

CARDINAL DOES NOT FEAR SOCIAL ISSUE

American Working People to Prevent Upheaval.

U. S. CAPACITY IS SHOWN

Hope Is Expressed That Selfishness May Be Subordinated at Peace Conference.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 24.—Cardinal Gibbons, in a statement today, said he had no fear that socialism would become an issue to be dreaded in the period of reconstruction and that the good sense of the American working people would check any social upheaval. He said that he was glad to see that we ought to rejoice particularly on this Christmas occasion because it is the first Christmas festival in five years that we have had the happiness to celebrate in the midst of universal peace, either actually attained or dawdling upon us.

"And I think, too, that the example of energy we set in the prosecution of the war is a matter for rejoicing, for it has shown the world the capacity of America and Americans."

"I earnestly hope that this peace has come today, that we will know no more war and that in our and for all future generations, disputes between peoples will be settled, not by the sword, but by the voice and of conciliation, which are mightier than the sword."

Nations Often Blinded

"As for the outcome of the negotiations now about to begin in Paris, it is hard to express an opinion. We can only hope that they will be directed by wisdom and justice and that selfishness may be subordinated. Nations are like men—they are selfish and they often times let their own interests blind them to the rights of others and to the demands of fair dealing; but we may hope that in the light of what we hope is the dawn of a better day for all humanity, wise counsel and justice and fair dealing may prevail over the interests of individual nations and that the peace negotiations may be ended at an early day."

"I feel no anxiety with regard to the future of our country. Much concern seems to be about the labor situation throughout the country and there are fears as to the outcome of the readjustment period. I am sure the American working people of the country are men of intelligence and common sense. They know full well what their condition here is better than in any other country anywhere else in the world, and that the disposition of those who employ them is to treat them justly and generously. They know that social upheaval would bear more heavily upon them than upon any other class and would hurt them more than it would hurt any other class."

No Grievance Presents

"As for the spread of Socialism in America, which some of you feel no apprehension whatever, and feel there is no reason for apprehension. No man or set of men can raise a storm in this country without some real grievance and every Socialist in the land, down in his heart, knows there is no actual grievance about which he can justly complain, certainly no grievance that would warrant the overturning of the social structure and the ruin, industrial and of every other sort, that would ensue."

Fears as to the Labor Situation

"Fears as to the labor situation, and fears about the spread of Socialism and the doctrine of the great public interest of the country in the authorities of the Government itself. These interests are vast and wide-reaching and control the well-being of millions of men, such interests as the railroads and the telegraph as well as others."

"I should be sorry to see these things put under the direction of any Federal Administration. The men employed in these industries and utilities would form the preponderating interest in any administration and would be a perpetuation of power. I believe in a division of power and think it best for the country that it should be so. An invasion by the administrative department of the Government upon the rights of the other departments. The attitude of our Government, provided for a Government of check and balances, a Government in which the executive, the legislative and the judicial departments were kept separate and distinct and each department was made independent of the other."

SPANISH INFLUENZA—THE WAY TO TREAT IT AND TO AVOID IT

Simply the Old-Fashioned Grip Masquerading Under a New Name.

Spanish influenza, which appeared in Spain in May, has all the appearance of grip or la grippe, which has swept over the world in numerous epidemics as far back as history runs. Hippocrates refers to an epidemic in 412 B. C., which is regarded by many to have been influenza. Every century has had its attacks. Beginning with 1831, this century has had five epidemics, the last in 1889-90.

There is no occasion for panic—influenza or grip has a very low percentage of fatalities—only seven or eight out of every four hundred cases, according to the N. C. Board of Health. The chief danger lies in complications arising, attacking principally patients in a run down condition—those who don't go to bed soon enough, or those who get up too early.

HOW TO AVOID THE DISEASE.
 Evidence seems to prove that this is a germ disease, spread principally by human contact, chiefly through coughing, sneezing or spitting. So avoid persons having colds—which means avoiding crowds—common drinking cups, roller towels, etc. Keep up your bodily strength by plenty of exercise in the open air and good food.

KEEP AWAY FROM COLDS.
 Above all, avoid colds, as colds irritate the lining of the air passages and render them much better breeding grounds for the germ. Use Vick's VapoRub at the very first sign of a cold. For a head cold, melt a little VapoRub in a spoon and inhale the vapors, or better still, use VapoRub in a heated steam kettle. If this is not available, use an ordinary tea-kettle. Fill half-cup with boiling water, add a half-teaspoon of VapoRub from time to time—keep the kettle just slowly boiling and inhale the steam arising.

Go to bed at the first symptoms, not only for your own sake but to avoid spreading the disease to others—take a purgative, eat plenty of nourishing food, rest perfectly quiet and don't worry. Nature herself is the only "cure" for influenza and will throw off the attack if only you conserve your strength. A little Quinine, Aspirin or Dover's Powder may be given by the physician's directions to allay the aching, always call a physician, since the chief danger of grip is its weakening effect on the system, which allows complications to develop. These are chiefly pneumonia and bronchitis, sometimes inflammation of the middle ear, or heart affections. For these reasons, it is very important that the patient remain in bed until his strength returns—stay in bed at least two days or more after the fever has left you, or if you are over 60 years of age, stay in bed four days or more, according to the severity of the attack.
