Wallace Reid and Geraldine Farrar in 'Carmen' at the Star Theater

TODAY'S FILM FEATURES.

Majestic—Will Rogers, "Laughing Bill Hyde."
Liberty—Charlie Chaplin, "Shoulder Arms."
Peoples—Enrico Caruso, "My Cousin."
Columbia—"The Callaux Case."
Star—Wallace Reid, "Carmen."
Sunset—Douglas Fairbanks, "The Good Bad Man."
Globe—Pauline Frederick, "Zaza."
Circle—George Beban, "One More American."

Liberty.

THE ROMANCE OF TARZAN, a sequel of "Tarzan of the Apes," will be the excellent photoplay attraction at the Liberty Theater, beginning tomorrow.

The early reels depicting the jungle with its numerous savage men and beasts are colorful and spectacular. The scenes reveal many beautiful exteriors and superb lighting effects.

Elmo Lincoln is the Tarzan, and makes the figure a powerful one physically, as well as giving a likable character study. Enid Markey is pleasing as the heroine, while other members of the cast have been excellently chosen.

Majestic.

A thrilling story of man's redemption is unfolded in Rex Beach's "Laughing Bill Hyde," the greatest of all Rex Beach-Goldwyn productions, which comes to the Majestic Theater today.

Will Rogers, larrikin-throwing wit of Follies fame, makes his first appearance on the screen in the title role.

Columbia.

Scenes after scene of absorbing dramatic interest make up the thrilling picturization of "The Callaux Case," of France, at the Columbia Theater today.

Peoples.

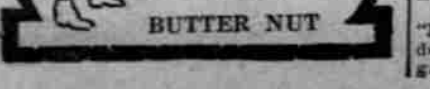

Appearing to take an excellent advantage in his first photoplay produced by Artcraft, Enrico Caruso makes his debut as a photoplay star in this city today at the Peoples Theater.

Globe.

The picturization of the charming play, "Zaza," with Pauline Frederick in the title role, has been secured by the Globe theater, for one week beginning with today.

Zaza is a popular singer in one of the gayest halls in Paris, where she leads a happy-go-lucky life, and is loved by many men, but in return loves none.

After she meets Bernard, a man about town, she experiences the only real and lasting emotion that she has ever known and she dedicates herself to making him happy. When she learns that he is married, and has a little daughter, she is heartbroken.

BUTTER NUT

Great Pictures Due Soon.

Those who enjoy a good picture will welcome the showing of "Under Four Flags" and "America's Answer," which are scheduled to be shown in this city soon.

"America's Answer" has been booked by Manager Jennings of the Sunset Theater for Christmas week. This will be followed by "Under Four Flags," which will be shown at the Majestic Theater during the second week in January.

The pictures have been made and shown under the auspices of the Government. Every scene was taken in France, many of them under shellfire. In both pictures American soldiers are shown in the last stages of the war.

F. A. Bernardo, of the film division of the committee of public information, is in this city arranging for the showing of the pictures.

Sunset.

Douglas Fairbanks in "The Good Bad Man" will be the photoplay feature at the Sunset Theater beginning today.

Douglas portrays "Passin' Through," a cheerful young man, who is always breaking laws, not that he may be benefited, but that some one else may reap the benefit. He aims above all else to be of assistance to illegitimate children, who are compelled to fight their way alone in the world.

It is a thrilling series of events that is recorded in "The Good Bad Man," with Douglas Fairbanks plunging along in a mad current of love, thrills, gun play and laughter.

Star.

Wallace Reid and Geraldine Farrar are co-stars in "Carmen" at the Star Theater beginning today. In this photoplay, Miss Farrar is seen as a cigarette girl, wild, promiscuous in the bestiality of her affections, absolutely without soul and whose stock in trade is her beauty.

Wallace Reid, as Don Jose, a young military officer in her title, is laughed and mocked at by her, when he kills another officer for her defense. Still in love with her faithfulness, Don Jose is unconvinced of her lack of love for him, until he realizes that she is the confidant of Escamillo, a torreador, and in revenge for her perfidy, he slays her in a scene of remarkable power, which is enacted in a bull ring.

The picture is one filled with thrills and unusual heart appeal.

TWO ROBBERIES REPORTED

POLICE SECURE DESCRIPTION OF MASKED HIGHWAYMEN.

Frank Ho Loses $20 and Frank Bunnage Is Relieved of Small Sum.

Two robberies by masked highwaymen netted the outlaws $20, pocket knives and other small trinkets last night. It is believed by the police that both may have been committed by the same pair.

Frank Ho, of 91 North Ninth street, reported that he had been held up and robbed at Ninth and Everett streets. One of the highwaymen gruffly commanded him to put up his hands, he said, while the other rifled his pockets.

The second was reported by Frank Bunnage, of 436 Sherrett avenue, who said that two men wearing masks passed by him on the street at Seventeenth and Clinton, when one suddenly turned around and, leveling a revolver at his head, said, "Throw 'em up!"

LONE DOUGHBOY CHEERED

TROOPER GETS WELCOME INTENDED FOR REGIMENT.

American Soldier Returning on Transport Oregonian Object of Great Demonstration.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—One solitary doughboy, being the only trooper aboard the transport Oregonian, which arrived from France today, received as royal a welcome home as if he had been an entire regiment.

Over the rail leaned the one American soldier. He appeared startled when the police boat's siren let out a mighty blast, then waved his hand and danced ecstatically when he found out what it was all about. He bowed appreciatively when the glee club rendered "Home, Sweet Home," and proved an adept at catching cigarettes with which he was pelted by the women police reserves, all of which was according to the usual programme of welcome.

The lone soldier was Sergeant Leland A. Kaufman, headquarters troop, Second Division, who was bringing home "Joe," the favorite charger of Major-General Omar Bundy, whose troops stopped the Germans on the Marne. The war horse carried the General in this and other engagements in which his troops participated and will be delivered to his master in Washington.

Kaufman, detached at Chateau-

Thierry as a platoon leader in the Ninth Infantry, was gassed and wounded in the leg on July 18.

The Oregonian was followed into port by the American transport De Kalb with 1143 of the overseas force, including 27 Marines, 823 naval men and 375 wounded soldiers. The ship left Brest December 2.

New "Flu" Vaccine Appears.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 13.—An influenza vaccine said to differ from any other hitherto offered and the medical profession has been produced and is now being manufactured for free distribution to registered physicians by the public health laboratory of the School of Medicine of the University of Missouri. While not yet manufactured in quantities to permit general distribution, the university laboratories are open to physicians for study of its production and use.
