Lake County Project to Involve Expenditure of $90,000.

PRODUCT MUCH IN DEMAND

J. C. Moore, Lessee, Holds Important Conference With State Land Board in Salem.

At a conference held in Salem yes terday with the State Land Board Jason C. Moore, who has leased Summer Lake from the state, obtained terms satisfactory to both parties, which will assure the immediate erection of a commercial reduction plant at the lake. Fletcher Linn and Frank Layman, who have become interested with Mr. Moore in the enterprise, appeared with him before the State Land Board and all three returned to Portland last night.

"It was agreed with the State Land Board that upon my release to the state of the $10,000 paid in as a guarantee of good faith when the lease was granted, that the board would acknowl-edge receipt in full of all obligations up to the end of 1919, and that the lease would be modified in accordance with the agreement," said Mr. Moore last night. "When production begins, royalty will be paid as specified in the lease at the rate of 25 cents a ton for soda ash, and 50 cents a ton for potash produced from the deposits of Summer Lake.

Early Completion Urged. "Work will be started as soon as weather conditions will permit and pushed to speedy completion. Dr. E. W. Lazeli, chemical engineer, will have charge of the erection of the plant. It will involve an expenditure of $20,000, and it is our hope to have it completed and ready for operation early in the Spring, as early as condition of the roads will enable economical movement of the product to the railroad for shipment to market. There is at the pres-ent time a strong demand for the prod-uct, due in part to lack of transporta-tion to supply the normal demand throughout the duration of the war, and the more than normal demand for some of the products of the deposits. It is impossible to determine how long the present strong demand will con-tinue, and for that reason we wish to expedite work."

Some shipments of soda ash have been made by the way of Lakeview, hauling by auto truck to that point, thence by the narrow gauge Nevada-California-Oregon railroad to Reno, and thence to Nan Francisco by the Southern Pacific. The cost of moving the product by that circultous route is high, but with the present demand for the salts produced, is warranted. However, ultimate conis warranted. However, ultimate con-struction of a railroad to handle the output is one of the results that is ex-pected to follow the adoption of plans for operation on a commercial scale.

Tract to Be Irrigated. Irrigation of 20,000 acres of arable land on the east side of the lake also is included in the plans that Mr. Moore has outlined. He has filed on water rights of Anna River, the stream that feeds Summer Lake, the flow of which is ample for watering this area, accord-

New Road Will Help. The survey of the Strahorn railroad passes along the east side of the lake, and construction of that line will give the needed transportation facilities for industrial and agricultural development of that section. Mr. Moore says development will necessarily be slow until rail transportation can be below until rail transportation can be had.

The estimated production of soda ash from Summer Lake is 600,000 tons, for which there is a good demand, which under war conditions advanced the price to more than $90 per ton. Under normal conditions the product is worth approximately $50 a ton.

Mr. Moore has organized the Pacific Casmical Company, in which local men have become interested, and the devel-opment plans will be carried forward by this corporation. Construction of a large reduction plant is planned, on which it is the intention to start work as early next year as weather conditions permit. Work during the Winter will not be practicable because of the necessity of hauling material great dis-interests of the Pacific Northwest.

In addition to the Senators and Representatives, there were present Guy.

Conference Is Informal. The conference, which had been arranged by Representative McArthur, was largely informal. Addresses were made by all the members of the two delegations, the purport of which was that both the shipbuilders and the laboring men have relied upon the completion of the ship building programme and have been encouraged to do so by recent utterances of the chairan of the board. Nearly all have incurred obligations upon the strength of the confidence in the continuance of the work, regardless of the coming Winter.

One of the impressive features of the discussion was the showing that the shipbuilders would suffer the least loss by cancellation of the contracts, while labor would suffer most. The shipbuilding companies and some of the sub-contractors would be reim-bursed for their losses, but many of the sub-contractors would suffer heavy losses and the laborers would be out of employment. It was estimated that 35,000 workmen would be directly affected and 50,000 indirectly through suspension of allied industries. It was also stated that to cancel

The chief stumbling-block in the way of those who were arguing for a con-tinuance of the programme was J. H. Rosseter, of the Division of Operations, who argued that the type of vessel was not suitable for use in time of peace. He favored a smaller vessel. It was

The question embarrassed the representative of the railroad administration, and he said that no immediate action would be taken with a view to cutting lumber prices.

First Lieutenant Orville A. tephens was killed in action in France October 6, according to an official dispatch from the War Department to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Stephens, of 5356 Forty-fourth street.

Lieutenant Stephens was a member of Company B, of the Third Oregon, for several years, going to France with it in Janury of this year. Lieutenant Stephens had spent most of his life in the Army. When only 16 years of age he enlisted and saw service in the Spanish-American War and later became a veteran of the Mexican border trouble.

Lieutenant Stephens leaves his parents and two sisters, Mrs. Ida Butler and Mrs. Louise Luther, both of Portland; a brother. Eu-gene Stephens, of Hood River, and a brother, Charles, of this city.

It was also stated that to cancer $20,000,000 worth of contracts would cost the Government $15,000,000 in Officials attributed these huge expenses to the fact that the Government is payment for materials already ordered to the fact that the Government is paying for the tremendous output of paying for the war munitions and materials reached a month or two ago. They also expect that the expense of liquidating con-tracts and paying lump sums to con-tractors will keep the monthly outlay at high figures for some time.

FEDERAL AID ANTICIPATED

Acceptance of Unit to Mean Scenic Thoroughfare From Portland to Foot of Mount Hood.

Gift of the old Barlow road, present thoroughfare to Mount Hood and one of the state's earliest pioneer trails, to form one unit of a Victory memorial highway to Oregon's most magnificent mountain. was tendered yesterday by George W. Joseph, sole owner of the right-of-way of the Mount Hood and Barlow Road Company, to the selective committee of the Victory Memorial As-

In presenting his offer to the se lective committee, Mr. Joseph expressed the belief that a highway from Port-land to Mount Hood would constitute an expressive testimonial to the serv-ices of Oregon's sons in the late war. To such an end he offered the Barlow road, at present operated as a tollroad. None of Oregon's famous trails is richer in tradition than the Barlow road, constructed in 1852 as the connecting link between Eastern Oregon and the Willamette Valley, via the southern flank of Mount Hood. It has been in constant use since pioneer days, and at present serves as the main route for tcurist and sight-seeing travel to the mountain.

The Barlow road connects with the sain road at the Forest Reserve line, about five miles this side of Rhododenfron, extends through Government Camp, from whence the mountaineering parties set forth, and touches Wapi-nitia, on Juniper Flat. The road is ap-proximately 40 miles in length. Should the Barlow road be accepted as a unit of the memorial tribute, the Victory Highway would run from Port-land to Gresham, thence to Sandy, and thence to Mount Hood, a distance of 56 miles. Graded and paved, the scenic thoroughfare would be comparable to the Columbia Highway, as the course extends through country that is wildly eautiful, and terminates at the foot of Mount Hood itself.

Mr. Joseph is of the opinion that, should his offer be accepted, appropriations may yet be obtained from Federal and state sources to further the Victory Highway.
