Men of Swedish descent have most freely sought refuge from the draft through canceling their citizenship. Thirty-eight Swedes who had once declared intention of becoming American citizens changed their minds during the war. Of the Swiss there were 17.

Agitation by loyal citizens at the time such cancellations were being made caused many of the aliens to lose their positions, and many have since left the state. Reports of citizen-ship withdraws! were made principally by draft boards. The record now made includes pertinent facts about the men, their attitude and what happened to

The arrangements for the luncheon

The arrangements for the luncheon at Manchester were simple. The service was by waitresses dressed in plain black with white aprons. After coffee was served the Lord Mayor's announcer, standing with a wand behind the Mayor's chair, called for silence. The Mayor then offered a toast to the King and one to the President. The toasts having been drunk, the Lord Mayor announced:

"Gentlemen, you may smoke."
In proposing "to the President of the Inited States," the Lord Mayor gave a short eulogistic speech and expressed appreciation of the compliment which the President had paid Manchester by bringing Mrs. Wilson with him. This caused a round of cheers.

The President said he thanked Manchester for the hospitality shown him.

He referred to Mrs. Wilson as his partner. The President drew a moral from the fact that the musket and sword are hung above the fireplace. but never the yardstick and that the musket and sword are symbolical of self-sacrifice. At the conclusion of the President's
