MAYOR BRANDS PHONE RISE LAW VIOLATION

Message Asks Mr. Burleson to Refuse Any Increase.

FACTS SENT TO CAPITAL

Executive Charges That Proposed Advance Will Far Exceed Wage Requirements.

Another message from the pen of Mayor Baker went over the wires to Postmaster-General Burleson yesterday in an effort to convince the Federal official that the Pacific Telephone Company, in making rate increases, was not only violating state and city laws, but was planning to bring in revenue that would far outstrip the wage increases.

The Public Service Commission is authority for the statement that proposed rates will yield a sum several hundred thousand dollars in excess of all requirements to meet wage increases," the message said. "You say increase in rates were regularly filed with commission in accordance with department order. Our state commission on Monday telegraphed you facts and informed you that state law had not been observed."

"We trust that you will refuse to approve any increases unless the company complies with legal requirements."

The wage increases, whenever set retroactive to October 15, according to notices posted by the telephone company. Just how much these will be is as yet unknown, but figures made up by the Public Service Commission profess to show that increased revenues accruing from higher rates will far outrun increased payments to operators.

With the Government in control of the lines, suggestions that the company might be made to install automatic equipment with the view of cutting operating expenses are not timely. Although it is known that the Bell system has made experiments with automatic exchange devices, the company never has installed the more modern system. Where consolidation of the automatic lines was effected, the systems sometimes are made interchangeable.

Sentimental reasons also are said to influence the Bell system in holding to the manual system of making connections. With Alexander Bell still alive, it has been said that the company keeps to the older devices rather than install the labor-saving and more efficient system.

RESTRICTION IS REMOVED

Powdered Sugar Permitted for Domestic Use; Other Rules Remain.

Domestic use of powdered sugar, for some time past restricted solely to commercial manufacturing and baking, is now permitted, according to official advice received yesterday by W. B. Ayer, food administrator for Oregon.

Conservation of wheat flour is still required, regardless of the removal of substitute restrictions, say the food officials. The two-ounce limit for individual service in public eating houses, formerly applicable to victrols, bread, now applies with equal effect to straight white bread. No bread may be used as a garniture with meat, and no service of bread may be placed on public eating-house tables before the first course is served.

The food administration again emphasizes its request that no refreshment be served at any social or public affair, unless such affair is one of the three regular meals.
