MEMORIAL SERVICES PAY TRIBUTE TO DEAD

All Denominations Honor Soldiers of Country's Wars.

EVAN B. RHODES SPEAKS

Anxious Days of March, 1918, and Subsequent Victories of Allied Arms Are Recounted.

For those who lie under rows of white crosses somewhere in France, as well as the veteran dead of the wars of '61 and '95, joint memorial services were held at the First Congregational church yesterday. Not far from the pulpit was a flag toward which the eyes of those in the congregation often strayed. It bore many blue stars, but in the center were three

We are here to honor the dead of We are here to honor the dead of three great wars," declared Ivan B. Rhodes, former Y. M. C. A. worker in France, who delivered the memorial ad-dress. "Let us give first place to those who fought from '61 to '65 to preserve a young nation whose experiment in democracy hung in the balance during democracy hing in the balance during four fateful years. Suppose the north had failed and two weak nations survived instead of one atrong. The progress of free peoples would have been retarded for centuries. It was a long and bitter struggle, and some of the comforts and conveniences—if such they may be called—of modern warfare were lacking."

A tribute was then paid to the veteruns of the war with Spain, and the eruns of the war with Spain, and the speaker reached the last great war, of which the United States for three years was but a "horrified spectator." He touched on the disappointment of the allied nations after the United States had made the first glunge into war at the seemingly slow preparations to take part in the strug-gle, the fear of the British and French in the early part of 1918 that they would have to stand the brunt of another winter in the trenches without the assistance of great forces of Amer-

Dark Days Described. A brief description was given of the terrifying days of March, 1918, when the German hordes broke through al-lied lines for tremendous gains, when Foch was made commander-in-chief and received Pershing's offer of all his resources in men and material. Mr. Rhodes carried the story through the days when America sent 300,000 men a month over there, finally stemmed the flood of Germans, and started them back toward Reulin. back toward Berlin.

"There are 50,000 of our men buried on French soll," he said. "But the rows of crosses are not forgotten by those for whom the world was made safe. Their comrades still in France will sep their graves green, and when hey have returned the French people will minister tenderly the flowers and

The objects for which America fought have not been attained until full use has been made of the fruits of victory, "The church is in the balance. It is a large, dominating factor in the life of the nation, and must realize its responsibilities. Schools must turn out real patriots. The spirit of '76, of '61, of '98 and of '17 must not be lost."

Visiting Pastors Assist. Rev. W. W. Willard, pastor of the First Congregational church, called upon Rev. Oliver P. Avery, of the Waverley Heights church, to deliver the invocation. Rev. C. H. TRIBUTE IS PAID TO AMERICAN DEAD IN FRANCE.

Memorial Day Services in Some Cases Close to Line Where Boys Fought and Fell.

PARIS, May 30 .- Not a grave of any American who fell in the great war was overlooked in today's observance of Memorial day. Some of the services were held in the vicinity of the battle line—along which the troops fought and sacrificed their lives—in the ceme-teries where they were laid to rest. Others took place near the hospital centers further back, where those whose wounds finally caused death have been

The two most notable events of th day were at Suresnes, near Paris, and at Romagne, near the Argonne. President Wilson left the peace conference to go to the former place for an address in the American cemetery there, while General Pershing went to Romagne, lear the spot where the Americans sufered their heaviest losses in the fight-ng. The 2500 soldler dead at Romagne were honored by the attendance of a battalion of infantry, a battery of arillery and a regimental band, while similar detachments took part in the exercises at other large cemeteries. After paying tribute to the memory of their fallen comrades, the members of the American expeditionary forces, from the Rhine to the sca, spent-the remainder of the day in taking part in and witnessing athletic events of

"Memorial day is not set apart to elebrate the glories of war, because warfare itself is devoid of glory. The glory in connection with conflict of nations grows out of individual or collective sacrifices made because of the great cause for which the fight is of the Republic.

Such was the message delivered by Bishop Hughes at the exercises held yesterday afternoon at the Auditorium inder the auspices of the Grand Arms

"I am not here today," he said, "as your speaker to sulogize the giories of war. I would as soon sulogize pestilence and famine as I would pay tribute to or attempt to glorify war, as war.

Sherman Told the Truth. "Poets have sung of the glories of war, authors have given vivid descriptions of the glory of battles, but the greatest verbal description of war was given by that great military leader, General Sherman, who said 'War is hell,' And as a Methodist preacher, I hell,' and as a methodist preacher, I will not stand here and en-certainly will not stand here and eu-logize the inferno."

Bishop Hughes said that glory grew out of all that had to do with man-kind's full measure of devotion to our national defense of the traditions which we hold sacred. Glory, he said, also resulted from the motives or great cause which inspired great action and noble endeavor in three American wars, row history. low history.

The Auditorium was filled to capacity at the afternoon meeting. The lower floor was reserved for members of the Grand Army, the Womens' Relief corps, Spanish-American War Veterans, Indian War Veterans, Veterans of the World War, American Legion and the Boy Scout organizations. The balconies were thrown open to the general public. Department Commander T. H. Stevens presided at the meeting. The session opened with an assembly bugle call and closed with the call of taps. The original order creating Memorial day, issued in May, 1868, by General John A. Logan, was read by Adjutant J. W. Ogilbee.

President Lincoln's famous Gettysburg speech was recited by E. R. Lundberg, a member of the United Spanish-American War Veterans.
