Senator Reed Charges Politics as Responsible.

SHARP TILTS TAKE PLACE

Witness Becker Says Baring of Alleged Relation of Publisher With Huns Justifiable.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Most of today's session of the Senate committee investigating German propaganda was taken up with tilts between Alfred L. Becker, Assistant Attorney-General of New York, and Senator Reed, of Missouri, who is not a member of the committee.

Senator Reed, in cross-examining the New York official, who had been on the stand two days, charged that Morton E. Lewis, Attorney-General of New York, and Mr. Becker misused their official positions in making public information contained in affidavits secured by them under special war legislation. These affidavits referred to alleged meetings of William Randolph Hearst with Bolo Pasha, executed in France as a traitor, and former Ambassador von Bernstorff.

Mr. Becker denied the charge, saying that the affidavits made public were not secured under the special legislation. He said that certain disclosures purporting to show association of Hearst and Bolo were made public "for what I frankly admit were political purposes." He justified this course on the ground that their publication was in the public interest.

Political Motives Scented.

The information under discussion was given to New York newspapers mainly in August, September and October, when Mr. Becker was a candidate for the Republican nomination for Attorney-General of New York State, and Attorney-General Lewis was a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor against Governor Whitman. It appeared from the cross-examination that Hearst was considered a supporter of Whitman and Senator Reed sought to show that Lewis and Becker intended to damage Whitman by attacking Hearst.

Senator Reed read from a New York newspaper of July 31, 1917, a story telling of Bolo Pasha's attentions to a Metropolitan Opera singer, a Spanish woman, whose relations with Bolo were declared by Mr. Becker to be entirely blameless. In this story was a letter from Bolo to the singer mentioning "my friend, Mrs. Millicent Hearst." Mr. Becker admitted having given to the papers the statement containing this letter.

News Deemed Interesting.

"What was the purpose of giving it out at this particular time?" inquired Senator Reed.

"It was an interesting item of news which I thought the public would be glad to read," Mr. Becker replied, smiling.

"Was there no purpose to connect Hearst with Bolo?"

"I had regarded the purpose to show the connection of Hearst with German propagandists as more interesting to the public than the disclosure of Bolo's attentions to the opera singer."

Mr. Becker added, shouting to drown Senator Reed's voice:

"I think it should have been done a long time before."

Senator King, of Utah, then asked:

"Did you attempt to prejudice the public against Whitman by showing his connection with Hearst?"

Mr. Beckler replied:

"It was Lewis' campaign committee which did this."

Committee Keeps Silence.

When the cross-questioning was interrupted by adjournment, to be resumed tomorrow morning, Senator Reed asked Mr. Becker to produce vouchers showing expenses incurred by state secret service agents in obtaining depositions in the investigation of Bolo's activities in the United States. The witness stated with heat that he would "do no such thing," as they were confidential.

Throughout most of the cross-examination by Senator Reed members of the sub-committee in charge of the investigation sat silent and at one time two of them leaned forward with their heads in their hands.

MR. KAHN DEFENDS ATTITUDE

New York Banker Says He Always Opposed Prussianized Germany.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—In reference to the testimony before the Senate committee in Washington today Otto H. Kahn issued the following statement tonight:

"From the very beginning of the European war I have demonstrated by my actions and spoken and written words my abhorrence of Prussianized Germany, my utter hostility to her cause and my active and wholehearted sympathy with the cause of the allied nations. Within a few months of the outbreak of the war I became and have continued to be ever since an object of abuse and attack in the German press.

"I took my stand according to the dictates of my conscience and judgment. I have never wavered in that stand, either publicly or privately. It was known widely and to none better than German emissaries and the German government.

"My record ever since 1914 in support of the allied cause and in opposition to the German cause—not to speak of the loyalty to the American cause is clear, open and unequivocal. If that record does not protect against misrepresentation, misconception or misinterpretation, nothing that I may say will."

CAR MEN CHANGE LEADERS

H. E. KIDNEY CHOSEN PRESIDENT AT ANNUAL ELECTION.

Old Administration Ousted Despite Gains Made in Wages, Hours and Working Conditions.

Almost complete repudiation of its leaders for the past year, under whom the organization was formed and substantial gains made in wages, hours and general working conditions, was expressed by the streetcar men's union at the annual election Tuesday. Results of the election follow:

For president H. E. Kidney, opposition candidate, defeated C. U. Taylor, present vice-president, by a majority of 113.

For vice-president John L. Shepard, opposition candidate, defeated Samuel R. Kingdon, by an overwhelming majority.

For financial secretary-treasurer C. L. Park, opposition candidate, defeated W. C. Elford, incumbent, by 103 majority.

For recording secretary J. E. Barrick was re-elected over Sam Oesch.

For members of the executive board, maintenance of way department, Charles Vilms defeated R. Woodward. For conductor Mike Hart, a neutral, defeated Jack Whitlach. For warden E. A. Dederick defeated John A. Jewett.

For delegates to the Central Labor Council, the five successful candidates are Gust Anderson, opposition; W. C. Elford, administration; H. E. Kidney, opposition; C. L. Park, opposition, and C. U. Taylor, administration.

Under the outgoing administration, with "Dad" Walker, president, and W. C. Elford, financial secretary, a strike was averted, wages for platform men were increased from 25 cents to 50 cents per hour, the eight-hour day was obtained, and schedules were rearranged to make the work of carmen less arduous. Two salary increases were obtained.

BRITON LAUDS AIR WORK

PRODUCTION OF MOTOR AND SPRUCE IS PRAISED.

Brigadier-General Cormack Says That One of Greatest U. S. Contributions Was Spruce.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Contributions of the United States to the aircraft programme of the allies in addition to the Liberty motor were praised by Brigadier-General J. D. Cormack, of the British war mission, in speaking tonight at a dinner given by the members of the old equipment division of the Signal Corps in honor of Colonel Edward A. Deeds, former member of the aircraft board.

After characterizing the Liberty motor as the finest feat in design and production in aircraft that has been accomplished during the war, General Cormack said one of the greatest American contributions was spruce.

"Most of this timber," he said, "that was being produced was already under order by your allies. More spruce had to be produced, and, while the situation was critical at times, the final result is that in the month of November enough spruce was produced to more than equal all our combined requirements.

"To cover the wings of the planes fabric was needed," he continued, "and as Britain could not supply the linen, the United States, with characteristic ingenuity and energy, produced a cotton fabric which is at least the equal of the best airplane linen.

"To tighten the fabric dope was required; again, as the production was insufficient to supply more than the allies' needs, the Signal Corps stepped into the breach and took the matter in hand, with the result that the United States was soon in a position to supply all that was necessary.

"Castor oil for rotary motors was essential, but the world's supplies were insufficient for the number of motors proposed. Your arrangements and preparations have resulted in producing an ample supply, and this achievement merits great praise."

30 SOLDIERS DAILY PLACED

U. S. EMPLOYMENT FORCE TO CO-OPERATE WITH MAYOR.

Intensive Work Declared Necessary to Find Jobs for All Men Without Creating New Industries.

The services of the entire state force of the United States Employment Service have been offered by State Director Smith to Mayor Baker, chairman of the soldier welcome and welfare committee.

"We will go the limit in co-operating with Mayor Baker's committee so that every soldier will have a good position waiting for him when discharged from the service," said Director Smith. "If Captain James Convill is put in charge of this work by the committee he shall have our entire force and equipment at his disposal. My own offices shall be turned over for his headquarters.

"This week we have appointed all county chairmen of the State Council of Defense as bureau managers to make a survey of labor conditions of their counties. Each day three men from this office call on Portland employers, urging them to place their labor orders with us, so that we may put them at the disposal of discharged soldiers.

"We have been placing about 30 discharged soldiers daily. A few of these have had European service, but the vast numbers of those are yet to come. Labor conditions now are just about normal, with a slight surplus in all but the machinists' trades. To place every soldier and civilian without creating new industries in Oregon is going to take intensive centralizing and co-operation of all working in the field. It can be done, I believe."

PARDONED CONVICT HELD

MAN, RELEASED FOR NURSING PATIENTS, IS ACCUSED.

Spokane Railway Engineer Reputed to Have Earned $50,000 in Past Two Years.

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 20.—(Special.)—The Good Samaritan of the county jail, Leo Wenzloff, who nursed influenza patients in prison while he was serving 90 days for bootlegging, and thereby earned a pardon from Governor Lister, again is under arrest, accused of bootlegging. Wenzloff is a Great Northern Railway engineer, but makes only occasional runs. It is presumed his outside business in illicit traffic in liquor consumes most of his time. He is reputed to have earned $50,000 in the last two years, but not all of it on his salary as engineer.

With Wenzloff, when he was arrested today by the Sheriff, two miles north of Hillyard, in his automobile containing 12 cases of whisky, were City Marshal McBride, of Hillyard, and H. E. Rexer, commonly known as "Dutch." The City Marshal is busy explaining his presence with the whisky and the alleged bootlegger. A. C. Felker, who loiters around the spot where Wenzloff is said to have taken on his liquor, also is under surveillance.

Whisky is now retailing in many quarters in Spokane at $5 a pint. Numerous fashionable gentlemen who visit Montana invariably come home with their suitcases, riding in the Pullmans, loaded with whisky for private consumption.

Hood River Soldier Returns.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Dec. 20.—(Special.)—Sergeant Fred Smith, son of A. P. Smith, West Side orchardist, returned yesterday from Camp Zachary Taylor, where he has been in training in a replacement regiment of field artillery. He says hundreds of men are being daily demobilized at the big cantonment.

SAMUEL SPACKMAN AGED BY WAR DRAMA

Canadian Sniper, After Long Experience, Is in City.

BATTLE INITIATION SEVERE

Veteran of Dardanelles, Jaffa, Jericho and Jerusalem Campaigns Describes Varied Sensations.

Four years ago this week Samuel M. Spackman left Portland.

Last evening a Canadian sniper, wearing a helmet which partially covered a big scar on his forehead, carrying equipment used in the Dardanelles campagin and in the triumphal sieges and entry of Jaffa, Jericho and Jerusalem, arrived at the Union station and at the Red Cross canteen gave his name as Sergeant Samuel M. Spackman, of the Australian Light Contingent.

"I left Portland a young man, who, filled with the spirit of the West, had come here to find a location for my wife and two children who were soon to follow," he said. "A drop of the hat and all was changed. Today my mustache is nearly gray and they tell me the back of my head is white. This evening I leave for my old home in Connellsville, Pa., where I will arrive in time for Christmas eve and Christmas with my two daughters, one a stenographer and one a high school girl. My wife is dead, her death probably quickened by an unfounded report that I had been killed in action. I shall not come West again. I'm too old now.

Initiation Is Severe.

"Being a good shot I was sent overseas with the first contingent of 50, from Vancouver. We thought we were sailing for France, but when the Captain opened his sealed orders at the Bay of Biscay, they were to take us into the Mediterranean to the Cape of Hillas. There we were landed in the dark, save for the myriad of shells that were bursting on us from every side and which completely bathed us in fire. Father Murphy, a Catholic chaplain, was told to wait for protection, but as he started just ahead of me he gave the answer, 'I hear moaning and groans and my place is not in safety.' A second later a shell struck him and his brains were covering my tunic.

"That initiation into action completely unnerved me for a second, but it made me purposeful in the hell that followed. We gave them hell and they gave us hell. We advanced considerable distance up the Dardanelles, our plan being to make our way up the peninsula. But just at the critical time Bulgaria decided to cast her fate with the central powers, and then no power on earth could advance against the strongholds of the Dardanelles. It makes no difference now that they were not entered. It's all a gamble, this war.

Sensations Are Varied.

"I have seen sights that would bring both tears of joy and tears of laughter. One time I was resting under an olive tree when General Hamilton, with his staff and several of the Chaplains, came by. The Chaplain knew me and, thinking he had always to be talking of heaven and angels, said: 'When you are in the advance cast your eyes upward for help.' I saluted and replied: 'When I am in advance I see Bulgarians and Turks to the front, to the right and to the left, and when I cast my eyes upward I'll be dead if I don't see a German airplane.'

"General Hamilton looked rather surprised at my daring remark. 'Who is this man?' he demanded. 'Oh, a Yankee,' one of his officers answered. 'Hm,' said General Hamilton; 'so you're the Yankee of this contingent. I've heard you were a damned good soldier.'

"It was General Hamilton said that to me and that was one of the proudest moments of my life. Another such moment was when the Chaplain of our contingent asked who would like to be immersed in the River Jordan. I was one of 620 out of 856 men to come forward for that ceremony.

Jerusalem Pays Respects.

"Our entry into Jerusalem was on camels, mounted with rapid-firing guns. We marched down the narrow streets, lined on both sides with rejoicing natives and paved with palm leaves, to show us honor even as they had done to Christ. Our record of kindliness in dealing with them had come before us from the natives of Jericho, and we did not belie their faith.

"But in all those countries today—Palestine, Turkey, Bulgaria, France and even Great Britain—President Wilson is reverenced and loved more than any other man. I hear criticism since I have returned, but never once over there. If he were to run today for world President, he would be elected unanimously. The British like him, but they are content with their own rulers, too. They sa: a man has a right to wear either an expensive or a cheap tie, as he prefers, and therefore, if they wish to afford the luxury of a king, that is their right."
