

THOUSANDS WITNESS HISTORICAL PAGEANT

Willamette University Stages Story of Oregon.

PAST IS VIVIDLY RECALLED Production Elaborate and Effective

One; All Previous Efforts of the Kind Outdone.

WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY, Salem, Or., June 8.—(Special).—With a throng of more than three thousand persons overflowing the big open-air stadium under the campus maples, the first performance of the great Oregon historic pageant was staged last night with brilliant success.

The pageant, written by Professor Della Crowder-Miller, is being given during the commencement period to commemorate the 75th anniversary of the university.

The performance was given on a huge stage constructed especially for the event, and the natural setting for each scene, as well as the picturesque costumes used by the Indians as well as the white settlers, added color to the scheme.

A total of 23 episodes, besides the prologue and epilogue, were presented during the evening, the parts numbering three.

Wilderness Scenes Revived.

Part one of the production represented scenes in the big wooded mountains, Indians in pagan worship, their journeys to St. Louis in quest of missionaries, the arrival of Jason Lee at Fort Vancouver and the establishment of the first Indian school in the new territory.

A special feature of this part and one of the most picturesque events of the pageant was the Indian festival presented by nearly a hundred students of the Chemawa Indian school, in full dress regalia.

The second part represented the scene aboard the ship Lausanne when the collection of more than $600 was secured to build a school for the white children west of the mountains; the disputes over provisional government in the new territory, and the notable meeting of the Indians and whites, which was decided to stand by the United States government; the founding of Salem, and the laying of the cornerstone of the hall, one of the oldest buildings on the campus.

Climax Proves Effective.

The Willamette of today, the part played by the university men in the great war, the work of the Red Cross, were depicted in a striking manner in the last part. The grand climax of the pageant came at the close, when the entire student-body and faculty occupied the stage and factory in front, the whole scene was brilliantly illuminated and the spirit of Willamette university strikingly represented.

Throughout the entire performance ran suggestions of the self-denial and hardships undergone by the pioneers in the interest of the new school and education, but comedy scenes such as were afforded by General Clark's negro servant at St. Louis, and the appearance of the old-time prairie schooner crossing the plains, removed all possibility of monotony.

Indian War Veterans Assist.

Hundreds of alumni visitors from all parts of the northwest, as well as many pioneers, were among the crowd attracted to Salem by the pageant. One of the most picturesque figures of the event in Major L. Morehouse, former aide of General Sherman, and a member of the Indian war veterans and one of the best authorities on Indian customs in the country. He brought with him his entire collection of beautiful costumes and is assisting in the make-up work of the actors in the pageant.

In addition to the collection owned by Major Morehouse, valuable costumes have been received from all parts of the country for the performance, many of them worth hundreds of dollars. Many heirlooms of early pioneers are also used in the stupendous production.

Great Characters Portrayed.

The interludes in the pageant are filled with orchestra playing under the direction of Professor John R. Sites, and with special tableaux and drills. Some of the leading characters represented in the old production are Jason Lee, founder of Willamette university; Harry Bowers; Anna Lee, his wife; Mabel Garrett; Dr. McLaughlin; William W. Hastings; Horace Ransholf; General Clark at St. Louis; Leslie P. Taylor; the spirit of Willamette university; Florence Shilley; history; Orville Crowder-Miller; literature; Genevieve Sevy; nurse; Virginia Annin; Governor Lane, the first governor of Oregon; Gustave Anderson, governor of Oregon.

At the close of the pageant it was announced that an additional sum amounting to $100 has been given to the fund for the new women's dormitory by commencement visitors.

Salem People Co-operate.

Last night's performance was the first of a series of three, the second time staging it being Monday afternoon. The final presentation of the production will take place Tuesday evening. The university is being assisted by the townspeople in producing the pageant and the Salem Commercial club has lent its hearty co-operation. As a result, last night's performance went out the statement that the pageant promised to exceed, from the point of view of dramatic beauty and historical interest, anything ever staged in the west.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, June 8.—(Special).—Senior honors have been conferred on two men and six girls of Oregon Agricultural college. The students receiving the highest scholastic standing in their respective departments for their entire college course are awarded the honors. The general average for the four years must be 80 per cent or more and election is limited to 10 per cent of the graduating members of a department.

Those honored in the class of 1919 are Leslie Clinton Whitaker, Sacramento; Arthur Lawrence Finlary, Corvallis; Marilla Dunning, Stanfield; Katherine Strone, Junction City; Zelta Belts, Portland; Hazel Garber, Nampa, Idaho; Ruth Vorum, Baker, and Christine Gordon Abbott, Caldwell, Idaho.

PORTLAND ELKS TO FROLIC Annual Picnic Slated for Estacada Park Sunday, June 22.

Plans have been completed for the annual picnic and outing of the Portland lodge, No. 442, Elks and their families to be held Sunday, June 22, at Estacada park. Special trains will be operated from Portland, leaving First and Alder streets at 9:15 o'clock and returning early Sunday evening. Music will be furnished by the Elks band, the all-Elks string orchestra and the famous "Org Four Two Quartet." In addition to every known concession, the Elks will operate a "frontier canyon," where all the known activities of the famous westerners will be duplicated. Sports of all kinds, with prize contests will be conducted; dancing will be continuous throughout the day in the huge pavilion and members of the committee predict that the Elks will have the biggest time in the history of the lodge at this outing.

ICE CREAM SODAS GO UP PRICE NOW 20 CENTS IN SOME PORTLAND PLACES.

There's a Reason for the Advance, Says Hazelwood Manager; Everything but Water Higher.

Those who have a fondness for ice cream sodas are paying still more for them in some Portland places. In fact, the price is now 20 cents. Before cooling drinks were included in the luxury list ice cream sodas sold for a dime.

When the new menus appeared at fountain and confectionery tables there was a 30 per cent increase to 13 cents, which with the war tax added made the price to the consumer 15 cents. But the confectioners say that the increase did not represent the actual increase in cost, so yesterday the price was advanced to 18 cents, plus war tax, total 20 cents.

There is a reason, according to Manager Joyce, of the Hazelwood. Not the least of the items that enter into the cost to the caterer is the breakage of

PORTLAND NURSE IS CITED FOR BRAVERY OVERSEA.

Miss Agnes L. O'Brien, Portland nurse, and sister of Mrs. P. Morrow, 1192 East Taylor street, who is with the army of occupation in Germany, has been cited for bravery work done in the field hospital just back of the front lines during the Chateau-Thierry drive.

Miss O'Brien is with evacuation hospital, No. 28. She left Portland with the University of Oregon hospital company, No. 48, but was transferred to a field hospital immediately after arrival in France. A trip through Germany is described in a letter Miss O'Brien wrote to her sister in Portland recently. "I found Paris a wild city," she writes, "it was a whirl of gaiety while Brussels, on the contrary, is a quiet, beautiful city with wonderful buildings and in no way damaged by the Germans."

LEBANON FAIR IS WINNER WILLAMETTE VALLEY PEOPLE HOLD SUCCESSFUL SHOW.

Strawberry and Rose Displays Draw Big Crowds—Flower Exhibit Star Attraction.

LEBANON, Or., June 8.—(Special).—The tenth annual strawberry fair and rose festival was largely attended by people from all over the Willamette valley and was a complete success.

The display of roses was large and the showrooms were full of the famous Santal valley berries.

The first prize for best commercially packed crate of berries was won by George Beartlien, with Clark's Seedlings; the second prize went to J. O. Scott with Wilsons, and the third to R. F. Fitzwater with Marshalls.

The rose show contest for prizes attracted even more attention than the berries. Carl H. Schubert, of Oregon Agricultural college, judged the exhibit and awarded prizes as follows:

Class A. Marshal Neil—First, Mrs. A. C. Lewis, Carey; second, Mrs. M. A. Clark, Beatty; third, Mrs. E. L. Clark, Frazer; fourth, Mrs. A. M. Reeves, Edward; fifth, Mrs. A. M. BOYS AND GIRLS TO GET SUMMER COURSE

Prize Winners Selected for Corvallis Instruction.

CLUB WORK IS SUCCESSFUL Pupils Selected by State Superintendent Represent Almost Every Section of State.

SALEM, Or., June 8.—(Special).—Superintendent of Public Instruction J. A. Churchill is completing the preliminary arrangements for sending to the summer school at Corvallis the boys and girls who won the capital prizes at the Oregon State fair last September.

At the State fair each year boys and girls contest in about 20 different projects, such as corn growing, potato growing, vegetable gardening, poultry raising, canning and sewing. Four different prizes are given by the state fair management, but the capital prizes in each project is provided for by donations made to Superintendent Churchill by public-spirited men and women of Portland, who are particularly interested in this work.

Whole State Represented. These children come from all parts of Oregon. Shortly after their school closes, they are sent to the Agricultural college for a two weeks' short course with all expenses paid.

This form of prizes serves as a great stimulant to the club work and is a source of inspiration to boys and girls, as the records show that those who have been attending this summer school during the past two years all plan to complete the high school course and to go on to college. The dates for the summer school this year are from June 22 to July 4.

Those who have made contributions to Superintendent Churchill for this work for the past year and have thus made the club work possible are: Union Stockyards company, Union Meat company, International Harvester company, The Oregonian, Telegram, Judge Charles Carey, Portland Seed company, Hicks, Chatten company, Portland Clearing-house association, Meter & Frank company, Routledge Seed company, Western Farmer, A. C. Ruby, Portland Implement & Vehicle club, N. D. Simon, Kerr-Gifford company, A. D. Dewara, M. H. Houser, Albers Brothers Milling company and R. N. Stanfield.
