MILLERS' MARKET SUFFERS

Much Discrimination Charged and This Appears Inevitable; Satisfactory Results Unlikely.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Wash-

the grain farmers, sgainst whom there was discrimination, for the Government established a price for wheat far below established a price for wheat far delow market value, but left cotton un-touched, even when cotton growers were getting fabulous prices and the Government was, in proportion, about as large a buyer of cotton as of wheat. Cotton, of course, is exclusively a prod-uct of that part of the country which is solidly aligned with the party in

But the dissatisfaction did not rest But the dissatisfaction did not rest with the farmers alone, nor was it confined to grain farmers. In fact, the grain farmers, it appears, would have approved without protest a price fixed by a body upon which they had fair representation, provided the price-fixing policy had been extended to product they have a well as to those products they buy as well as to those Millers' Market Curtalled.

The grain growers of the Pacific Northwest were fairly well satisfied, for in the fixing of basic prices and freight rates they secured a small ad-vantage. But this advantage soon worked to the disadvantage of the millers, who, paying a relatively higher price than was paid in sections of country with which they competed in the selling of flour, found their market of the wheat and flour market that the Government first saw the error of its own price-fixing policies. Members of the Senate and House, from both Ore-gon and Washington, laid before the Food Administration the complaints of North Pacific millers, and replies to these complaints were made from time to time by the Grain Corporation, which is a branch of the Food Administration. The latest, and one that shows some impatience, is addressed to Congressman Nicholas J. Sinnott, who had submitted the complaint of a large milling concern in his great grain-growing district.

Grain Administrator Tired.

"It really is hard to answer all the letters from these millers," says the grain administrator, who intimates that agreement upon "certain formulae" might simplify the problem "instead of

This year the amount of flour we can deliver our allies abroad is limited not only by the shipping in sight, but also by port facilities here and abroad, where labor conditions have become steadily worse, the shipping in sight, but also by port facilities here and abroad, where labor conditions have become steadily worse, and also by the demonstrated need of our allies for some dairy feed, themselves, for they have dairy herds also which must be considered. The mills of the rest of the country also have a which must be considered. The mills of the rest of the country also have a right to be considered in the export flour business, and we have tried to be fair to these mills and to the Pacific Coast."

Action Declared Justified."

Those four propositions are all that the grain administrator assumes the millers will agree upon. He asserts that the Food Administration has bought more heavily than last year of North Pacific flour for export; that although there is some basis for the complaint that the Food Administration pays a uniform price for flour made pays a uniform price for flour made from hard and from soft wheat, yet the Food Administration is justified by the fact that some countries prefer the flour made from soft wheat, which

Eight in Far Eastern Trade.

TACOMA, Wash, Oct. 27.—(Special.)
Hereafter every ship of the Admiral line will carry the name of Tacoma as its place of registry and home port. That announcemt was made by H. F. Alexander, president of the Pacific Steamship Company, as a tribute to his home efty. Hereofore the vessels of the Original Admiral Line, where registered from Portland, Me., where the concern was first formed. Others of registry. Approximately 20 vessels, owned and under charter, will be transfered to this port. The first vessels to have Tacoma inscribed on them are the Admiral Mayo, which sailed for the Far East today; Admiral Schley, Ad-miral Evans and Admiral Watson. Mr. Alexander announced the charter today of the barks George Curtis, now discharging salmon at Tacoma, and the oriental at Seattle; the full power motor ship Libby Maine, and W. F. Burroughs, suxiliary. The Libby Maine sailed from here about three weeks ago and is now at Honolulu. The vessels are from the Libby, McNell & Libby sets are from the Libby, McAsil & Libby flect. They will be used in the Far East trade, making eight vessels in all that the Pacific Steamship Company will have in this service.

In all, the company, with its own ships, United States Shipping Board vessels and chartered vessels will have a fleet of 46 craft under its control. In addition to the new office opened In addition to the new office opened in Portland by the company to care for ships being fitted out on the river, headquarters have been established of late in Hongkong, Osaka, Nagasaki, Manila and Vladivostok.
