

SAD TALE OF TODD AND TODDY IS TOLD

Horse Dealer Buys Experience as Bootlegger.

GAME WINS HANDS DOWN

Fake Federal Officers Raid Basement and Carry Off 45 Cases of Wonderful Liquor.

If you had made thousands and thousands of dollars selling horses to the Government, and then someone showed you that buying contraband liquor—O, the most wonderful Bourbon that fell just like silk—would net you 30 per cent on your money—

And if you fell, and bought 45 cases of the tempter—340 quarts of "bottled sunshine," and then—

You were arrested. And then you found you were not arrested, but your liquor and your money had flown, wouldn't it destroy that "grand and glorious feeling"?

Well, that's just the way C. W. Todd, who lives at 715 East Couch street, feels.

Pitiful Story Related. And as the wanderer his sad way through the streets past the office of District Attorney Evans, and grand jury room telling his pitiful story, can you blame the stern officers of the law for feeling pitiful and sorry, too?

Charlotte Greenwood, whose individual art as a comedienne has placed her in a niche peculiarly her own in the realm of entertainment, returns to the Helix tonight featured in the title role of "So Long, Letty." Miss Greenwood has a personality that is distinctive and unique. She is pretty and magnetic, comical and clever, grotesque and laugh-compelling. It is said there isn't anybody on the stage just like her.

Oliver Morosco has surrounded her with a company that has been well received throughout its tour.

ing. For Todd does not know what the grand jury will do with him—a self-confessed, would-be bootlegger.

He found an auto truck loaded with 15 great cases of "shoes" at 2:30 A. M. and counted $3150 into the hands of the honest truck driver, who must remain nameless. Todd and the driver loaded the cases of "shoes" into the wagon and then made their way to the East Side.

Whisky Stored in Basement. Todd has a fine roomy basement, and as each case of "shoes" wonderful to relate, disgorged three cases of whisky, his basement was stacked high. The whisky wasn't much wood there, but what little there was he arranged over the pile.

Then Todd had a busy day. Once more his good friend Postello got busy and introduced him to Oscar Lund, of Lenta, he says.

Lund was quite sure that the liquid could be disposed of at the special price of $110 a case; he thought he could take half of the stock, anyway, and thereupon he paid down $100 cash, according to the story Todd related to the grand jury yesterday.

Now comes the thrills. Monday morning when the sun was not yet up, there was a hurried rap at Todd's door.

Lund and Lonnie Duntley were there, says Todd. In hurried whispers they told him, he declares, of hearing the "dicks" tell of being about to "pinch" Todd.

Liquor Taken, Todd Left. "My God, they're here now," yelled Lund, according to Todd. "We're pinched. Help us to get away."

Todd rushed the twin to the back door. In there rushed at the front door a trio of officers.

One had a badge "as big as a house." Number 12 was on it. "The same one produced a gun and holding it at Todd's head, yelled, "I'm a Federal officer. You're under arrest. Where's that booze?"

Wh apprehension, Todd led them to the basement, but the gun was all-compelling. The five, for Lund and his friend had returned, loaded the wonderful contents of that basement into three big automobiles.

And then they drove away!

And they forgot to take Todd with them!

And Todd realized that, after all, the game had beaten him, and not he the game.

Todd thought for a while. Then he consulted an attorney. They made several efforts to get in touch with the fake officers and real bootleggers who had "bilked" him, but both the booze and the coin had gone.

District Attorney Hears Story.

Then Todd told his sad story to District Attorney Evans, Lund, Duntley, R. W. Hedderly, J. E. Pomeroy and Ed Long were arrested in the early hours of yesterday, the charge of using a deadly weapon being preferred until the grand jury could decide what to do.

Todd is quite sure of Lund and Duntley, he said, and reasonably sure of Long, but Pomeroy and Hedderly he is not quite so certain of.

There were sad men in Portland yesterday, but none sadder than Charles Todd, for he had lost his gold, and so had his $3150, but—worse than all that—"I did not even get a single, solitary drink," he declared.

And, then, he has another grief com-

WELCOME PLANS STUDIED

DECORATION OF SIXTH STREET TOPIC OF CONFERENCE.

All Portland Will Join in Tribute to Oregon Men Returning From Oversea Service.

Final decision of plans to be adopted for decorating Sixth street, which from now on until the returning Oregon men have all registered at Liberty Temple, will be known as Liberty Way, will be made at a meeting of property owners and merchants on Sixth street in the green room of the Chamber of Commerce at 4 P. M.

Julius L. Meler, chairman of the decorating committee for the reception of returning soldiers, sailors and marines, will outline the tentative plan contemplated and will be in charge of the meeting.

Representatives of the soldiers, sailors and marines reception and welfare committee will go to Camp Lewis tomorrow and meet with men of the 24th Field Artillery. This unit reached Spokane yesterday and is scheduled to reach Camp Lewis today.

Oregon men in the hospitals at Camp Lewis will also be interviewed to learn if everything possible is being done for their welfare.

Reports have been received by the Portland committee that some soldiers in Camp Lewis are wearing clothing and shoes that show carelessness on the part of some officers. This report will be investigated and if found to be true, proper steps will be taken to remedy this condition.

Report was received yesterday that the 264th Field Artillery, including many Oregon men, left Brest, France, last week and will probably reach New York within a few days.

FLAX BONUS COMES UP

Robert Crawford Seeks $800 From Legislature.

STATE CAPITOL, Salem, Jan. 21.—(Special.)—An echo of the old flax war which waged between Governor Withycombe and Robert Crawford, former superintendent of the prison flax plant, was heard in the House today, when Representative Martin, of Marion, by request, introduced a bill providing for appropriating $800 to reimburse Crawford for a bonus alleged to be due him.

Mr. Crawford was under contract with the Board of Control to manage the flax plant and if he made good to receive a bonus of $800. The Governor decided he had not made good and offered him half of it, but Crawford refused to accept half. Crawford attempted to sue the executive, but his case was thrown out of court.

RATES TO BE CONSIDERED

Northwest Export Committee Will Hold Hearing in Seattle.

The Northwest export committee of the United States Railroad Administration, of which Frank W. Robinson is chairman, is scheduled to hold a hearing at Seattle today in reference to the proposed export and import rates that have been promulgated by the traffic division. Interested shippers and representatives of North Pacific Coast ports will be represented.

Charles B. Moore, chairman of the Commission of Public Docks, and Chief Engineer Hezard, of the commission, will appear in behalf of that body and will also represent the Chamber of Commerce.

for the morning local. Officer Hodges examined the trunk and discovered the liquor. Trunk and all, which was brought here and unloaded at the City Jail.
