Compulsory Physical Training for All Children Scheduled for Consideration.

BY JAMES J. RICHARDSON. The physical education programme to be held in connection with the meeting of the executive council of the Oregon State Teachers Association, which co venes at the Lincoln High School today Pieir purpose the physical development of the thousands of school children in this state.

Dr. A. D. Browne, professor of men's physical education at Oregon Agriculphysical education at Oregon Agricul-tural College, is chairman of the com-mittee on physical education and, to-gether with H. W. Hargiss, head coach and professor of intercollegiate ath-leties, and H. C. McDonald, boxing and wrestling instructor at the Corvaliis institution, will arrive in Portland to-day and remain until Sunday. They will make their headquarters at the Imperial Hotel. Couches Are Invited.

Dr. Browne, who is regarded as one of the best-informed men on physical education in the country, has extended an invitation to every coach and athietic director in the state to attend the meetings and indications point to a very enthusiastic gathering.

The question of compulsory physical training for all school children, together with the many advantages which accrue from intramural athletics, will be among the many interesting of the finest in the United States, Plans will be among the many interesting subjects to be discussed.

The physical training bill to be presented at the next session of the Legislature, together with the National physical training bill, will be given prepared.

For the last 18 months the Seattle Yacht Club virtually suspended all programme events, deciding that it would plenty of consideration.

Roberts, Butler and Coombs, in the backfield, and Scaffe, Perry, Ar-thur and Coldwell in the line, the members of the new class, with the development of the members of the present squad, are expected to offset it. The backfield men who will be available next season are Benoist, Rodes, Clark, Alvord, Severn, Orr and Raw-lings. Every one of these got some experience in matches this season and considerable improvement may be expected next season, as all of them are young. Of course there is every pros-pect of some good men for both backfield and line turning up in the new
