

FIGHT ASSURED ON WAR REVENUE BILL

Prolonged Debate in Senate Is Counted Certain.

DELAY PROMISES TROUBLE

Collections Next Year May Have to Be Made Under Present Law, Say Treasury Men.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The Senate finance committee tonight completed revision of the war revenue bill, designed to raise $5,000,000,000 in taxes in 1919 and about $4,000,000,000 in 1920. The measure is virtually written to meet changed conditions attending the end of the war, and now goes to the printer and will be reported to the Senate next week, probably on Thursday.

Senate debate, Senator Simmons said tonight, may begin the following Saturday or Monday. With Republicans lined up solidly in opposition to inclusion of 1920 tax rates in the bill, it was conceded that discussion in the Senate will delay the measure and many Senators expressed doubt that it can be enacted before March 3, the date of the ending of the 65th Congress.

In view of the expected delay, Senate leaders and Treasury Department officials are concerned over collecting taxes next year as, unless the new law is enacted before January 1, collections must be made under the present revenue bill, the yield from which is only about $4,000,000,000. Several expedients, including adoption of emergency legislation, are under consideration.

Senator Simmons said tonight that he doubted whether Republicans would file a minority report attacking the 1920 tax program, thinking they might content themselves with vigorous opposition to that proposal on the floor of the Senate.

In completing the bill today the finance committee adopted an amendment establishing new second-class postage rates, effective when the revenue bill becomes law. It provides for repeal of the present graduated rates on newspapers, magazines and other periodicals and substitutes a rate of 1 cent per pound within an area of 200 miles from mailing points and 1 1/2 cents a pound outside that area.

The committee also adopted another amendment for restoration on July 1, 1919, of the 3 cents an ounce rate on letters and 1 cent on postcards.

Some Senators believe the second-class postal rate amendment will be opposed by publishers as unjust and discriminatory. Long debate on the subject is anticipated.

Another amendment adopted today and expected to cause much debate imposes a tax of 10 per cent on products of child labor which are transported in interstate commerce.

The amendment is designed to accomplish the purposes of the law recently declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

Amendments rejected today by the committee included one by Senator Thomas, of Colorado, levying a tax of 10 per cent on campaign contributions in excess of $500 and another by Senator Smoot, of Utah, imposing a tax of $250 and $5 respectively on each male and female dog.

FIXED COAL PRICE TO END

BITUMINOUS REGULATION MAY BE OFF BY DECEMBER 15.

Administrator Garfield Announces Restrictions on Anthracite Will Stay Until Winter Is Over.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Price restrictions on bituminous coal may be removed by the Fuel Administration within two weeks. Fuel Administrator Garfield said today he hoped to cancel the price regulations not later than the middle of December.

Present prices, as fixed by the Fuel Administration, range from $2.25 to $4.55 a ton at the mines.

Dr. Garfield said it may be possible to abandon the zone system of distribution of bituminous coal by the middle of December, but that action to this end will be taken only after consultation with the Railroad Administration.

The Fuel Administrator said he could not "take his hands off" the anthracite situation until winter is over. This was taken to mean that the Government will continue its control over its anthracite coal until the end of the coal year April 1, and that the Fuel Administration will continue to function until that time.

INDUSTRIES CLOSED DOWN

Millmen in Coos Bay District Are Retrenching.

MARSHFIELD, Or., Nov. 29.—(Special.)—Much uncertainty prevails here regarding the lumbering business and the closing down of several industries indicates that operators are going carefully until new bearings are established. The North Bend Mill & Lumber Company has shut down until after the holidays and today the Buehner Lumber Company closed its logging camps at Allegany and Lakeside. These retrenchments throw between 300 and 400 men out of employment.

Captain H. French, in command of the 400 spruce division soldiers here, says the men probably will be retained until their places can be filled.

Aid to Recovery From "Grippe,"

Colds, Pneumonia, Etc.

One of the most uncomfortable feelings which accompanies "Grippe" or Pneumonia is inflammation. Often mustard plasters are used to allay this pain and they are helpful, too. But many people cannot stand the burning of the mustard plaster, so FURULA Medicated Plaster has come to the rescue of these patients. It tends to absorb all pain without blistering the skin, and can be left on long enough to do its work thoroughly. Used also by athletes to reduce bruises and "charlie horses." 35c and 65c cans at all drugstores.—Adv.

MOVING PICTURE NEWS

TODAY'S FILM FEATURES.
Liberty—Norma Talmadge, "The Forbidden City"; Fatty Arbuckle, "The Sheriff"; Columbia—Wallace Reid, "The Man From Funeral Range"; Majestic—Constance Talmadge, "A Pair of Silk Stockings"; Sunset—Norma Talmadge, "De Luxe Annie"; Star—Vivian Martin, "Smiles"; Peoples—Billie Burke, "The Make-Believe Wife"; Globe—Gerardine Farrar and Wallace Reid, in "The Devil's Stone"; Circle—Charles Ray, "His Own Home Town."

Columbia.
WALLACE REID, in "The Man From Funeral Range," will be shown at the Columbia Theater beginning today. This is considered to be one of Mr. Reid's best pictures.

The story is a picturization by Monte Katterjohn of Ernest Wilke's play, "Broken Threads," which was successfully produced in New York City. Mr. Reid is seen as Harry Webb, a protector, in this picture. Webb makes powerful enemies because he refuses to sell his mining claims to a couple of crooks. They involve him in serious trouble, when he goes to the rescue of Janice, a cabaret singer whom he loves, who has been enticed to a room in a hotel by means of a forged note. A jealous woman shoots the man who is responsible for this and Webb is convicted of the crime.

How he is tried and the final verdict of the jury form one of the most interesting features of the picture.

Star.
Vivian Martin once more will prove how versatile she is in "Smiles," her latest Paramount picture, which comes to the Star Theater today. She appears as a quaint, high-spirited little scrub girl who works in the opera-house of a Middle Western town.

At first she is seen with the celebrated Martin curls, whipped straight back and tied in two straight braids. She is cleaning the floors in the opera-house, when she slips and lands in a pail of soapy water. She is rescued by Teddy Lawrence, a musician at the opera-house, and there the romance starts.

Even without her curls and while doused in soapy water, Vivian Martin is as fascinating as ever. As the story develops she appears with her hair fluffed out and in better clothes. She shows some clever acting by the contrast in the little scrub lady's character with the character which she later presents.

Majestic.
Constance Talmadge in her new picture "A Pair of Silk Stockings" will be the attraction at the Majestic Theater beginning today. It is a breezy, whimsical story, brimful of fun, which starts off with a quarrel between two young English married people over the make of motorcar they should buy. Swiftly the quarrel expands until it is really a serious one and they obtain a divorce.

Later they meet at a country house, for Mollie having bought the wrong make of a car, breaks down and finds herself put up at the house where her ex-husband is guest. Sam is just about to take part in amateur theatricals and made up, and in his costume, he seeks out Mollie's room to patch up their quarrel, which provides an interesting situation.

It is one of the best Talmadge pictures that has yet been produced.

Peoples.
One of the most interesting photographs in which charming Billie Burke has been seen in many months, is "The Make-Believe Wife," which will be displayed at the Peoples Theater beginning today. It abounds with strong situations, while the comedy is happily blended so that there is not a dull minute throughout the development of the story.

The scenes develop in the Adirondack Mountains where Phyllis Ashbrook is giving a house party to a coterie of friends. She is engaged to marry a lawyer, but he seems to be devoted to a young woman who is the fiancée of John Manning, who incidentally pays more attention to Phyllis than he does to Anita, his promised bride. Manning and Phyllis are lost in the mountains throughout one night. This provides an interesting situation which is hard to solve.

Sunset.
Norma Talmadge in "De Luxe Annie" will attract the admirers of this beautiful screen star to the Sunset Theater for a week, beginning with today.

The adaptation of the picture for the screen was made by Paul West from the play by Edward Clark, with Roland West as the director.

OREGON YOUTH IS FUGITIVE

STANLEY MORRIS ESCAPES ON WAY BACK TO JAIL.

Young Man Lives at Prineville and Is Charged With Holding Up Hotel at Newport News.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 29.—(Special.)—Stanley F. Morris, 28, of Prineville, Or., attached to a Coast Artillery company at Newport News, in jail here for the past month awaiting trial on the charge of pulling off a daring holdup job in Connel & Miller's hotel, escaped today while being taken back to jail after his case had been continued until December 20.

Deputy Sergeant Paul La Touche, who had charge of the prisoner, shot himself through the hand while trying to stop Morris.

When given a preliminary hearing recently Morris admitted that he was the masked man who entered the hotel and forced the proprietor to hand over all the money in his possession.

Morris entertained the idea that he would be claimed by the military authorities and would be sent overseas without being prosecuted. They never put in a detainer for him, although it was stated by his attorney in court today that assurance had been received from Camp Lewis that this would be done soon.

It developed today that Morris had signed the name of a fictitious officer to a furlough slip found in his pocket when he was arrested.
