WALKERS WILLINGLY OBSERVE NEW RULES

Traffic Conditions Improve on First Day of Change.

POLICEMEN ARE TEACHERS

Instruction in Observance of Parking Regulations to Come After Pedestrians Form New Habits.

With 23 policemen in the congested district instructing the public on the new rules regulating traffic, the situation showed a decided improvement yesterday. Traffic Sergeant Lewis, who was in charge of the squad, said conditions were 40 per cent better.

Only one accident, with slight damage to the machine concerned, and no casualties, occurred in the downtown district, as far as reports to the police showed. The public in general, say the patrolmen, showed a disposition to cooperate in the new regulations.

The only ones who protested concerning the "jay-walking" restrictions, to which much opposition was expected, were elderly persons who had grown set in their manner of pedestrianism, and boys.

Woman's Voice Indignation. "These laws were made for fools. They don't apply to me," one old woman indignantly told Patrolman Mallon. She persisted in walking diagonally across a street intersection, dodging a maze of traffic.

"She thinks she got by for a good many years, I guess, so she doesn't believe in changing now," sighed the policeman good-naturedly. "Well, they told us to be polite, and you know it's hard to break an old habit of his trot." This was far from the general attitude, however. Many pedestrians who had seen traffic conditions in Eastern and Middle West cities expressed approval of the adoption of "modern traffic laws" in Portland.

"Jay-walking" was the principal phase of the new ordinance taken up yesterday. When the public has been instructed thoroughly regarding that single the new parking laws will be gradually enforced.

Congested District Outlined. The new congested district outlined by the ordinance is described as including the irregularly-shaped territory between the following streets: The north line of Taylor street between Front and Tenth street, the west line of Tenth street between Taylor and Stark, the center of Stark street between Tenth and West Park, the west line of West Park street between Stark and Oak, the north line of Oak street between West Park and Front and the west line of Front street between Oak and Taylor streets.

Thus the whole of Taylor street is excluded from the congested district and the section of Tenth street, between Taylor and the center of Stark streets, is included. The south side of Stark street between Tenth and West Park streets is in the congested district, whereas the north side of Stark street is outside. West Park street between Stark and Oak streets is inside the congested district, whereas the whole of Oak street between West Park and Front streets, Front street is not included in the congested district.

Parking Rules Given.

The regulations governing the parking of machines in the congested district follows: Between 9 A. M. and 7 P. M. machines may be parked for not more than 20 minutes, except on the sections of Washington and Alder streets, between the west line of Fifth street and the east line of Park street, on the sections of Park and West Park between Taylor and Oak streets, and the section of Morrison street between the Morrison bridge and Third street, in all of which parking is absolutely forbidden during these hours.

Another exception to the parking rule is in the Public Market on Yamhill street between Fifth and First streets, where cars may be parked for 15 minutes only. Traffic in the Public Market is permitted to travel only from west to east.

From 7 P. M. until 11 P. M. parking on Washington street, between Fifth and Tenth streets, is limited to 30 minutes. After 11 P. M. the congested district is free of special parking regulations until 7 A. M. The parking regulations do not apply to Sundays and holidays.

ARMENIAN PUPIL SUICIDE

Boy, Who Spoke in Portland, Ends Life at New Jersey School.

TACOMA, Wash., Jan. 10.—(Special.)—Mosesk Vorpeterian, 15-year-old Armenian, who told the story of the sufferings of his people to Portland audiences upon his arrival in this country, committed suicide a few days ago. George Schol, Newton, N. J., where he was a student. Tacoma friends received the news today. Homesickness is given as the motive for the act. He came to the Pacific Coast after wanderings through Russia and Siberia, he finally landed at Shanghai and from there was furnished passage to America. He had been active in raising relief funds in the United States.

Pendleton Law Modified.

PENDLETON, Or., Jan. 10.—(Special.)—Pendleton's Council today, on the demand of restaurant men, repealed the section of the quarantine ordinance requiring the use of flu masks for persons engaged in certain occupations. The restaurant men represented that their employees refused to wear them and that they were confronted last night with a general walkout of their waiters if relief could not be obtained. All other features of the ordinance remain as before.

Vancouver Women to Give Dance.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Jan. 10.—(Special.)—The first of a series of dances to be given by the War Camp Community Service, will be held by the National League for Women's Service in St. Luke's parish hall, tomorrow evening, Saturday, January 11. Mrs. W. S. Short will direct the dances and she has a number of well-known women in the city to assist her. The girls will be admitted by cards given them by Mrs. Short and her assistants.

Pasco Has New Flu Cases.

PASCO, Wash., Jan. 10.—(Special.)—A few new cases of the flu are reported by Health Officer H. B. O'Brien, among whom are Rev. and Mrs. Clark S. Thomas and Mrs. W. J. Welch. Mrs. Thomas was taken to the hospital last Saturday and is still quite sick. Mr. Thomas took sick Monday and is confined to his bed. Their two children have just recovered from the disease. Dr. O'Brien reports Mrs. Welch as getting along nicely.
