

ARMENIAN REFUGEES DYING BY THOUSANDS

330,000 on Border Suffer Unparalleled Horrors.

TYPHUS AGAIN APPEARS

News Sent to New York Famine and Disease Kill One-Seventh of Number Each Month.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Horror among 330,000 Armenian refugees on the border between Russia and Turkish Armenia, "unparalleled among the atrocities of the great war," were described in a cablegram from Dr. A. W. Halsey, commissioner of the Caucasus of the American committee for Armenian and Syrian relief, made public today by the Presbyterian board of foreign missions.

Dr. Halsey asserted that famine and disease were killing the refugees at the rate of one-seventh of the entire number each month and added that typhus had begun making its appearance among the sufferers.

DEATH OF HOUSES REPORTED

Allies Force Turks to Give Up 200,000 Orphans; Food Supply Short.

BY WILLIAM T. ELLIS

CAIRO.—The question of the amount of money the allies will contribute to Turkey as indemnity for having the effect of holding up all building operations throughout the one-time Ottoman Empire, with the result that the housing problem is fast becoming as grave as that of food supply.

Orphans whom the allies are forcing the Turks to give up are overflowing the orphanages, where there is no more room. While the number of these orphans is less than was at first reported, there are known to be about 200,000 of them.

Many Christian girls and women taken captive by the Turks have been delivered to the harem. Strong measures are being taken to obtain their release. They are being taken with other war refugees to centers to be cared for.

Armenians Need More Help

Another question which is causing wide concern is how far American philanthropy is going to the relief of the multitude of wants of the Armenian population here. Americans now are providing tools, transportation and many other needed things. The wants of these people still are vast, although at this time sufficient wheat flour is on hand to meet requirements.

American Red Cross work in Syria has been assumed by the committee of which James L. Barton, American commissioner for relief in the near east, is the head. Mr. Barton has just returned here from an extended overland trip to Constantinople and much of the country tributary thereto and to Cairo. He told me that he found conditions throughout all Turkey extremely unsettled and occasional outbreaks occurring nearly everywhere.

He characterized the general situation as he found it somewhat better than has been reported. He declared one of the big problems concerns transportation and insisted that complete order should be established at once.

He said that unless the peace conference in Paris acts quickly with regard to Turkish problems, the uncertainty of the situation will result in great agricultural losses and the next harvest will fall far short of actual requirements. That will entail foreign relief through another year.

Speedy Peace Is Urged

Mr. Barton urged that there be no immediate territorial decisions with regard to the one-time Ottoman empire by the peace conference, but that temporary control should be vested in a mandatory and a commission appointed to investigate the situation and report for final decisions by the conference. This, he declared, was essential.

In Cairo government employees still are on strike pending a decision with regard to the nationalist demands.

There has been no further trouble, however, and no more attacks against Armenians have been reported. Everywhere the British are caring for the Armenians, who are greatly frightened. Churches have been opened to them. Many Armenians are being cared for in a camp established at Helipolis.

Nationalist students are patrolling the streets here to prevent acts of violence.

Turks say they fear Armenian reprisals and the Armenians declare they fear further Turkish massacre. The British are very busy preventing the Armenians from returning to regions where they will be unprotected.

Meanwhile the British government is spending $1,000,000 a month to relieve Armenian distress in Syria. Many Armenian houses have been destroyed and there is widespread suffering among them.

CHAPMAN EXPECTED TODAY

Former Head of Forest Fire Association on Way Home.

Lieutenant-Colonel C. S. Chapman, who left Portland to enter the President's training camp, from which he was assigned as major to the 10th engineers, is expected in Portland today or tomorrow. He landed at Newport News about two weeks ago.

Colonel Chapman was separated from his regiment after the armistice was signed when the peace commission placed him in charge of the detachment of officers assigned to evaluate damage done by German, French, Serbian and other European forests by the German. Colonel Chapman also saw service during the Spanish-American war.

Prior to his enlistment he was manager of the Oregon Forest Fire association. He was a member of the University club and prominent in other Portland social and civic affairs.

ALBANY CLUB IS REVIVED

New Chamber of Commerce Plans for Future at Banquet.

ALBANY, Or., April 22.—(Special).—The future of Albany's new Chamber of Commerce, which is the old Commercial club revised and enlarged, seemed assured by virtue of the enthusiasm at the opening get-together meeting of the organization here this evening. The meeting showed that the men of the city are united and keenly interested in the work of the chamber.

Frank J. Miller, president of the chamber, former public service commissioner of Oregon, presided at the dinner and gave the opening address. Other speakers were Ben Worland, Astoria, president of the State Horticultural society; Dr. W. H. Davis of Albany; and Rev. George H. Young, pastor of the First Baptist church of Albany and chairman of the Lincoln county chapter of the Red Cross.

ARMY SCHOOL IS BIG ONE

More Than 200,000 Men Enrolled in Various Branches.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—There are 208,000 students on the rolls of the American army educational institutions, according to Raymond Fosdick, chairman of the commission on training camp activities. The A. E. F. university at Bourne has 10,000, about 7000 are attending French universities and 3000 are at British institutions.

The post schools, corresponding to the elementary schools in the United States, are teaching 130,000 and 55,000 are attending divisional schools, which correspond to high schools. In addition, there are about 5500 men in vocational schools.

meanwhile the British government is spending $1,000,000 a month to relieve Armenian distress in Syria. Many Armenian houses have been destroyed and there is widespread suffering among them.
