Reply of Allies Declares Sinner Against World Must Suffer.

PARIS, May 23 .- The note from Count regarding the economic effect of the peace treaty, dated at Versailles May 13, was made public today. The 'note

"Mr. President: In conformity with my communication of the 9th instant I have the honor to present to your exhave the homor to present to your ex-cellency the report of the economic commission charged with the study of the effect of the conditions of peace on the situation of the German population. "In the course of the last generation Germany has become transformed from Germany has become transformed from a gricultural state to an industrial state. As long as she was an agricultural state Germany could feed 40,000,000 inhabitants. In her quality of an industrial state she could insure the nourishment of a population of 67,000,000. In 1913 the importation of food-stuffs amounted in round figures to 12,000,000 tons. Before the war a total of 15,000,000 persons provided for their ex-15,000,000 persons provided for their ex-istence in Germany by foreign trade and by navigation, either in a direct or an indirect manner, by the use of fer eign raw material.

Germany Surrenders Much "According to the conditions of the ireaty of peace, Germany will surred der her merchant tonnage and ships course of construction suitable for overseas trade. German shipbuilding overseas trade. German shipbuilding yards will build for five years in the first instance tonning destined for the allied and associated governments. Germany will, moreover, renounce her colonies, all her overseas possessions, all her interests and securities in the allied and associated countries and their colonies, dominions and protecto-rates; will, as an installment of the payment for part of the reparation be subject to liquidation, and may be ex-posed to any other economic war meas-ure which the allied and associated nowers think dit to maintain the powers think fit to maintain or to take during the years of peace.

"By the putting into force of the territorial clauses of the treaty of peace, Germany would lose to the east the most important regions for the pro duction of corn and potatoes, which would be equivalent to the loss of 21 per cent of the total crop of those articles of food. Moreover, the intensity of our agricultural production would diminish considerably. On the one hand the importation of certain raw on the city's books.

diminish considerably. On the one hand the importation of certain raw material indispensable for the production of manure, such as phosphates, would be hindered; on the other hand, this industry would suffer like all other industries from lack of coal. The treaty of peace provides for the loss of almost a third of the production of our coal mines. Apart from this decrease, we are forced for ten years to deliver enormous consignments of coal to various allied countries,

Mineral Loss Large One.

"Moreover, in conformity with the treaty, Germany will concede to her neighbors nearly three-quarters of her mineral production and more than three-fifths of her zinc product.

"After this diminution of her products, after the economic depression caused by the loss of her colonics, of her merchant fiset and of her possessions abroad, Germany would not be n a state to import from abroad a suf-leient quantity of raw material. An important part of German industry would, therefore, inevitably be con-lemned to destruction. At the same time the necessity of importing food-stuffs would increase considerably, while the possibility of satisfying that demand would diminish in the same

Germany would, therefore, not be in a position to give bread to her numerous millions of inhabitants, who would be reduced to earning their livelihood by navigation and by trade. Those persons would have to emigrate, but that is a material impossibility, all the more so because so many countries, and the most important ones, will oppose any Germany immigration. Moreover, millions of Germans expelled from the territories of the powers now at war with Germany, from the colonies and territories which Germany must surrender, tories which Germany must surrender will return to their native land.

whether the delegates of the allied and associated powers realize the insviitable consequences which will take place in Germany. An industrial state very thickly populated, closely bound up with the economic system of the world, and reduced to the obligation to import enormous quantities of raw materials and foodstuffs, suddenly finds herself pushed back in the phase of her development which would correspond to her economic conditions and the numbers of her population as they were half a century ago.
