Sunset.
 "America's Answer," the second United States official war picture, opens an engagement at the Sunset Theater today. It is to be shown for a week at that photo-playhouse, with the cooperation of various Portland organizations and business interests identified prominently with war work.
 The purpose of this great production, which was assembled from 30,000 feet of film taken by the United States Signal Corps, A. E. F., by order of General Pershing and under direction of the general staff, is to set before Americans "Over Here," what Americans "Over There," have done, and are still doing—what American dollars were spent for.
 The picture takes Americans across the ocean and shows what is being done over there, not only by the men who fight, but by those who build bridges and railroads and big plants, by those who cut down trees and assemble locomotives and send supplies to those at the front, and by those who minister to the needs of the fighting men.

Columbia.
 A treat for Marguerite Clark fans is promised at the Columbia Theater today, when the elfish little star opens an engagement in "Little Miss Hoover." The comedy-drama is based upon the novel, "The Golden Bird," and deals with a patriotic young society woman who raises chickens in an effort to do her bit towards winning the war. There is an excellent love story and many situations of exceptional human interest.

The popular Eugene O'Brien is Miss Clark's leading man in the picture, while Alfred Hickman is a prominent member of the cast.
 Burton Holmes, Terzague and Mutt and Jeff comedy are other features scheduled.

Majestic.
 "A Burglar for a Night," the new Paralta play presenting J. Warren Kerrigan to Majestic Theater patrons today is said to be a typical Kerrigan production, brimful of action from beginning to end.
 The early scenes of the story are laid in the Orient, where the star is called upon to engage in a lively encounter with a band of Chinese thugs. Later, after a number of thrilling episodes on board his yacht, the hero is seen in this country, where he saves not only his father's fortune, but wins the daughter of his opponent.
 Pathe Weekly, a Harold Lloyd comedy, and Official War Review are other screen subjects, while at 12:30 o'clock today a special concert on the big Wurlitzer organ will be featured.

Shows Fleet's Surrender.
 The surrender of the German fleet to the allies, one of the biggest marine events in all history, is scheduled for showing at the Peoples' Theater tomorrow.
 Gaumont cameramen caught the un-battered ships of the Hun as they suddenly surrendered to civilization without firing a shot.
 "This is one of the biggest news features of the year and all animated news concerns made heroic efforts to secure the best possible views of the spectacular event and place them before the world in the quickest possible time."

Globe.
 "The Man From Mexico," that popular stage comedy pictured by Paramount, is to be shown at the Globe Theater for a week commencing today.
 John Barrymore is the star of this rollicking photo-tale, which deals with the efforts of a man to fool his wife. How he hoodwinked his wife from beginning to end furnishes laughs galore.

"How Stars Twinkle Away From the Studios," a special subject showing more than a score of stars of filmdom, will be a feature for Sunday and next week. More stars are in this picture than ever appeared in one before.

Screen Gossip.
 In Chicago permission has been secured to run the Paul Smith picture, "The Fall of Barbary Coast," under the title, "The Single Objective." The censors long refused permission to have it shown in Windy City theaters.

Fritzi Brunette will be seen as leading woman for Henry Walthall in a picture to be among his last before returning to the stage. By the way, Fritzi changed her first name to something else a few months ago because of its pro-German makeup.

Someone suggests that Mr. McAdoo turn his organization wily and loose on the motion picture industry.

TRIBUTE PAID LESLIE TOOZE

COMRADES OF DEAD OFFICER EXPRESS SYMPATHY.

Letter Received From France Contains Account of Fatal Engagement.

"I lost a splendid Lieutenant and type of manhood. His was an end that all true, red-blooded Americans would welcome," writes Captain G. A. Faude, 364th Infantry, A. E. F., in a letter of condolence to Mrs. Sadie A. Tooze, who lost her son, Lieutenant Leslie O. Tooze, while leading his men in the terrific battle which raged for days in the Argonne Forest.

Seldom has greater tribute to man and fighter been paid than that accorded Lieutenant Tooze by his Captain who said:

"He met a glorious end. You can well be proud of such a son. He handled his platoon like a true soldier to the finish. His leadership and coolness was a fine tribute to American traditions. He carried his men forward to the farthest point reached by any organization during the three days' advance."

Eleven officers of the Third Battalion of the 364th Infantry, including Major Lester W. Humphreys, of Portland, signed the following letter of condolence to Mrs. Tooze:

"It is our wish that you know of the sincere sympathy extended to you by the officers and men of the Third Battalion of the 364th Infantry.

"Your son was very dear to us, our friend and our comrade, and our close association with him throughout the past year and especially in the recent months gave us infinite opportunity to appreciate his manliness, character and worth. May we assure you that your great loss is shared by each one of us."
 Lieutenant Lamar Tooze, regimental intelligence officer of the Third Battalion, 365th Infantry, went scotchless through four battles, was his twin-brother's "bunkie," and they were together at the last.
