GOVERNMENT BUREAU FINDS WORK FOR MEN

Nearly 1000 Applicants Placed Daily in Oregon.

MANY RETURNED SOLDIERS

Floating Labor Population Is Being Shifted From Portland to Various Sections of State.

Nearly 1000 applicants for work, many of them recently discharged soldiers, are being placed dally in Oregon by the United States Employment Service, despite the surplus of unskilled labor and increasing scarcity of positions, according to statements given out yesterday by Wilfred S. Smith, State Federal Employment Director.

Of this number, 500 are being placed Of this number, 500 are being placed by the Portland office exclusive of those placed by the short hour Federal employment office operating in the old hullding at 247 Davis street. The eight branch offices throughout the state are placing 350 employes daily. Director Smith estimates that in the new Port-land offices at Third and Oak streets an average of 1500 men daily seek in-formation leading to new positions, while on Mondays and Tuesdays as many as 2000 men register at the of-

Floating labor population is being shifted from Portland throughout the state, Director Smith believes, since the return of the state's industries to a peace pasts. While men have been released from wooden shipyards, it is thought that in most cases the men let go were the ones who constitute the evil known to labor specialists as "the turn over" element. Portland shippards still re-port a shortage in skilled mechanics. but In other crafts few calls for workers are coming from them.

A bulletin just received from Wash-ington, D. C., says that according to reports compiled, Oregon and California have an equal number of unemployed men and of open jobs but that in the East, Middle West and the section about Seattle there is still a shortage of la-

Captain Convill,, U. S. A., former Portland Park Superintendent, reported at the offices of State Director Smith yesterday as a representative of the soldier welcome and welfare committee, of which Mayor Baker is chairman. His duties will be to follow up the work done by the employment service in obtaining positions for returned sol-

The better the soldier, the greater disadvantages ne is at in finding a position, said Captain Convill, "as Army men are trained to not hang around. The discharged scidler comes down here and lists himself for a sition which the Service just at that minute cannot put at his disposal. His Army training has taught him not to hang around, so that after he has gone looking in other sources for a position and a possible employer for him, calls at the Service, I am here to represent the soldier. We are going to get jobs for the soldiers of all states, but if there should be an unprecedented but if there should be an unprecedented scarcity, Oregon soldiers will be given the preference."

POPE FEARS RACE HATRED

REPAIRING OF MORAL ILLS OF husband of mine will make WAR WANTED.

Pontiff, Answering Christmas Greetings, Hopes Peace Will Give New Birth to Sentiments.

ROME, Dec. 24 .- Pope Benedict today received the members of the Sacred College, who presented their Christmas wishes to him. Twenty-three cardinals and many bishops and prelates were In reply to the greetings the Pope expressed a wish that the decisions of e coming peace congress not only ould re-establish order, but would give a new birth "to human sentiments which will render communion with our brothers and the sacifices made for

Pope Benedict expressed doubt whether the tempest that had devastated the world had not left in the hearts of men the deadly remains of ancient rancours unwholesome germs of discord, ven-geance and reprisals. The very ardor of war and the passion for defense of country, the pontiff added, were noble in their origin, although it was natural that in principle they could easily lead to excesses and make germs of social discord more grave.

The Pope said he wondered if it were not the holy father's task to repair the moral ills of the war no less than the material damages, and dissipate the might result from excessive national hatreds and passions. He said he hoped his work henceforth might be an echo of the decision of the peace con-

FOOD PRICES ENORMOUS

EVEN WEALTHY CAN GET ONLY SMALL QUANTITIES.

Ham Sells for 540 Marks ($135) and Eggs Are 3 Marks Each. Dinner Costs About $15.

there is an impression in some quarters that the situation has been exaggerated. Here, however, there is one excellent barometer, prices Wealthy people can still obtain limit-d quantities of what used to be con-ed quantities of what used to be considered necessaries, but now are considered luxuries, though at terrifying prices. In one particular case a man in Berlin paid 540 marks for a ham, the eggs to go with it costing three marks apiece. A dinner recently purchased at an Unter den Linden restaurant, consisting of thin soup, fish, meat and a baked apple, cost 62 marks. Coffee would have cost three marks additional. ditional.

What such prices mean can best be realized when it is considered that the highest daily wage of a skilled German mechanic rarely reaches 20 marks.

Those in the poorer walks of life all declare that it is absolutely impossible of keep body and soul together on the rations distributed on food cards. Another factor in the food situation is the lack of fat. Even after such a meal as cost 62 marks one becomes hungry, even ravenously hungry, within two or three hours.

Woman Holds Up Pair and Appropriates Christmas Gifts.

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 26.—(Special.)

—The newest thing in robberies took place at Twenty-third and Harrison streets last night, when R. H. Egbert, while walking home with his wife, was held up and robbed of Christmas pres ents and valuable jewelry by a masked woman leading an English buildog on a leash and carrying a small peari-handled revolver. The woman ordered the pair to disgerge, and even insisted on taking small parcels. "You can't use these cigars," de-murred Egbert, who was inclined to look on the thing as a hoax.

"Well, if I can't that lazy lout of a of them," replied the lady Raffles. She also insisted upon Mrs. Egbert giving

SIGNING OF ARMISTICE RE-MOVES NEED OF PRECAUTION.

Lieutenant K. Townsend Writes of Portland Contingent's Peace Celebration in Nantes.

Comforts soldiers at the front looked forward to were baths, clean sleeping eccommodations, plenty to eat and a hance to forget some of the appalling events passed through, but in the Navy the prime feature of the armistics, other than the actual fact combats were at an end, was the prospect of unning across the Atlantic without aving to "douse the lights." At least that is the idea of Lieutenant K. Townsend, who left the chief-engineer's berth aboard the Portland-California liner Beaver to join the fighting forces afloat. In a letter from St. Nazaire, about 40 miles from Nantes, he writes that his ship reached the other side November 11 and up to December 1 had not discharged her cargo, while it was expected she would be held another 10 days. The trip "home," he figured, would require 18 to 22 days, depending on Winter weather in the North Atlantic.

"Our trip back to little old New York will be more confertable as beyerforce.

will be more comfortable, as heretofore we have been running the ship in total darkness, save for the engineroom," he says, "so going home will seem like a
