CITY WILL CONTEST PHONE RATE ADVANCE

Public Service Body Target of Legal Action.

BURLESON DUBBED KAISER

Right of Commission to Fix Rates of Wires Under Control of Government at Issue.

The increase of rates granted to the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company by the public service commission of Oregon will be contested by the city of Portland in the circuit court.

The city council yesterday instructed City Attorney LaRoche to file suit in the circuit court against the Oregon public service commission in behalf of the city of Portland and invite as many individual telephone users as are de-aired to enter the suit with the city. Assistant City Attorney Tomilason. who appeared in behalf of the city at the telephone hearings before the pub-lic service commission, will conduct the city's test case.

City Has Even Break. Mr. Tomlinson told the city council yesterday that there was about an even chance of the city setting aside the order of the commission increasing telephone rates in Portland. He also said that should the telephone lines be retained by the government and the order of the commission be set aside by the courts, the government would be in a position to re-establish the rates, leaving the city powerless to rates, leaving the city powerless to take any further action.

Several jurisdictional points are in doubt, according to Mr. Tomlinson, among them being whether the public service commission has jurisdiction to fix rates or hold rate hearings while telephone lines are in the control of the government.

Legal Question in Doubt. The question of the government's right to fix or dictate intrastate rates is now before the supreme court of the United States for settlement, Mr. Tom-

That the city council should take an active port in behalf of the telephone users and make every effort to set aside the order of the commission and prevent the increase in rates was the attitude of Mayor Baker, concurred in by every member of the city council. Commissioner Barbur suggested that before action be taken a telegram be sent to Postmaster-General Burleson asking him if the government approved the new schedule of rates. Mayor Baker and Commissioner Bigelow opposed this plan, saying the past efforts to secure information from the postmaster-general had been futile and such procedure was merely a waste of

Burleson Dubbed "Kniser."

The council secured an offer of assistance from L. W. Waldorf, who offered to enter the test case as an individual. In his letter to the council he referred to Postmaster-General Burieson as "Kaiser Burleson, who should he treated as other Prussian criminals if he attempted to make any further trouble in this country."

BEAVERTON, Or., May 19 .- (Special BEAVERTON, Or., May 12.—(Special.)

Reports received here this week that the Canyon road will be open for traffic early next week, together with efforts of surveyors to locate a better grade on the Washington county end of this road and the knowledge that the road will be paved this summer, with filled automobile owners with joy and stimulated interest in motor cars. Already the number of garages in Beaverton has increased from two to four and another has announced an opening in the near future.

Side roads are to receive attention at once. John Trachsel has opened up the rock quarry north of town and will soon have a supply of crushed rock to distribute to the road bosses at this end of the county.

Beaverton to Pave Streets.

BEAVERTON, Or., May 19.—(Special.)—Notices have been posted in Beaverton requiring the paving of the Pacific highway to a width of 22 feet through the main part of town, from the Oregon Electric depot to the west side of Watson street. All opposition to the additional width of paving beyond the 16 feet laid by the state highway commission has practically subsided. In addition owners of property on the other principal street, which parallels the highway, will pave a total of ten
