facilities will coasume only a portion of the money now requested, and only a sufficient mount of these bends will be sold to pro-vide the necessary fund. The balance of the bonds authorized will remain unissued ton and Oregon, as well as wood ship vide the necessary funds. The balance of the bends authorized will remain unissued and unsold, to form a credit upon which the commission may draw at such times as additional facilities are required to serve the interests of commerce in this port. The construction of the first unit, the Si, Johns Ferminal, is procressing rapidly and the pier will be ready for use in November, with the grain elevator to follow Up Febru-ary 1. None of the proceeds of the new bood issues will be used in the completion of the unit now under construction. The commission has here identify in torch.

s commission has kept closely in touch the United States Shipping Board by with the United States Shipping Board by personal conference and otherwise, and with the exhaustive investigation and plans un-dertaken and produced by the Port and Harbor Facilities at control of the Ship-ping Board at great cost, for the construc-tion and maintenance of facilities at Amer-ican ports, according to a National standard that will be as nearly uniform s varying conditions will permit. The Commission of the Shipping Board before it for guid-ancé, and the new construction will be rade to conform to the requirements and standards set by the Shipping Board's ex-made to conform to the requirements and standards set by the Shipping Board's ex-ter engineers as far as possible in order to engineers as far as possible in order to Portland into the National port plans and make this port an integral part of the mationalization of American galeways rather than a detached unit. The detached unit.

The details of the Shipping Board's plans and requirements are not complete at first on the situation of the situation will be undertaken. The commission, however, is perfectly sware of the situation with which the part will be confronted if new construction should be required and is looking to the future by requesting that the veters authorize the la-suance of these bonds in advance to avoid the humiliation of the city by admitting that no funds are available and to save the exto funds are available and to save "the pense of calling a special election for pense of calling a special election for himpurpose. The drydock facilities of this dity are in-adequates at present, and as the Port of Portland Commission has not sufficient funds to provide for expansion it has ad-vised the Commission of Public Docks of its willingness to have this commission finance and undertake the new work. The Commission of Fublic Docks is work-ing in entire accord with the Shipping Beard and with the Port of Portland Commis-sion, and is full co-operation with the plans of the Government to handle expeditionaly and economically Portland's share in the vast expansion of American commerce after the war.
