

PORTLAND PLANS TO ENTERTAIN EDITORS

National and State Bodies Will Meet Here August 8.

TRIP TO CRATER PROPOSED

Committees Are Named and Visitors Are Promised Three Days Filled With Pleasure.

Arrangements for entertainment of the National Editorial association in Portland were outlined yesterday in a conference of committee members...

During this same period the Oregon Editorial association will convene in Portland. A special committee to lay plans for this convention was named yesterday.

The Portland Press club tendered use of its quarters for sessions and headquarters of the two conventions and the offer was accepted, with thanks, by the general committee.

Editors to Visit Crater. The national association holds a "convention on wheels" and has become something of a custom to get the members together and make a tour, with stops in various cities, where more important sessions are held.

A feature of their visit to Oregon will be a trip to Crater lake, as guests of the Medford commercial club.

W. J. Hofmann is chairman of the general committee supervising all arrangements to extend Oregon hospitality to the editors and C. C. Chapman is secretary. The members are: Mayor Baker, John M. Mann, J. E. Wheeler, John M. Scott, Phil S. Bates, Edgar B. Piper, Robert E. Smith, Fred L. Boalt, L. J. Simpson, Will J. Steel, George M. Cornwall, George H. Himes, Henry L. Corbett, A. C. Jackson, W. P. Strandborg, B. T. McElin, Lloyd Riches, Dr. Henry Waldo Coe and A. C. Gage. Several of the members are from up-state points.

Committees Are Named. The committee which will arrange for entertainment of the Oregon Editorial association is composed of Robert E. Smith, A. C. Jackson and George M. Cornwall.

Other committees thus far selected are: Transportation committee—Edgar B. Piper, J. E. Wheeler, L. J. Simpson. Special features committee—W. P. Strandborg, Fred L. Boalt, A. C. Gage. Finance committee—George L. Baker, John M. Mann, H. L. Ormandy.

Baggage committee—J. L. Ormandy. For members of the national association a general reception will be held Friday night, Saturday the opening business session will be held. During the afternoon all will proceed to Oregon City, where will be dedicated a monument that is to mark the site of the first newspaper established west of the Rocky mountains, the date having been 1846.

Banquet for Women Planned. Women accompanying the editors will be variously entertained, among other things enjoying trips about the city. Saturday night a big banquet will be tendered the guests.

Sunday morning the guests will be taken out the Columbia river highway and at some point to be selected a bear and deer barbecue will be served. Early in the afternoon the editors will leave for Medford Sunday afternoon, returning through Portland on Wednesday. It is expected that Oregon towns through which the editors pass will pull out entertainment stunts calculated to win fame for themselves.

Sessions of the state editorial body will be held on Friday and Saturday.

OCEAN AIR DATA SOUGHT

Experts Study Conditions for Trans-Atlantic Flights.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., March 20.—A party of airmen and meteorological experts from England has arrived here to conduct observations on air conditions in connection with plans for trans-Atlantic flights.

The announcement from England that Harry S. Hawker, one of the leading air pilots of that country, has already shipped a machine to Newfoundland with a view to attempting a flight across the ocean in the near future, aroused great interest here. Dominion officials said they had no information regarding the plan but that they were prepared to accord the aviator every assistance.

LONDON, March 20.—After successful trials of new British dirigibles of the rigid type of construction the government, according to the Mail, has ordered the building of two enormous airships. Each will be 800 feet in length and will have a capacity of 3,000,000 cubic feet. They will be driven by six engines which will generate a total of 1800 horsepower and, it is said, will have a lifting power of 50 tons compared with 25 tons, the largest load carried by any known to be in existence.

OREGON MEN WELCOMED

NEW YORK COMMITTEE DOING GOOD WORK FOR SOLDIERS.

O. C. Leiter Writes Letter to Governor Olcott, in Which He Tells of What Is Being Done.

SALEM, Or., March 20.—(Special.)—Today Oregon's soldiers who return daily from overseas receive a warm welcome in New York, according to O. C. Leiter, chairman for the Oregon welcome committee at New York, who, in a personal letter to Governor Olcott, details some of the things which are being done to make the homecoming of Oregon's sons worth while.

He says: "We are all organized and going now, have opened a modest headquarters and have received some money in addition to the state appropriation. We will handle this very carefully and in accordance with the spirit of the appropriation. The boys are drifting in now 25 and 30 a day, and we are doing all we can to cheer them up and make them realize that the people of Oregon are still with them and back of them."

"I attended a meeting the other day of all the chairmen of state committees in New York. There were 25 states represented, so you see that we are not alone in this work. I believe that we will do some good work. We have done a good deal already. The boys were led to meet Oregon people and to have a little place of their own to go. The women are calling on the wounded men in the hospitals. We help the boys get discharges if they need them from the army and navy. We make little advances to men temporarily out of funds which so far all have been paid back, and we are of as much practical assistance as we can be to them."

Arthur Pratt Dead. SALT LAKE CITY, March 20.—Arthur Pratt, chief special agent for the Oregon Short Line railroad, for 46 years a peace officer in the capacity of chief of police here, deputy United States marshal and warden of the state penitentiary, died at his home here today. He was 66 years old and had been ill for several months. A widow and four children survive.

WELLNER AND CO. HAVE FIRST MEETING

Six-Year-Old Tot Shows Fear of Parent.

PETITION FOR WRIT FILED

Application to Be Consolidated With Equity Proceedings Pending in Circuit Court.

In the private chambers of Presiding Judge Stapleton Vincent F. Wellner saw his son Burton alone for the first time in his life yesterday. The bitter battle of this wealthy South Dakota farmer for custody of the son born of his divorced wife, now dead, had brought him into the circuit court.

By the closed oak door Mrs. Julia Larson, grandmother of the 6-year-old boy, whose petition for his adoption brought Wellner from his middle western farm, sobbed hysterically, clinging to a daughter whose face was wet with sympathetic tears.

Muffled screams of the boy penetrated the courtroom. Mrs. Larson sprang to her feet, rushed to the door and tried to force her way in. Judge Stapleton restrained her.

Child Shows Fear. The door opened, framing the burly form of Wellner. Beads of perspiration stood out on his forehead. The boy was standing at a far corner of the room, rebellious, frightened. Wellner asked permission of the court to have two young playmates of his son go into the room with him to allay the child's fears. It was granted.

The door opened and the chambers opened again. Wellner came out, the boy a short distance behind. Each hand of Wellner grasped the hand of a playmate of his son. The other children went with him trustfully. His own son was sullen and muttered as Judge Stapleton motioned to him, "I don't want to go with him."

"Listen here, son, you mustn't talk like that," declared the jurist. "You're going to be a man some day and you may have to live with your father. You mustn't listen to any judge's tales to sell you things against your father and you mustn't be afraid of him."

The matter came before the presiding judge yesterday on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, made by Wellner. He had been denied such a writ in the federal court, due to lack of jurisdiction, and County Judge Taylor had awarded Mrs. Larson the child's custody. A suit in equity seeking to have the custody of the boy settled was filed several days ago in the circuit court.

Consolidation Agreed On. After a bit of legal argument on the writ, which became quite heated at times, going so far as to lead Attorney Slater to accuse Attorney Guy C. H. Corlies of unprofessional conduct, Judge Stapleton cut matters short with the suggestion that the attorneys get together and consolidate the habeas corpus petition with the equity action and bring matters to a head in the circuit court as soon as possible.

This was agreed to, attorneys for both sides saying they would expedite matters as much as possible. The main question at issue will be the fitness of Wellner to have the custody of his child, and numerous depositions will be taken in South Dakota as to his character and reputation.

In the meantime Judge Stapleton ordered the boy to be kept by his grandmother, stipulating that he not be taken from the jurisdiction of the court at any time.

YIELD INCREASE FORECAST

Resident of Upper Hood River Valley Is Optimistic.

HOOD RIVER, Or., March 20.—(Special.)—M. O. Boe, prominent upper valley orchardist who has been here the past week undergoing treatment at the Cottage hospital, predicts an increase of tonnage of more than 25 per cent for the new fruit district. Except for a few old backward orchards of homesteaders, the orchards of the upper valley are just reaching the full-bearing stage.

While Mr. Boe expects a heavy yield of strawberries, he says the acreage has been reduced slightly the past year because of the scarcity of pickers at harvest time. With the return of good labor conditions the upper valley orchardist predicts an increase in berry planting.

In Celebration of the Allied Victory New and Better Betsy Ross Bread

Betsy Ross was the famous little Philadelphia seamstress chosen by George Washington and Congress to make the first American flag.

To every brave American who has looked to that flag for inspiration, in years past and present, the name of Betsy Ross is full of meaning. She gave us our flag. Also, she typified to us for all time the helpfulness that women bring and the inspiration that women lend in time of stress and trouble.

In celebrating with a new loaf of all-wheat bread the Allied Victory over Germany and our return to the all-wheat loaf of peace times—it seemed to us that we could select no better name for our real "Home-Like" loaf than that of "Betsy Ross."

Not a Substitute Loaf—But a "Real Home-Like" Loaf

Far from being a substitute loaf, Betsy Ross Bread celebrates final abandonment of the use of war-time substitutes. Here is a loaf, furthermore, which has profited from our war-time lessons in bread making. The difficulties of baking with substitutes led us to make researches in baking science which are proving of permanent value to us. The result is that today we are able to produce a finer all-wheat bread than ever before in our history, and you will find Betsy Ross Bread, the final result of our careful study, a better bread in texture, taste and food value.

Buy this "Real Home-Like" Loaf today, and be your own judge.
