STEEL AND WOOD SHIPS UNDER ONE DIVISION

Daniel H. Cox Named as Manager of Consolidated Work.

PIEZ SENDS OUT ORDER

No Details Given of Change in Supervision of Construction of Vessels in Oregon District.

Ship construction division is the of-ficial designation of that pertion of the force of the Emergency Fleet Corporation engaged in building vessels, the wooden and steel ship construction struction divisions having been abolished, and in charge of the newly oreated ship construction division is Daniel H. Cox, who has been manager of the steel ship division.

Notice of the change reached the city yesterday from Charles Piez, director-general of the Emergency Fiest Corporation. The first order, in which the new organization. In which the new organization was set forth, did not include any details as to how the combined personnel would serve hereafter, but it is taken for granted there will be no shift-ing of district managers and super-

In the Oregon district wooden ship construction has been directed by L. J. Wentworth for more than a year, and the steel ship work is under Fred B. Pape, assistant manager, who reports to Captain J. F. Blain, of Seattle, district manager. The wooden ship district reduced its staff some time ago, and the steel district beauty district. and the steel division has operated in Oregon with one of the smallest staffs of any district in the country, so it is viewed as certain there will be no pruning expected here to reach a thorough peace footing.

Further evidence of cutting down Further evidence of cutting down departments in the shipbuilding organization was given in copies of the Emergency Fleet News, which announces the discontinuance of publication. The paper, which was a weekly, was first issued February 28, 1918, and has been devoted to chronicling events in shipbuilding plants, thereby stimulating additional rivalry and helping to offset enemy propaganda. The last number includes 23 pages, on the last of which is printed a picture of the entire executive staff of ture of the entire executive staff of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, with a number of subordinates.

LAUNCHINGS TO INCREASE

Last Half of Month to Have More Than First Half.

During the first half of January only During the first half of January only two wooden hulls were launched and one completed wooden steamer delivered. The launchings were those of the Buttonwood, at the Vancouver yard of the G. M. Standifer Construction Corporation, and the Bedloe, at the Tillamook plant of Feeney & Bremer. The ship delivered is the Cabeza, of the Coast Shiphuiding Company's fleet

Coast Shipbuilding Company's fleet.

Already the Boykin is in the water for the second half of the month, having been floated Saturday at the Coast plant, and today the Datis goes overboard at the Sommarstrom Shipbuilding Company's Columbia City property, and the Agarista, at the Grant Smith-Porter Ship Company's yard. The Wabanaquot is scheduled to leave the ways at the North Portland yard of the ways at the North Portland yard o Standifer Corporation tomorrow after-

FORT SCOTT GOES ON TRIAL

Government Will Have Steamers Listed as Delivered in January.

The Ferris steamer Fort Scott, built by the Grant Smith-Porter Ship Company, leaves this morning for sea to undergo a trial of 24 hours outside. Her inspection was continued yester-day at the instance of United States Steam Vessel Inspectors Edwards and

The inspection of the steamer Cresap, constructed by the Peninsula Shipbuild-ing Company, was completed yester-day and her early delivery is expected. The present schedule of the machinery department of the Emergency First Corporation calls for the delivery of about seven wood steamers in Janua; and there should be a greater number River's Crest Is Reached.

Unless rains late yesterday add ma-terially to the flow of the Willamette River, the freshet danger is passed for the present, the Weather Bureau foreeing that the stream would begit to fall today and increase its downward trend tomorrow. The official gauge registered 13.3 feet above zero at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, showing no change as compared with the reading 24 hours earlier.

Marine Notes.

The steamer City of Topeka, sailing at 9 o'clock last night, carried a number of travelers for Coos Bay. Eureka and San Francisco. The steamer did not call in Coos Bay on her northbound voyage because of weather conditions, so fraight she carried was ordered delivered on the way south.

south. Harry Jackel, formerly in the harbor patrol service and now in the flying division of the Navy, left last night for San Diego in conference with orders from the Navy Department, and will report to the commandant of the nero station there. At the time of his departure from Europe Mr. Jackel was informed that he had been recommended for a commission as gasign, and that Admiral Sims had approved the recommendation, so he fully expects to be recommendation, so he fully expects to be officially promoted on reaching San Diego Hailing from Grays Harbor with a part cargo of lumber the steamer San Diego arrived in the Columbia River late Monday sight and proceeded to Westport to work the last of her load.

Due to sail from St. Helens today is the steamer Hogulam, which has a full lumber cargo for Los Angeles. The steamer Tamalpais shifts today from Rainler to Wauna to take on a parcel of lumber before proceeding to Los Angeles.

Minor repairs to the hull of the steamer J. N. Teal are being made on the St. Johns drydock. If ways were available for handling river steamers repairs to the vessel would be more extensive, but because of this fact much of the work will be deferred until next Summer.
