proposed use of the Columbia river slough as a gewer outfall for the Peninsula and other districts in the northeast section of the city furnishes an entirely practicable and feasible method for this purpose, acording to a report submitted to the city council yesterday by A. J. Wiley, hydraulic en-

Opposition to the use of the slough on the grounds that the plan was im-practicable, by a large number of prop-erty owners in the Peninsula district led the city council to employ Mr. Wiley and W. C. Brown, the latter bewiley and W. C. Brown, the latter be-ing the engineer who was retained by the protestants to the plan. City En-gineer Laurgnard, who originated the plan of using the slough for a sewage outlet, was the third member of the board. Engineer Wiley was secured from Boist, Idaho, after his selection by the council had been approved by heat Engineer Proven and Laurgard both Engineers Brown and Laurgaard.

Mr. Wiley's Conclusion Summarized. Engineer Wiley's conclusions are as follows:

Indicate where it is conclusions are as follows:
"Columbia river or Columbia slough are the only available outlets for the disposal of the sewage of the Peninsula district of Portland.
"Columbia slough, when provided with the proposed connection to the Columbia river at a point above Union avenue will provide a satisfactory outlet for the sewage of the Peninsula district.
"The capacity of the Columbia slough channel can be increased by enlargement near its lower end to provide for the sewage of an estimated population of 200,000 in the Peninsula district.
"Further increase in the population above the estimated 200,006 can be provided with a sewage outlet into the

"I defy any other industry to point to its record of war co-operation with the United States government with any greater pride or with any cleaner story than can be told by the motion picture industry. The activities of the films in behalf of maintaining the morale of the soldiers abroad and the civilian popu-lation at home are too well known to Perfect Organization. Montans agriculturists have offered Fortland and the lower Columbia river district an opportunity to co-operate in a rate campaign, the realization of which would unquestionably draw con-siderable trade to this region as a nat-ural ocean outlet.
