In the letter, Commissioner Barbur In the letter, Commissioner Barbur says that the city of Portland stands "face to face with a combine that is attempting to control the price of ma-terials used on public improvements." Mr. Barbur says that several months ago when the city called for bids on sand, gravel and crushed forch, three bids were received and they were iden-tical. Suggestion is made by Commissioner Barbur in his letter to Governor Olcott that should the state land board hold the power of control over the beds of the streams of Oregon, that provision might be made for the licensing of firms and individuals who secure their material from the river beds. Under all alone and has appealed to Mrs. Con-nell of the home-placing department of the juvenile court to find a perma-nent home for a boy, 5, and girl, 8. If possible it is desired to have both children placed in the same home, but this is not absolutely necessary. A permanent home for a boy of 4 years and temporary homes for a girl of 9 and boys of 8 and 9 years are also sought. Persons interested should tele-phone the home-placing department at firms and individuals who secure their material from the river beds. Under this plan he suggests that all firms and individuals be required to furnish sand and gravel to the state, counties and cities at cost of production plus a certain fixed percentage of profit. Under such a plan Commissioner Barbur is certain that the alleged com-bine which he claims is attempting to thwart the city of Portland in its mu-nicipal pavement programme would be broken and Portland and other cities throughout the state would secure ne the home-placing department at Marshall $400 or call at room 548 court-
