Germany Bows to Terms of U. S. and Allies.

HUNS SURRENDER ABJECTLY

Official Announcement Is Issued From Washington at 2:45 A. M. Today.

HOSTILITIES END AT 11 A. M.

Conditions Accepted by Huns Not Announced, But Are Certain to Be Drastic.

(By the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The world war will end this morning at 6 o'clock Washington time, 11 o'clock Paris time. The armistice was signed by the German representatives at midnight. The announcement was made by the State Department at 2:50 o'clock this morning.

The announcement was made verbally by an official of the State Department in this form:

"The armistice has been signed. It was signed at 5 o'clock A. M. Paris time and hostilities will cease at 11 o'clock this morning, Paris time."

Terms Not Given Out.

The terms of the armistice, it was announced, will not be made public until later. Military men here, however, regard it as certain that they include:

Immediate retirement of the German military forces from France, Belgium and Alsace-Lorraine.

Disarming a demobilization of the German armies.

Strategic Points to Be Held.

Occupation by the allied and American forces of such strategic points in Germany as will make impossible a renewal of hostilities.

Delivery of part of German high seas fleet and a certain number of submarines to the allied naval forces.

Disarmament of all other German warships under supervision of the allied and American navies, which will guard them.

Bases to Be Occupied.

Occupation of the principal German naval bases by sea forces of the victorious nations.

Release of allied and American soldiers, sailors and civilians held prisoners in Germany without such reciprocal action by the associated governments.

There was no information as to the circumstances under which the armistice was signed, but since the German courier did not reach German military headquarters until 10 o'clock yesterday morning, French time, it was generally assumed here that the German envoys within the French lines had been instructed by wireless to sign the terms.

Courier Takes 47 Hours.

Forty-seven hours had been required for the courier to reach German headquarters. Unquestionably several hours were necessary for the examination of the terms and a decision. It was regarded as possible, however, that the decision may have been made at Berlin and instructions transmitted from there by the new German government.

Germany had been given until 11 o'clock this morning, French time; 6 o'clock Washington, to accept. So hostilities will end at the hour set by Marshal Foch for a decision by Germany for peace or for continuation of the war.

President Is Informed.

The momentous news that the armistice had been signed was telephoned to the White House for transmission to the President a few minutes before it was given to the newspaper correspondents. Later it was said that there would be no statement from the White House at this time.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The armistice terms signed by Germany and under which hostilities will end at 6 o'clock this morning, Washington time, 11 o'clock Paris time, will not be made public by the State Department before 8 o'clock this morning. This was stated officially.

The revolution is in full swing in Berlin and the red forces occupy the greater part of the German capital, according to a Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company, quoting Berlin advices sent from there at 3 o'clock this morning.

The Crown Prince's palace was seized by the revolutionists. The people shouted "Long live the republic" and sang "The Marseillaise."

HAMBURG-AMERICAN LINE HEAD IS DEAD

ALBERT BALLIN, GENERAL DIRECTOR, DIES IN BERLIN.

Kaiser's Shipping Advisor Not in Full Accord With War Program.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 10.—Albert Ballin, general director of the Hamburg-American Steamship Company, died suddenly on Saturday, according to an announcement made in Berlin.

Albert Ballin, whose death is announced at Berlin, apart from being one of the greatest shipping men of the world prior to the outbreak of the war, was somewhat celebrated because of his intimacy with the German Emperor. He was born in 1837. In all shipping matters he was the Emperor's trusted adviser, second only, on occasion, to Grand Admiral von Tirpitz.

There was a report, widely circulated, that the resignation of Von Tirpitz was finally brought about by Ballin, who declared himself opposed to many features of the submarine policy, and having the Emperor's ear was said to have warned him of the serious consequences of the useless destruction of merchant ships.

This was in 1914, but after the United States entered the war, Herr Ballin had little to say and soon fell into disfavour, probably because of his failure to support the Emperor and the government in the policy which had brought about a state of war between Germany and the United States.

There is a well authenticated story of a conference between the Emperor, Von Hindenburg, Ludendorff and Ballin, in which the shipping man, after listening to the glowing account of the military situation given by the military leaders, told the Emperor that every extra month of the war meant an additional year in getting out of the ruin after the war. He declared he did not expect to live to see Germany out of her difficulties.

GERMAN PEOPLE RISE IN WRATH

Mad Design to Rule World Topples Into Ruin.

GREAT EMPIRE SEEMS GONE

Social Revolution Changes the Problem of Allies to Restoration of Order.

RIGHT TO RULE IS ASSERTED

Revolt, Famine and Anarchy Stalk Within Borders of Countries That Menaced World.

(By the Associated Press.)

The German people, for a generation the obedient and submissive servants of their war lord, for more than four years his plant instruments in ravaging the world, have spoken a new word and the old Germany seems gone.

From the confused, sometimes conflicting and often delayed advices from Germany in the last two days, it has now become apparent that William, Emperor and King, has been stripped of his powers. He is now plain William Hohenzollern, a fugitive in Holland. With his fall topples into ruin William's mad design to rule the world.

Chaos Rules in Germany.

Little is known of the situation today in Germany, for that country is in the first days of its new adventure. It is not clear whether the old regime has been permanently dislodged or whether the new authorities with the unscrupulous adroitness, which has long marked German politics, are merely sacrificing the chief figureheads of Kaiserism in the hope of obtaining an easier peace.

It appears probable that no one in Germany knows and that it is still to be determined which of the contending elements will gain the ascendancy.

Revolution Spreading Rapidly.

Revolution is spreading rapidly, and from the fact that a Socialist now is Chancellor, it may be gathered that the object of the revolution is not merely the quick ending of the war, but the complete severance of the political ties which still bind the nation with its past.

For the allies the problem has changed. The countries which fought Germany and her vassals for more than four years have emerged from it completely triumphant, but within the borders of the countries which menaced the peace of the whole world stalk revolt, famine and anarchy.

To Restore Order May Be Next Task.

The world's next task may be to restore order in the desolated central empires. It may be a lot of the forces that have successfully contested Germany's greed for power to save her from the fate she imposed on Russia. Likewise, help will have to be given to Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey, whose ruin Germany wrought. The German empire was the last of the great autocracies whose fall marks the real significance of the war. In Russia, Austria-Hungary and finally in Germany irresponsible power gave way before the irresistible forces of democracy.

Hindenburg's Prophecy Comes True.

Germany, holding on to the last, kept up the hopeless struggle until Field Marshal von Hindenburg's prophetic words early in the war came true. The side with the strongest nerves, said he, would win. It was the crumbling of the home front which made it impossible for Germany, notwithstanding her great armies in the field, to carry on any longer.

The collapse of Germany brings the eclipse of the German idea of the state as opposed to the doctrine of individual rights, to which the nation clung with hardly a dissenting voice until recently. Under this regime there was developed a nation of which militarism was the embodiment, which murdered and plundered, was heedless of the rights of the individual and made terrorism a matter of studied policy.

Terrorism World-Wide.

A matter of studied policy. This terrorism was directed against not only individuals but against nations, against not only hostile nations, but those with which Germany was allied.
