

WAR LORDS AWAIT ARMISTICE TERMS

Answer to Wilson's Note Will Be Delayed.

LIEBKNECHT GETS OVATION

Great Crowd Before the Reichstag Building at Berlin Calls for Abdication of Kaiser.

BASEL, Oct. 25.—(By the Associated Press.) The German war cabinet considered President Wilson's reply at a lengthy session yesterday, according to the Frankfurt Zeitung, according to the present time, but to wait until it is learned what the entente's armistice conditions may be.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—President Wilson's note was received in Berlin in the course of Thursday's sitting of the Reichstag, which immediately adjourned, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—An enormous crowd assembled before the Reichstag building in Berlin yesterday, calling for the abdication of Emperor William and the formation of a republic, according to a special dispatch from Zurich to L'Informatio.

Liebknecht Addresses Crowd. Dr. Karl Liebknecht, the Socialist leader, who has just been released from prison, was applauded frantically.

BASEL, Switzerland, Oct. 25.—(Havas.)—When the lower house of the Prussian Diet resumed its session in Berlin Thursday, Count Scherwin, the President, called upon the deputies to make a united front against the enemies of the country.

Grave Hour Sounded. He said that never before had the Chamber assembled at such a grave hour with the enemy threatening to strike down the doors of the country.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Embodied by the German government's acceptance of the principles of self-determination laid down by President Wilson, the delegates in the Reichstag from non-German nationalities have begun to clamor for independence.

Sensational scenes in the Reichstag Wednesday, with the separatists asserting themselves defiantly, were described in dispatches received here today based on advices from Berlin.

Representing the notes of Prussia, Deputy Stychel claimed the right of independence, declaring the time had come to put aside the favorite German formula, "every group where the German stake was struck is German ground."

President Wilson, he said, was humanity's benefactor and was moved by the strongest feeling of justice which lies in men's hearts.

Dase Makes Demand. This unusual language in the once subservient German Reichstag was immediately followed by indications of a Danish separatist movement.

TURK BRUTALITY TO ARMENIAN PEOPLE JUSTIFIED BY GERMANS

American "Meddling" in Behalf of Persecuted Christians Makes United States Ambassador Unpopular in Teuton Officialdom.

INSTALLMENT XIII. Such was the German state philosophy as applied to the Armenians, and I had the opportunity of observing German practices as well. As soon as the early reports reached Constantinople, it occurred to me that the most feasible way of stopping the outrages would be for the diplomatic representatives of all countries to make a joint appeal to the Ottoman government. I approached Wangenheim, the German Ambassador, on this subject in the latter part of August. His antipathy to the Armenians became immediately apparent. He began denouncing them in unmeasured terms; like Talat and Enver, he affected to regard the Van episode as an unprovoked rebellion, and, in his eyes, in theirs, the Armenians were simply traitorous vermin.

"I am not a Zionist," he said, thinking that this remark would be personally pleasing to me, "but I shall do nothing whatever for the Armenians." Wangenheim affected to regard the Armenian question as a matter that chiefly affected the United States. My constant intrusion in their behalf apparently created the impression, in his Germanic mind, that any mercy shown this people would be a concession to the American Government. And at that moment he was not disposed to do anything that would please the American people.

U. S. Blamed for Trouble. "The United States is apparently the only country that takes much interest in the Armenians," he said. "Your missionaries are their friends and your people constitute their best guardians. The whole question of helping them is therefore an American matter. How, then, can you expect me to do anything for them as the United States? I am selling ammunition to the enemies of Germany? Mr. Bryan has just published his note, saying that it would be desirable to sell munitions to England and France. As long as your Government maintains that attitude we can do nothing for the Armenians."

Probably no one except a German relation would ever have detected any relation between our sale of war materials to the allies and Turkey's attacks upon hundreds of thousands of Armenian women and children. But that was about as much progress as I made with Wangenheim at that time. I spoke to him frequently, but he invariably offset my pleas for mercy to the Armenians by reference to the use of American shells at the Dardanelles. A coolness sprang up between us soon afterward. After our somewhat tart conversation over the telephone, when he had asked me to telegraph Washington that he had not "hated" the Turks in this matter, our visits to each other ceased for several weeks.

German Criticizes Germany. The next morning I telegraphed to Germany in Constantinople who did not accept Wangenheim's point of view. I have already referred to Paul Weitz, who was in the Reichstag from the Frankfurt Zeitung, who probably knew more about affairs in the Near East than any other German. Although he had asked me to telegraph Washington for information, he did not at all ways take his advice. Weitz did not accept the orthodox imperial attitude toward Armenia, but he believed that Germany's refusal effectively to intervene was doing his fatherland everlasting injury. Weitz was constantly pressing this view to Wangenheim, but he made little progress. Weitz told me about this himself in January, 1916, a few weeks before I left Turkey. I quote his own words on this subject:

"I remember that you told me at the beginning," said Weitz, "what a mistake Germany was making in the Armenian matter. I agreed with you perfectly. But when I urged this view upon Wangenheim, he threw me twice out of the room."

Another German who was opposed to the atrocities was Neurath, the Counselor of the German Embassy. His indignation reached such a point that he was ordered to Talat and Enver to become almost unapproachable. He told me, however, that he had failed to influence them.

Turks Are Immovable. "They are immovable and are determined to pursue their present course," Neurath said.

Of course no Germans could make much impression upon the Government as long as the German Ambassador refused to interfere. And, as time went on, it became more and more evident that Wangenheim had no desire to stop the deportations. He apparently wished, however, to re-establish friendly relations with me, and soon sent me a letter to ask why I never came to see him. A few days afterward, when he returned a visit, he asked:

"Where's Kitchner's army?" "We are willing to surrender Belgium now," he went on. "Germany intends to build an enormous fleet of submarines in great cruising radius. In the next war we shall therefore be able completely to blockade England. So we do not need Belgium for its submarine bases. We shall give her back."

Denial Is Not Obtained. The telegram also referred to an article in the Westminster Gazette, which said that I had been called upon to places had instigated and even led the attacks, and particularly mentioned Resler of Aleppo. Neurath said that his government had directed him to obtain a denial of these charges from the American Ambassador at Constantinople. I refused to make such a denial, saying that I did not feel called upon to decide officially whether Turkey or Germany was to blame for these crimes. (To Be Continued.)

Austria Suppresses Rising of Croatian Soldiers.

STREET FIGHTING FIERCE

Hungarian Cabinet Falls and Apponyi, Leader of Opposition, Becomes Premier.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The revolt of Croatian soldiers of the 19th Regiment at Fiume has been suppressed by three Austro-Hungarian regiments arriving from Albania, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen. There was hard street fighting at Fiume, in which hundreds of persons were killed, the dispatch adds.

BASEL, Switzerland, Oct. 25.—Emperor Charles, according to a Budapest dispatch, has accepted the resignation of Baron Burian, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, and also of the Hungarian Cabinet headed by Dr. Wekerle. Count Julius Andrássy, Hungarian statesman, has been appointed to succeed Baron Burian.

It was announced in the lower Chamber of the Hungarian Parliament yesterday that the Croatian soldiers of the 79th Regiment at Fiume had revolted, seized the city and destroyed the railroad there.

Count Apponyi, Count Andrássy and the Opposition Deputies thereupon demanded the resignation of the ministry, according to Budapest advices received here.

Dr. Wekerle, the Premier, declared that in view of the increasing difficulties of the situation he would propose to the king a coalition ministry.

Fiume is the chief seaport of Hungary. It is 30 miles southeast of Trieste. The chief naval ports of Austria-Hungary are Trieste, Pola and Fiume.

Part of the Austrian fleet is based on Fiume and a Whitehead torpedo works also is situated in the town which has a population of 40,000.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—A sweeping victory of the opposition party in Hungary is indicated in today's advices.

Count Albert Apponyi has been appointed Hungarian Premier in succession to Dr. Wekerle, according to a Vienna dispatch to the Politiken of Copenhagen and forwarded by the Exchange Telegraph Company.

LIME PLANT MAY SUSPEND

FARMERS NOT BUYING PRODUCT AS ANTICIPATED.

Past Season Unfavorable One in Willamette Valley—Many Farms Operated at Loss.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 25.—(Special.)—Lack of orders for lime may soon close down the state lime plant for the balance of the year, according to word received here.

Considerable lime is being produced at the plant, but the funds provided were sufficient only to get the plant fully into operation. Operations in the future must depend upon the sale of the product, and Willamette Valley farmers are not buying at the rate anticipated.

"This last season was an unfavorable one in the Willamette Valley and I am not at all surprised that the farmers are failing to take lime in quantities," said Governor Withycombe, commenting upon the situation.

"Farms that have made fortunes for their owners were operated at a loss this last season because of unparalleled conditions. The average farmer will do well to keep himself going, let alone the operations of the demand for lime will be light."

ANOTHER NAP AVAILABLE

TOMORROW MORNING'S SLEEP PERIOD EXTENDED.

Extra Hour Possible Because at 2 A. M. Nation Returns to Its Old-Time System.

An extra hour's sleep tomorrow morning for every person in the United States! If you awake Sunday at what was 9 o'clock—turn over and take an hour's nap. It will then be only 9 o'clock—that is, if the head of the household did his duty in moving back the hands of the clock.

Patriotic Americans who deprived themselves of an hour's sleep March 31 last to conserve daylight and thus speed food production and other war activity, had the hour placed to their credit by Uncle Sam, and will collect in the wee am' hours of Sunday, October 27, when all the timepieces in the United States will be turned just one hour. Clocks and watches were turned ahead one hour at 2 A. M. March 31, under the provisions of the daylight-saving law.

The time officially will change at 2 o'clock tomorrow morning, but most persons will turn their timepieces back one hour on retiring tonight, just at the night of March 30.
