VIOLIN RECITAL SUCCESS SOCIETY AUDIENCE AT LITTLE THEATER ENTHUSIASTIC.

Portland Soloists Under Leadership of Mrs. Susie Fennell Pipes Attain High Excellence.

BY JOSEPH MACQUEEN. It was quite a musical feat that Mrs. Susie Fennell Pipes accomplished in working out the recital program of excellence before a society audience Saturday night in the Little theater. All available seats were occupied.

Violin recitals are rare in this city—violin recitals at which the soloists are Portland people. Such events have not happened here for years because of the high cost of violin art and a loss of money resulted. Last night's violin recital was therefore quite creditable to Mrs. Pipes, both from a practical and artistic point of view. She worked hard to win such a success, aided by devoted women friends, and it is pleasant to record this triumph.

Mrs. Pipes has studied violin art both in this country and Europe and practices self-denial and hard work to keep herself in constant concert trim. She is today a fine violinist who honors Portland by being one of the best in that line in the Pacific northwest.

In her recital, Mrs. Pipes' tone had a clarity and beauty of color that catches the fancy and holds it captive. Her most difficult number, played with J. E. Hutchinson at the piano, was the Brahms "Sonata, G Major, Op. 78," which received a noble rendition. Its difficulties were also quickly mastered and appealingly interpreted.

The rest of Mrs. Pipes' programme formed a galaxy of charm and tuneful effects, the prettiest being the Tartini-Kreutzer "Variations on a Theme by Corelli," the Tor Aulin "Berceuse," and the Dvorak-Kreutzer "Slavonic Dance."

Mrs. Pipes was cordially accompanied by Mr. Hutchinson played with that magnificence that makes all his piano gems significant for the best that there is.

PHILIPPINE MARKET NEARLY NORMAL

NEW YORK—Conditions in the Philippines, which were considerably disturbed by the inertia which followed the signing of the armistice, are rapidly returning to normal. The chief difficulty was one of exchange, for the cessation of exports brought about an absence of both dollar and sterling bills, while the demand was great because of the shipments from the United States, which began in volume very soon after the first of the year. Now, however, return shipments, particularly of hemp, are being made and normality is in sight. Its return was facilitated by the flotation in the United States market of an issue of $10,000,000 of certificates of indebtedness of the Philippine government.

POPE APPOINTS PRELATES
