THE PINISHING SCHOOL is the title, because pupils who have devoted 3 to 6 months at a Business College or High School require a PINISH. None write without looking at their pencil, crocked fingers, and write like a rabbit cats, whereas eyes and ears should be used on the speaker. Typewriting shorthand notes direct on any make of machine does away with shorthand, and New Zealand adopts, it, for what that country thinks to-day. America thinks tomorrow, and Fingland a year after. Only qualified stenographers use the blind finger system, all the rest are smateurs and are worth only their sait. The Finishing School is also a BEGINMER'S school, and teaches in one month what other systems take three months or longer. Perents consider the cost for clothing, feed and dress whilst devoting three months to attay. In less than one week our pupils are reporting slow utterances, and in one month are able to compete against the 3-month's pupil; a challenge of $100 is open. Bad spelling is cured.
