

FIRST RETURNING YANKS REACH PORT

All New York Is Ready to Welcome Troops.

HEALTH PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

Big Steamer Expected to Dock Early Tomorrow.

ROYAL RECEPTION PLANNED

Mayor Hylan Asks That Permission Be Granted Fighting Men to Parade Up Fifth Avenue.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—The British steamship Mauretania, returning to the United States with the first large body of American overseas troops, anchored in Gravesend Bay at 7:40 o'clock tonight.

Health Precautions Taken. Aboard the Mauretania, as announced recently by General March, chief of staff, are several thousand members of the air service, who were stationed in England.

When the transport docks at Hoboken, relatives and friends of those aboard will not be allowed on the pier, according to a recent announcement which added that to safeguard public health the soldiers would be taken directly to demobilization camps for physical examination.

Late today, however, Mayor John E. Hylan telegraphed Secretary Baker asking that troops aboard the Mauretania be permitted to parade up Fifth Avenue tomorrow.

In his telegram the Mayor points out that "the people of the City of New York are most anxious to welcome the troops," and the Mayor's committee of welcome and city officials have been waiting all day to meet the Mauretania at Ambrose Channel.

Battery Park was crowded all day with persons eager to catch a glimpse of the vessel bringing back to America aboard the transport and so many used megaphones and wireless apparatus to convey the greetings of New York to the returned soldiers, but later a gangplank was shoved out and the civilians scrambled aboard.

Back across the water, in reply to the welcome, soon came such queries as: "When do we eat?" and "Has the state gone dry yet?"

When members of the party accepted an invitation to "come aboard" they were deluged with requests to "phone mother and let her know I'm here," and "mail this letter to my girl," and to perform similar services.

Ship Has Rough Voyage. According to those on the Mauretania, the ship had a rough crossing. Four storms were encountered and at one time the seas ran so high that the clerical force at work in the cabin had to quit when their typewriters were hurled to the floor.

There were rousing cheers when Admiral Mayo left the Mauretania and boarded the naval tug awaiting him. Among his fellow passengers on the trip from England were Harry Lauder, the comedian, who sang for the soldiers during the voyage home, and Major Ian Hay, of the British army.

AMERICAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION, Germany, Dec. 1.—(Special.)—Riding at the head of their troops, Generals Parker, La Jenne, Howes and Lassiter, of the First, Second, Third and 24 Divisions were the first Americans to enter Germany officially as the Army of Occupation. Entering Rhenish Prussia at sunrise, the troops en route to the Rhine, with troop columns in perfect order and American flags waving conspicuously, made an inspiring spectacle.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION, Dec. 1.—American troops crossed the frontier into Prussia at daylight behind the German rear guard, Treves, the most important city thus far occupied. American troops are also patrolling scores of villages, however.

Treves is situated on the right bank of the Moselle River, 57 miles southwest of Coblenz. It is perhaps the oldest town in Germany and is rich in Roman relics. The population at the outbreak of the war was about 60,000.

RULE OF PACIFIC DESIRED

Secret Document Exposed in Berlin Purports to Show New Pact to Seize World Power.

BY ARTHUR L. DRAPER. (Copyright, 1918, by the New York Tribune, Inc.)

LONDON, Dec. 1.—(Special.)—My Berlin correspondent has sent me a copy of an alleged draft of a treaty of alliance agreed upon between Japan and Germany under Chancellor Prince Max and which is now being circulated among independent Socialists and Extremists in Germany to expose the aggressive, imperialistic schemes of the self-styled pacifist government that included Scheidemann.

The treaty is couched in perfect diplomatic jargon and is minutely made up with articles and memorandum attached. The draft is very cunning and yet, if official, appears to be a forgery and clumsy in one essential point: for while it is easy to see that Germany would make an excellent bargain by it, the document seems to credit Japan not only with perfidy worthy of the Hohenzollerns, but a gullibility altogether unwarranted by her record.

Russia is Third Party. A mere "reinsurance treaty with Russia and Germany," that is to say, under present circumstances, could hardly be considered equivalent. In the draft of the treaty it is stated that it has received approval and has been initiated by representatives of both Germany and Japan and merely awaited ratification when the German resolution broke out.

The treaty presupposes Russia as the third contracting party that is to be cleansed of Bolshevism and restored to a great power under lead of Germany and Japan.

Germany is to share the privileges and concessions secured by Japan from Russia in Central Asia and Persia, as well as the Japanese privileges and concessions in Southern China, to the exclusion of all other powers. Japan is to support indirectly German interests at the peace conference and is to promote a Russo-German military political and economic reinsurance treaty.

Secret Military Pact Proposed. In return, Germany is to conclude with Japan a secret military and naval convention against the aggressive intentions of America and England. Particulars are to be settled after conclusion of peace.

A memorandum attached states that the treaty is to be the work of a for-

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION, Dec. 1.—Four American soldiers dispersed a mob of thousands at Esch after it had wrecked 28 shops in revenge for the overcharging of American soldiers. Most of these establishments were conducted by Germans.

They entered the shop, destroying its contents. Someone raised the cry to wipe out all German establishments, and the mob soon grew to thousands, who began systematic destruction.

A department store owned by a Hollander was wrecked and he reported to his loss to his government. He was the only foreigner other than Germans whose property was attacked.
