

LAWYERS STRIKE AT BOLSHEVISTS, I. W. W.

Oregon Bar Association to Ask State Legislation.

RESOLUTION IS PREPARED

Committee to Be Named to Draft Law to Stamp Out Anarchistic Organizations.

That the time has come when the I. W. W., Bolsheviks, anarchists, and others of their ilk, must be put out of business once and for all, was the determination of the members of the Oregon Bar Association at their annual convention at the Courthouse yesterday. They gave rousing approval of a resolution, introduced by John H. Hall, calling for the appointment of a committee of five members to draft suitable legislation for putting these carriers of unrest and discord out of business. The resolution will be adopted today.

"The United States and the state of Oregon are now enjoying a stable and permanent form of government, under which our people are happy and prosperous," reads the resolution, "and it behooves the people to prevent, if possible, the introduction into this country and state of the propaganda of these disturbing and government-destroying influences.

Legislation Is Planned.

The resolution asks that a "committee of five members of the Oregon Bar Association be appointed to prepare and draft a law to be submitted to the next Legislature. It will tend to check and stamp out Bolshevism, anarchism, I. W. W. and all other 'isms' that are subversive of a sound and stable government and that will prevent the hoisting, displaying or carrying of any other political flag than that of our American emblem of liberty."

The convention was opened yesterday with an address on judicial matters by Kenneth Macintosh, Associate Justice of the Washington Supreme Court. C. H. Carey discussed his minority report of the commission on law reform, which is to be submitted to the Oregon Legislature. Both the majority and minority reports will be read at the session today. The arguments are expected to be lengthy, as both reports have ardent supporters.

Nominating Committee Named.

Officers will be chosen at the afternoon session. Robert Tucker, president of the association, yesterday named his nominating committee. They were Judge Burnett, Harrison G. Platt, James B. Kerr, E. W. Hardy and Frank Grant.

The convention will be brought to a close with the annual banquet at the Hotel Benson at 7 o'clock this evening. Frank Branch Tiley will preside as toastmaster. Responses will be made by United States Attorney Haney, Associate Justice John H. Hall, Associate Justice John H. Hall, Ernest W. Hardy, Roscoe C. Nelson and Harrison Allen. All attorneys desiring to make resolutions for the banquet must communicate with Albert B. Ridgeway, secretary, at Main 80.

GRAVE MISTAKE IS MADE

Father Told Son Is Killed; Lad Still in America.

Although his son, James R. Bain, who is in the service and stationed at Brooklyn, has never been across since he entered the Army, James Bain, 928 Pacific street, Portland, yesterday received a telegram from the Adjutant-General at Washington, D. C., that James R. Bain had fallen in action, October 6.

The telegram read as follows: "Deeply regret to inform you that Private James H. Bain, machine gun battalion, officially reported as killed in action, October 6."

Mr. Bain has heard from his son, who has never been in a machine gun battalion, several times since October 6, the letters coming from Brooklyn, and believing the man who paid the supreme sacrifice and whose name is the same as that of his son is a fellow Oregonian. An effort will be made to locate the relatives of the man reported killed.

SPRUCE WORKERS PRAISED

MAJOR MILLS SPEAKS BEFORE PORTLAND REALTY BOARD.

George Elliot's Poetic Tribute to Antonia Stradivarius Theme of Interesting Lecture.

The story of how Antonia Stradivarius, the famous old Italian violin maker, worked to satisfy something he "couldn't feed on coin," served as the theme for Major T. A. Mills of the Spruce Production Division of the United States Army, in his lecture on "Fiddles and Fortunes," before the Portland Realty Board in the Crystal room of the Benson Hotel yesterday.

Major Mills read George Elliot's poetic tribute to the master violin-maker, and pointed to the Italian as an example of a man who "worked not to make a living, but to make life worth living."

"Live for what you can put into it," said the officer. "Do not ask yourself, 'What can I get?' but rather 'What can I give?'"

To emphasize the value of service, regardless of the station in life of the person involved, the speaker quoted this bit of Browning which all service ranks the same with God.

Officers and men of the Spruce Division were highly praised by Major Mills for their work in getting out sufficient airplane stock for all the allies. Chairman Shively, of the legal committee, reported on whether persons involved in realty transactions could be held criminally liable in cases where false tokens were used.

A collection was taken up to buy Christmas presents for Portland children and members of the board were urged to bring presents to Liberty Temple. John P. Daly was chairman of the day.
